WILL MAKE FIFTH EFFORT TO RESEAT OUSTED SOCIALISTS

Defeat at Tonight's Session of Assembly Predicted for Opponents of Speaker Sweet.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS ALOOF

Will Take No Part in Rumored Revolt to Bring Hearings to an End.

THEY WILL GO ON TUESDAY

Three Socialists Convicted of Criminal Anarchy in Syracuse Among New Witnesses Subpoenaed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Feb. 1.—Renewed attempts to reseat the five suspended Socialist members will be made in the Assembly, it is expected, tomorrow, but the prediction is made that they will be as fruitless as their predecessors.

Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt's name has been linked with rumored plans for introducing at the session a resolution discharging the Judiciary Committee from further consideration of the cases of the Socialists, and with leading a revolt against Speaker Sweet, but it was learned today that he will not take part in any movement for the Socialists at this time, irrespective of what his opinions on the suspension and hearing may be. Two reasons were given for this determination: First, the futility of contesting the Speaker's power, and, second, the chance that developments at the hearing may throw an entirely different light on the desirability of championing the suspended members.

Action to aid the Socialists after the committee has made its report—if the report is adverse to them—is still possible, and Colonel Roosevelt has been mentioned as the possible leader. Defenders of the Socialists say he could Marshal fifty or more Assemblymen, including some of the leaders. Speaker Sweet, however, is said to have made a canvass of the opposition, and is confident of a large majority.

Assemblyman William C. Amos, a New York City Republican, who has been twice defeated in his efforts to reseat the Socialists, will, it is expected, renew his fight tomorrow night with more resolutions, several of which are already in the hands of the Clerk of the Assembly, but have not been permitted to reach the floor for debate.

Peter W. Collins, director of the reconstruction and employment work of the Knights of Columbus, will be one of the chief witnesses for the Judiciary Committee, which resumes its hearings Tuesday. Mr. Collins was subpoenaed in New York today, just as he was arranging a lecture trip to speak against Bolshevism. Mr. Collins has made a study of Socialism for twenty years. He is a former International Secretary of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and was prominent in Boston labor circles. In connection with his fight on Bolshevism Mr. Collins has come in contact with many Socialist leaders. Mr. Collins will take with him to the hearing data on Socialism which he has collected.

Three Socialists, convicted in Syracuse of criminal anarchy, have also been subpoenaed. The record of their trial will be introduced in evidence and an effort will be made to connect the five suspended Assemblymen with the organization of which they were a part.

Morris Hillquit is not expected to return for the start of the hearing this week. Although he stood up well under the physical strain of the first week of the trial, his associates wish to save him for the hardest part of the fight, which will begin when the committee's lawyers end their case.

The Socialists' counsel plan to place on the stand each of the five suspended Assemblymen—Charles Solomon, Louis Waldman, Samuel De Witt, August Claessens, and Samuel Orr—to explain fully their views on public questions. The four Socialists who as members of other Assemblies voted against the military measures enacted by the Legislature will attempt to explain the reason for their votes.

The Socialists will contend that their votes against appropriations for the National Guard, which the State Constitution makes mandatory, were because they regarded the bills which they opposed as a scheme to give members of the National Guard organizations the difference between their Federal pay and the amount they would have received in the State service.

Mr. Stanchfield will be missing when the hearing is resumed, having gone to New York on legal business which he said might take him until the latter part of next week. Reports that he had quit the case were denied.

Leaders Investigating Protests.

ALBANY, Feb. 1.—Assemblyman Amos tonight announced that he would call up in the Assembly tomorrow his resolution which provides for the seating of the special committee of the New York City Bar Association, headed by Charles E. Hughes, at the hearing before the Judiciary Committee "to protect the public interests."

Assembly leaders tonight were said to be going over the minutes of yesterday's convention in this city of representatives of civic, social, and labor organizations of the State, at which the reseating of the five ousted Socialists was demanded in resolutions which also called for the defeat at the polls of "every member of the Assembly in any way responsible for the un-American, unconstitutional, and indefensible ousting of these duly elected representatives."

Whether the minutes would be introduced as evidence in the investigation could not be learned, although it was indicated such a procedure was not unlikely.

Scuttler of German Fleet Welcomed Home as a Hero

WILHELMSHAVEN, Jan. 31.—Admiral von Reuter, the chief officer of the German Fleet at Scapa Flow, who gave the order for the scuttling of the German warships there last June, arrived here today aboard the steamship Lisboa.

The Admiral, who had been set free by the British authorities, was greeted by thousands along the harbor front, which was brilliantly decorated.

The Chief of the Admiralty, Admiral von Trotha, in his speech of welcome, said to von Reuter:

"I have come here deeply moved to bid you the warmest welcome on behalf of the German Navy and our dear Fatherland.

"You stand before me as the last hero of our German High Seas Fleet, which once was so accustomed to victory. The ships you have not brought home. You at your lonely post gave the order to sink the fleet when you regarded the resumption of war as a fact."

$12,000,000 TAXES ILLEGALLY TAKEN

Internal Revenue Official Says That This Amount Was Overpaid During 1918.

MAY REACH $40,000,000

Representative Watson Will Ask Congress for Appropriation to Refund to Taxpayers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Federal Government has illegally collected $12,000,000 in taxes for the calendar year 1918, according to a statement made to Representative Henry W. Watson of Pennsylvania by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Because of the complicated system of making returns it is estimated by officials in the Internal Revenue office that the illegal collections and overcharges for 1919 will reach at least three times those for the previous year.

In the opinion of Mr. Watson, who has investigated the condition, the overcharges in the last two years will reach $40,000,000. Under a procedure of the Government, Mr. Watson said, no attempt is made to refund the overcharges until three years after the mistakes have been made. Mr. Watson sought unsuccessfully to learn what the overcharges have been since 1913 and when the Government would offer to return the amounts illegally collected from taxpayers.

The Treasury statement, Mr. Watson said, does not show that the Government is carrying these illegally collected tolls as liabilities, and there is no record to show what amounts have been wrongly collected and what the Government has done with the overpaid taxes. In order to bring the subject before the House Mr. Watson intends to offer a resolution requesting the Internal Revenue Commissioner to furnish the House with the amounts of the overcharges since 1913. He will follow that with a bill ordering the Government to repay the overcharge collected.

"When taxes are paid into the Treasury," said Mr. Watson, "money cannot be withdrawn without an appropriation made by Congress. It seems to be the policy of the present Administration to delay the audits, and thus bring the refunding taxes under the three-year law, which then requires an appropriation.

"A case came to my notice some days ago which serves as a concrete example. A citizen paid his income tax in June, 1917, which was found by the Auditor to be several hundred dollars in excess. Two and a half years later he received a notice from the Treasury Department as follows:

"'Refunding taxes illegally collected hereafter to be made when an appropriation is made,' and stamped, 'This claim will be paid when Congress makes an appropriation therefor, the original appropriation having lapsed. Correspondence in regard to same is unnecessary.' It is quite apparent why correspondence is not invited. These claims should be approved by the Auditors within the three fiscal years in order to avoid the delay of an appropriation. It is not fair nor just to the taxpaying public for the Government to retain moneys paid into the Treasury beyond a reasonable time for adjustment.

"There is another side. The amount due the Government through errors in the income tax returns for the year 1918 shows between three and four hundred millions of dollars. Although all of the returns have not been duly audited, errors of over a million dollars in single returns have been discovered, which amounts naturally accrued to the advantage of the Government. The Treasury Department has expended $12,000,000 in examining the 1918 returns. While this sum is large, the investigations have revealed enormous amounts due the Government, as above stated. There should be a feeling of confidence between a Government and its people in order to develop and maintain a powerful nation. It is as important for the Government to meet its obligations promptly as it is for individuals. I will, therefore, urge an appropriation in the next Deficiency bill to meet the amounts due the taxpayers that are found to be illegally collected."

Soviet Authorizes Co-Operatives To Trade With Foreign Countries

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Russian co-operatives headquarters at Paris has received authorization from the Soviet Government to transact business with foreign countries. The announcement read as follows:

"The Soviet Government permits the Central Union of Russian Co-Operatives to enter into commercial relations with the co-operatives and business firms of Western Europe, America and other countries.

"The Soviet Government has given the Central Union all guarantees concerning the protection of goods exported and imported by the co-operatives.

"The Central Union is ready to commence exchanges immediately.

"The Soviet Government will allow to pass safely delegates coming to and leaving Russia whose names are furnished by the representatives of the Russian co-operatives of Central Europe."

ZERO NIGHT FIRES KILL 7 AND DRIVE OUT 200 FAMILIES

Six Smothered to Death in One Apartment, Four Not Even Awakening.

MANY SAVED BY JUMPING

Pneumonia Patient Dropped Into Life Net—Telephone Girls Defy Danger.

Seven persons perished and more than thirty were rescued by the heroic efforts of firemen and policemen in the usual series of zero-weather fires in this city and vicinity yesterday. The death list included an entire family of six persons who were suffocated in their rooms in a tenement at 378 Fifteenth Avenue, Newark, before assistance could reach them. The seventh person perished in the same fire.

Twelve persons, including a pneumonia patient and a small baby, were saved from death in the Newark fire by spectacular dives into life nets held by the firemen. Seventeen other persons were saved, some of them by a young fireman on probation, at a fire at 57 West Twelfth Street, where hundreds applauded the rescuers as they swarmed over the building, human-fly fashion.

More than 200 families were driven into the bitter cold in thirty fires, and many women and children were taken to hospitals suffering from exposure. Max Harzala, the pneumonia patient who dropped into the life net in Newark from the third floor, was so affected by the shock that physicians in the Newark City Hospital doubted last night that he would recover.

The Newark tenement was a three-story frame building with no fire escape, and the fire had spread from the cellar to the second floor before it was discovered. Before persons living on the lower floors could warn the families on the two upper floors they were forced to leave the building to save their own lives. Four of the seven persons who perished were suffocated in their sleep.

The dead were Mrs. Jennie Petty, 40, a widow; James Chambers, 52, her brother; Mabel Petty, 18; George Petty, 13; Ethel Petty, 10; William Petty, 8 and Henry Meyer, 60.

Flames Fill Stairway.

The flames soon filled the stairway, trapping the sleepers in their rooms before they knew of the danger. As soon as they were roused, they realized the impossibility of reaching the street by the stairway and sought escape through the windows, most of them successfully.

On the second floor were William Trautman, his wife and their 14-months-old son, William, Jr. They hurried to a back window, from which Mrs. Trautman jumped. Then her husband tossed the baby safely to Mrs. Trautman and dropped to the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Cresto, also on the second floor, escaped similarly with their two children from a front window. Frank Adasyk, 15 years old, fell upon a sidewalk fruit stand and was injured internally. Max Harzala, 31, was ill of pneumonia on the third floor. Three other men who lived with him dropped him into a fire net. He suffered from shock and was taken to the City Hospital.

The firemen quickly got the flames under control. On the third floor, at the top of the stairway, they found Meyer's body. In the rooms of the Petty family Mrs. Petty and her eldest daughter, Mabel, lay on the floor, dead from suffocation, although their rooms had not been touched by the flames. In their beds were the other members of the family. They had not even awakened before death.

Climb Front of Building.

With the temperature at 4 degrees below zero, firemen at the burning building at 57 West Twelfth Street thawed out their stiff hands at the grates of their steamers and climbed up the front of the four-story brownstone dwelling to rescue the forty persons who were in the house when the fire started. More than twenty of these persons, many of them women, escaped without assistance, but seventeen were taken out by the firemen by tricks that astonished a large crowd of spectators.

When the first engine company arrived Captain Stephen McKenna discovered three women clinging together on a window ledge at the fourth floor. Through the smoke and flames he could

Polish Army Outfitted With American Uniforms

PARIS, Feb. 1.—One hundred carloads of American war materials, purchased from the American Army, have arrived in Poland. The goods are being used to outfit the Polish Army. The army material has been supplemented by an issue of underwear, socks, and sweaters provided by the American Red Cross.

A new levy of 300,000 men is being outfitted almost entirely with American Army uniforms, including overseas caps. A half-million pairs of American Red Cross socks and a quarter of a million sweaters were distributed in December.

American uniforms are being worn by most of the Polish Army at the front. Seventy thousand men of the army either are American born or naturalized Americans.

INFLUENZA DROPS; OPTIMISM FEARED

Copeland Gives Warning Against Relaxing Any of the Precautions Taken.

3,991 NEW CASES REPORTED

Health Commissioner Acts to Prevent Strike of Apartment House Firemen.

Although only 3,991 new influenza cases were reported yesterday up to 10 A. M., 904 fewer than on Saturday, Dr. Copeland said that a similar decrease in Chicago had been followed by a higher death rate, and that it was therefore desirable that the people of New York should continue vigilant, and not relax any precaution that had been taken. There were 146 fewer cases of pneumonia reported yesterday than on Saturday, and 19 fewer deaths from influenza and 17 fewer deaths from pneumonia. The need for nurses still continues great. About fifty women will begin training tomorrow at the Board of Health Building in the emergency nursing school which has been established.

The new cases and deaths from influenza and pneumonia in the boroughs yesterday were:

Health Commissioner Copeland intervened yesterday in the strike which had been called for today by the engineers and firemen of hotels, apartment houses and office buildings. The negotiations between the men and their employers had failed because of the unwillingness of the latter to recognize the union. Dr. Copeland promised a meeting of the men yesterday afternoon at the Central Opera House, Sixty-seventh Street, near Third Avenue, that he would not "invite" the owners to confer with the workers, but would tell them to. He explained that the Sanitary Code gave the Commissioner authority to go into Court as the accuser of any landlord or hotel owner who failed to provide heat, a condition which might be the result of a strike.

The 2,000 men who attended the meeting resented suggestions of moderation from their leaders. William Kehoe, business agent of the engineers, said the hotel owners had promised to write a letter embodying a promise to pay the scale of wages demanded by the men, but that no such letter had arrived. Timothy Healey, President of the Firemen's Union, said he would not ask another postponement this morning, but would be with the men if they decided to strike this morning. He was cheered. The promise of Michael Murphy to get the coal hoisters to go out in sympathy and the advice of Thomas Bagley to "fight the other fellows" were applauded.

Commissioner Copeland told the meeting that hand workers were "entitled to the same life and prosperity as John D. Rockefeller," and that it was the right of workers to organize. He said the trouble between the owners and the engineers had been brought to his attention first by William L. DeBost, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and Douglas M. Cruikshank, representing the real estate interests, and that later he had conferred with Frank A. K. Boland and Mark A. Cadwell of the Hotel Men's Association, and William T. Ropes, representing the Building Owners and Managers' Association.

"These men," continued Dr. Copeland, "agreed to come to me with a definite proposition. They did so, and I claim that I am authorized to bind them to it and to make it very uncomfortable if they fail to live up to it. They promise that they will give the scale of wages demanded—$39 for engineers, $33 for firemen and $30 for coal passers. If they do not comply and the heat in their buildings runs low, they will be brought into court with the Health Commissioner as their accuser.

"We are in an epidemic, the health of the people is at stake, and I can't permit you to shut down the fires. If you refrain from striking I promise that I will put the full force of the Sanitary Code upon the hotel keeper and the apartment house owner who does not keep the pledges made, and I will see that they are carried out to the letter."

Timothy Healey asked the Commissioner whether he would serve as mediator to bring the owners and workers together and whether he would present

CAPITAL TAKES GREY AS SHOWING READINESS TO ACCEPT RESERVATIONS; SAY LLOYD GEORGE CABLED APPROVAL

BRITISH WELCOME LETTER

Grey Thought to Have Made a Powerful Appeal to America.

GARVIN WOULD GO FURTHER

Let America Bring Over a Whole Shipload of Reservations, Says Observer Editor.

FEELING HAS BEEN STRAINED

Ambassador's Analysis of the Situation Here Serves to Relieve the Tension.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 2.—Viscount Grey's letter is described by The London Times as a communication probably unique in the history of diplomacy. It is heartily welcomed by the serious-minded people here as most opportune at a time when, as The Westminster Gazette says, "mischief-makers are active in fomenting ill-will between Great Britain and the United States."

The Daily Telegraph welcomes Lord Grey's letter as being opportune. "At the present time," The Telegraph says, "it is the truth that international feeling as between this country and the United States is showing the effect of various influences which tell against an unclouded friendship, and it is as useless to ignore that truth as it is mischievous to overstate it. Only good can come in these circumstances from the personal intervention of a public man who commands respect, we think, in equal measure on both sides of the Atlantic. Lord Grey addresses himself to one aspect only of that condition of irritability which has arisen and which will pass, we believe, as such conditions in Anglo-American relations have passed before.

"He deals with what is liable to be misunderstood here in the attitude of the United States towards the League. There are other aspects. There is, for example, the quite unveiled attempt of the Sinn Fein and its American connections to bring about by any and every means a state of sharp antagonism which would stop short of nothing between the two peoples. That activity, of course, is absolutely without a counterpart on our side, but that only makes it more difficult to bear defamation without some feeling of bitterness.

"There is, again, the effect produced by the realization here that American cooperation in the task of repairing the economic chaos left by the war will be severely limited, as Mr. Glass has made finally clear. There is nothing in his statement, regarded as a declaration of policy, to which any European people has a right to take exception. What has, however, inevitably been noted, is that Mr. Glass's communication could have made the same announcement in a manner revealing more sympathy for the peoples whose condition is felt here to be disastrous and pitiful in the highest degree. It is useless, we say, to ignore such facts. To face them, to understand them, and to help American opinion to an understanding of our own points of view is the only course which promises improvement. Lord Grey's letter is a very important contribution to this work of mutual enlightenment as regards the question of the League and the American attitude towards it."

Would Allow Us Our Own Time.

The Daily Mail says of Lord Grey's letter:

"It is a wise and timely contribution to the maintenance of sympathetic relations between this country and the United States. It is worthy of the deep consideration of every thoughtful citizen in these islands. Because this country has so much in common with the United States in language, tradition and outlook, we are apt to forget there are real and vital differences between the British and United States Constitutions.

"Moreover George Washington's solemn charge 'to avoid European entanglements' has seemed sufficient guidance for his countrymen until now and it is not at all wonderful if the Americans are slow to believe that new conditions make it wise or necessary to depart from Washington's advice by entering hastily into a League of Nations.

"Bearing this in mind, all the circumstances point to the necessity of a fuller understanding and patient forbearance as the proper qualities of the sane and manly attitude of this country toward the United States. The United States will, no doubt, in time be a member of the League. Her partnership in indispensable to a complete barrier against future war. If America stands out, the old international diplomatic routine will resume its sway. We know what that means. America knows what that means. For despite the century and a half of abstention from European conflicts it brought her into the European war. The logical conclusion and completion of America's participation in the war is her full and whole-hearted co-operation in the League. Nothing but the League can harvest the peace and bring it home

Pittman, Administration Senator, Says When Powers Approve Reservations They Should Be Adopted

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Feb. 2.—Senator Pittman of Nevada, a prominent Administration Democrat, early this morning gave THE NEW YORK TIMES this statement on Lord Grey's letter:

"I think that Lord Grey has performed a great service to the world and that his frank and fearless statement of existing conditions has done much to bring about a better feeling and early consummation of the league for peace.

"Lord Grey has made great concessions, but it is a mistake to construe his statement as an absolute acceptance of all of the Lodge reservations. Confident that there can be no League of Nations without the participation of the United States, and being equally confident that the world will be again plunged into war unless we have a league for peace, Lord Grey urges that the United States be accepted as a member upon almost any terms, trusting that political conditions will change and that with it the American people will demand that their Government assume and bear its honorable burdens for world peace.

"Yet this construction must be qualified by his firm and unequivocal statement that 'the self-governing dominions are full members of the league. They will admit, and Great Britain can admit, no qualifications whatever of that right.' The Lodge reservation 14 does qualify this right, asserted on behalf of the British dominions. It is apparent that there would be little danger that the Senate reservations would not be accepted by Great Britain if reservation 14 were modified so as to be effective only in matters affecting the interests of the United States. Unfortunately, the majority in the Senate have, time and again, refused to accept this, or any other, modification of the Lodge reservations.

"For this reason Lord Grey suggests that the difficulty be solved by allowing the United States six votes in the League. This would, of course, be perfectly agreeable to the United States, provided that its voting powers were not reduced by a grant of an equal increased vote to other great powers. There does not appear to be any reason why these other great powers should not have, or will not demand, an equal increase in voting power. Without such increase it is improbable that there would be any agreement for an increase in the vote of the United States, unless the same right were granted these other powers. In such a case the United States would be worse off than it is under the present terms of the covenant. So this plan is impracticable. Unless our reservations were accepted by the other nations, their adoption would only postpone the death of the treaty.

"Whenever we receive satisfactory assurances that reservations we may adopt will be accepted, not only by Great Britain, but by the other great powers, then we will be justified in voting for such reservations, no matter how much they may detract from the effectiveness of the League, rather than have the treaty defeated by the stubborn cry or political ambition of any group of men.

"While Lord Grey's suggestions with regard to the increased vote seems impracticable, in my opinion, if the suggestion with regard to the modification of reservation 14 were followed by those who control the situation an early settlement could be reached."

Lodge to Call Up Treaty; Will Forestall Hitchcock

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Senator Lodge will serve notice tomorrow in the Senate that he will ask unanimous consent at an early date to bring up the treaty for consideration. Should he fail to obtain such consent he will ask for suspension of the rules to enable the treaty to be brought forward. A two-thirds vote would be necessary to carry that motion.

Democratic Senators who are anxious to see the treaty disposed of by the Senate will contribute support to the motion, which is expected to pass.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—A profound impression has been created in Washington by the letter of Viscount Grey of Fallodon, Special Ambassador of Great Britain to the United States, in which he gives his impressions of American sentiment concerning the League of Nations covenant.

While Lord Grey asserts that his observations regarding the American attitude represent only his own personal opinion and are simply given as those of a private individual, there is the strongest belief here that before publishing his letter he submitted it to the London Foreign Office and members of the British Cabinet.

Republican Senators who have been in the thick of the treaty fight asserted that the Grey letter merely confirmed them in what they had known for some time, namely, that Britain and France would be willing to have the United States enter the League on its own terms and with the Lodge reservations as reported from the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. Democrats generally were reticent, but were inclined to regard the letter as likely to become an important factor in the present effort to break the deadlock in the Senate.

While it is too early correctly to gauge the ultimate effect of the Grey letter, it is asserted by reservationists that it opens a way for the President to reach a compromise with the Republicans of the Senate over the League project, and that if he should fail to avail himself of this opportunity, the effect would be to strengthen the fight for the defeat of the treaty unless the Lodge reservations were accepted.

Careful canvass of the situation in the light of Lord Grey's written revelation that he would be willing to accept the treaty with the Lodge reservations developed some very important facts which would probably not have been disclosed at this time but for the publication of the Special Ambassador's letter. One of the most striking developments here tonight is the fact that many Senators were found who were as familiar with the position of Lord Grey as if he had not written his letter to The London Times. One Senator after another was found who stated that he had been in conference with Lord Grey in connection with the latter's efforts to obtain a correct view of American sentiment toward the treaty and the League project.

Lord Grey, it was learned, had many informal talks, not with a few, but with many Senators. He talked with Republican and Democratic Senators and with men of varying shades of sentiment on the treaty. While many Senators tonight stated that they had engaged in conference with Lord Grey, individual Senators did not care, for reasons of their own, to be quoted to that effect, though there were Senators who did not object to the fact becoming known that there had been such conferences. Lord Grey talked with the leaders of both sides, including Senators Lodge and Hitchcock, as well as with others not quite so prominent in the fight.

Showed Lloyd George Message.

It is learned that Lord Grey himself made it very plain to different Senators that the British Government was willing to accept the reservations, and even the Lodge reservations, which have served as the basis for the treaty fight in the Senate, would be acceptable to the British Government. Lord Grey was in close touch with the British Foreign Office while he was sounding the Senators, and it can be stated that to some Senators he has exhibited at

ALLIES DEMAND GERMANY'S CHIEFS

Hollweg, Hindenburg, Ludendorff, Falkenhayn, Tirpitz, and Capelle on List.

CROWN PRINCE WANTED, TOO

Also Prince Oscar of Prussia—Doubt in London Culprits Will Be Surrendered.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Chief of the General Staff of the German Army; General Ludendorff, Chief Quartermaster General, and General Falkenhayn, his predecessor, are included in the list of war criminals which will be handed to Germany on Feb. 10, according to information the Matin says it obtains from an authoritative source. The Matin declares further that it knows the name of the Crown Prince is on the list.

But still more striking is a declaration that Belgium has demanded the surrender of former Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, and that England has put in a requisition for Admiral von Tirpitz. Field Marshal Mackensen, Prince Oscar of Prussia, Admiral von Capelle, and Admiral von Scheer are also named by the Matin.

The Matin says that the presence of these names in the list explains the extraordinary efforts of the German Government to avoid the treaty obligation of handing over these accused men.

"These are the principals among the guilty whose punishment the Entente intends to bring about," says the editor of the Matin. "There should be no astonishment that the Allies have sought out the men really responsible. We do not wish to be faced with an impasse which would occur when a Colonel or Major told our courts that he had simply carried out orders. We will try the Colonel and the General who gave him his orders. That is the best way.

"We know that Germany is going to try to get out of handing over these men. But if she refuses to execute her engagements she automatically relieves the Allies from all promises they have made."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 2.—The Daily Chronicle's Parliamentary correspondent writes:

"There is no reason to regard the list of prominent war criminals published by the Echo de Paris as apocryphal. Its publication attracts less interest in Whitehall than the problem of bringing the accused to trial. In view of the difficulty of doing this and the improbability of success through extraditionary process, it is regarded as a little invidious to publish the list at all.

"It is understood that the attitude of the German Government toward the demand of the Allied Supreme Council is one of passive acquiescence, accompanied by the counter-proposition 'How is it to be done?'

"The German Government made it clear that in their opinion they cannot give effect to the allied demand except at the cost of a counter-revolution. In other words, they have declared themselves powerless in the present state of public opinion to enforce the allied request for production of even the most notorious offenders against the rules of civilized warfare.

"Supposing the accused, or any of them, could be brought to trial, it is proposed that this should take place in occupied territories, that being the nearest approach to a neutral venue that could be devised."

GLASS AND BRITISH IN ACCORD ON LOANS

Secretary Makes Public Charge d'Affaires's Letter to Show "Substantial Agreement."

DIPLOMAT GIVES ASSURANCE

Asserts It Is Contrary to British Policy to "Incur Fresh Indebtedness in the United States."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—When Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass issued his letter to Homer L. Ferguson, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, asserting that the Government was opposed to the extension of further loans to European countries, he had the assurance of the British Government that "it is entirely contrary to the policy of the British Treasury to incur fresh indebtedness in the United States."

The latter direct statement was contained in a letter sent on Jan. 13 to Secretary Glass by R. C. Lindsay, the British Chargé d'Affaires in Washington, and which was made public today by Mr. Glass with the permission of Mr. Lindsay. Mr. Glass issued simultaneously a statement in which he said that the letter shows "substantial agreement between the two Governments with respect to finance."

The developments today placed a somewhat different aspect upon the letter which Secretary Glass sent to Mr. Ferguson and in which the Secretary set forth the views of the Treasury Department toward the calling of an international conference to determine a program for the rehabilitation of the world's finances.

Mr. Glass's statement follows:

"With the permission of the British Chargé d'Affaires I take pleasure in making public the attached copy of a letter received from him. It shows substantial agreement between the two Governments with respect to finance. The British Government does not contemplate fresh borrowing in the United States and, on the other hand, does contemplate relief measures like that which I have recently proposed to the Committee on Ways and Means."

Text of Mr. Lindsay's Letter.

Here is the text of Mr. Lindsay's letter to Secretary Glass:

British Embassy,
Washington, Jan. 13, 1920.

Sir—I am desired by my Government to make the following statement to you:

In view of repeated allegations in the press that the British Government desires to borrow large sums in the United States, his Majesty's Government states that, as has been explained more than once in the British Parliament, it is entirely contrary to the policy of the British Treasury to incur a fresh indebtedness in the United States. Since June, 1919, the whole expenditure of the British Government in the United States was financed without fresh borrowing, and the first steps have been taken to reduce outstanding indebtedness. The loan issued in the market on Nov. 1, 1919, by the British Government was issued for the purpose solely of meeting maturing indebtedness.

Some confusion seems to have arisen out of the fact announced in the press both in Great Britain and the United States that least one telegram from Premier Lloyd George in which the latter indicated the Lodge reservations as voted on in the Senate on the closing day of the special session, would be accepted by the British Government.

From different Senators it is learned that Lord Grey took the same position that he has set forth so clearly in his letter. It is learned that Lord Grey made it plain that neither he nor his Government was concerned over the Monroe Doctrine reservation, nor worried about the famous reservation under Article X. of the League covenant, and in fact that the only one of all the Lodge reservations that was represented by the special Ambassador as occasioning real concern was that known as Reservation No. 14, dealing with the votes of the British colonies in the League assembly. So far as England herself was concerned, the various Senators gathered from their talks with Lord Grey, she was not worried about Reservation No. 14, but it was felt that it might give rise to some difficulty in the self-governing dominions of the British Empire if they were deprived of their votes in the League assembly. In his letter Lord Grey makes it plain that the British object is to maintain the status of self-governing dominions and "not to secure a greater British than American vote, and we have no objection in principle to increase of the American vote." Lord Grey's suggestion in this respect is interpreted as pointing the way for bringing about an amendment of the League project so as to meet the American objection to the six-to-one vote plan and at the same time satisfying the dominions in the British Empire.

Willing to Trust Us.

Despite the bitterness and vigor with which the fight has been waged in the Senate over Article X. of the League covenant it is learned tonight that Lord Grey, in his talks with Senators, Democrats as well as Republicans, made it plain he was not worried over the possible adoption of the Lodge reservation which provided that the United States should assume no obligation to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any one country or to interfere in controversies between nations under the provisions of Article X., or for the employment of American naval and military forces without the vote of Congress. In fact, it was learned tonight that Lord Grey in his talks had asserted his belief that the American Government and people would never hesitate to do what they considered right and proper should the civilization of the world be threatened, and also asserted that he was satisfied this country would do the right thing in an emergency, just as it had done when it threw its strength into the war against Germany.

As Senators learned these things from Lord Grey as to his attitude, as well as that of his Government, toward the pending reservations, it is assumed that information of this identical sort has also reached President Wilson. While Senators apparently kept their lips sealed until tonight, it seems improbable that so many Senators, including even Democratic leaders in the Senate, should have learned such facts from Lord Grey's own lips without bringing that information to the President's attention.

Senator Lodge declined tonight to make any comment whatever on the statements made by Lord Grey. He will deal with the matter in his own fashion at a later date, probably in a speech in the Senate.

There is every reason for the statement that Lord Grey's views came as no more of a surprise to Senator Lodge than to some other members of the Senate, who asserted without equivocation, but without being willing to permit themselves at this time to be quoted, that they were in possession of evidence that the British and French Governments would not reject the Lodge reservations, if adopted by the Senate, and submitted by the President through the State Department.

What adds to the importance of Lord Grey's letter is the fact that he is still in the diplomatic service of the British Government and still holds his commission as Special Ambassador to the United States. This was definitely learned from an official of the State Department tonight. Lord Grey has merely returned to London on a leave of absence. In the absence of advices to the contrary American officials expect his return to the United States.

Think All Reservations Accepted.

Republican leaders construe the Grey letter as meaning that he would accept the Lodge program of reservations in its entirety. As to the Lodge reservation No. 14, which covers the question of the British Dominions being granted votes sufficient to give the British Empire six votes to America's one in the Assembly of the League of Nations, Republican leaders interpret Lord Grey's letter as meaning that he was ready to see the United States given as many votes as the British Empire. One prominent Republican Senator said tonight he construed the Grey letter as coinciding with the principle involved in the Lodge Reservation No. 14 and pointed to Lord Grey's concluding sentence:

"Our object is to maintain the status of the self-governing dominions, not to secure a greater British than American vote, and we have no objection in principle to increase of the American vote."

Whatever may be the attitude of the White House tomorrow or later in the fight, it can be stated on good authority tonight that no steps have yet been taken by the American State Department to ascertain whether Lord Grey spoke for the British Cabinet. As Lord Grey is a Special Ambassador who is still accredited to the United States Government, it would be perfectly proper for the American Government, should President Wilson so elect, to address a diplomatic inquiry to the British Government, asking whether his views are representative of those entertained by the British Government.

It was asserted in an authoritative quarter tonight that the American Government so far had not sought by negotiation to ascertain the attitude of any of the allied Governments toward the Lodge or any other reservations proposed or pending in the Senate. All the best obtainable information indicates that the President has been standing firmly by his previously announced position in opposition to the Lodge reservations.

The Letter Well Timed.

It is considered more than mere coincidence that Lord Grey timed his letter for publication until after it had become definitely known that the bipartisan conferences of Republican and Democratic Senators had collapsed. Lord Grey is believed to have awaited patiently the outcome of these bipartisan conferences in the hope that milder reservations would result.

Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Administration supporters of the covenant in the Senate, is in Omaha and his views concerning the Grey letter are eagerly awaited by other Senators.

Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, who is opposed to ratification of the treaty, confined his comment to a single sentence:

"It is interesting," said Senator Knox, "to note that Lord Grey recognizes the existence of an American public opinion independent of the White House."

Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, who is a candidate for the Democratic leadership in the Senate, expressed the opinion that the treaty should be ratified now.

"I think the important question before the American people now," said Senator Underwood, "is the ratification of the treaty. I think that the time has passed when we should stand on individual views on how the treaty should be ratified. Everybody interested should be prepared to make concessions, yielding their own views to the extent that is necessary to secure the ratification of the treaty and closing up of war conditions.

"I read Lord Grey's statement in the morning paper and I judge he reflects the sentiment of the English people behind him and the sentiment in which 90 per cent. of the American people are in accord, and that is that we want to consummate the peace of the world, and do it now."

The attitude of the Lodge reservationists was interpreted by Senator New of Indiana, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. New was one of the Republican participants in the recent series of bi-partisan conferences on the Peace Treaty, and was extremely active in endeavoring to find a common ground for compromise.

Senator New said this evening that he considered the letter of Lord Grey a very important document and that he would ask the Senate's permission tomorrow to publish it in its entirety in the Congressional Record.

"Viscount Grey's letter," said Senator New, "evidences an understanding—in fact, the best understanding—of the American situation that has yet found expression to the American public. His statement must, in the very nature of things, be accepted as a revelation of the real British position. The Grey letter can be interpreted in only one way, and that is that the British Empire concedes the soundness of the American position and is willing to accept the reservations suggested by the Foreign Relations Committee. Viscount Grey's expression as to the equality of voting strength in the League assembly not only defines but concedes the soundness of the American contention on that very vital point. There is one place where it is to be hoped his letter will be read and regarded, and that is at the White House.

"The truth is that we have experienced less trouble with our allies than with our own Administration in the matter of trying to obtain a satisfactory settlement. This letter of Viscount Grey, in spite of the fact that he said it represented his own personal view, must, I think, be interpreted as reflecting the view of responsible leaders in the British Government. Of course Viscount Grey's letter speaks his own personal view, but does any thinking man suppose Viscount Grey would give such a letter as that to the public without having obtained the views and possibly the permission of his own Government?"

Like Senator Hitchcock, Senator Owen, one of the most active promoters of the recent conciliatory conferences, is out of the city, and Senator Walsh of Montana, who yesterday gave notice in behalf of Senator Hitchcock that a motion to take up the Peace Treaty in the open Senate would be made on Feb. 10, is confined to his bed by illness. Some other Democratic Senators showed reticence when they were asked to interpret the effect of Lord Grey's communication.

Senator Harding of Ohio said:

"I think Viscount Grey makes a very fair statement. He says, what a good many of us have known for some weeks, that the leading statesmen of Europe are quite willing to accept the entrance of the United States into the League on the terms provided, and the reservations adopted by the Senate. It ought to remove the obstinacy which has stood in the way of ratification which the country would willingly accept."

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin said:

"I am very much pleased with Lord Grey's letter. He makes it very plain that the reservations adopted by the Senate will be acceptable to the British Empire, and that being so, it should make it very much easier to reach an agreement when the treaty again comes up on the floor."

Senator Thomas of Colorado said:

"I think it is the most timely, conservative, and valuable contribution that has been made to the discussion of the subject, one of the best and most statesmanlike expressions. I do not think it will have any effect so far as the ratification of the treaty is concerned."

Senator Pomerene of Ohio said:

"Lord Grey shows a very intimate knowledge of American conditions. His statement confirms the thought I have entertained for months, that is, if the treaty is ratified with reasonable reservations they will be accepted by the associated powers. It ought to encourage Senators to adjust their differences so that a resolution of ratification can receive the necessary constitutional two-thirds vote, and if the treaty is thus ratified I have every confidence that the signatory powers will accept it."

Senator King of Utah said:

"The position taken by Lord Grey emphasizes what must be apparent to those who have studied the covenant of the League and have attempted to apprehend its mission, that to accomplish the desired results the United States must be a member of the League. While it is true that the European nations, and other nations which have become members of the League, are more or less powerful, nevertheless the League cannot fully function or perform its high mission in the world without the United States."

Senator McNary of Oregon said:

"I think that the attitude of Viscount Grey, as a high official in the British Government, as set forth in his letter, should remove a great deal of opposition to the ratification of the treaty with the reservations. His statement that reservations would be acceptable, in view of our dual form of government and because of the desire here to live up to American traditions and avoid entangling alliances, should have the effect of offsetting opposition based on the theory that reservations would not be acceptable. I am encouraged by the statement now made by Viscount Grey and by the statement which the French Minister made about ten days ago that it will be possible for us in this country to gather together and ratify the treaty with acceptable reservations.

Senator Cummins of Iowa said that he had no doubt that the views expressed by Lord Grey were representative of the sentiments of the British Government.

"I have no doubt that Lord Grey's letter means to convey the impression that he would favor acceptance of the Lodge reservations," he said. "I have no doubt that Lord Grey reflects the views of his own Government. I have never doubted that the British Government would assent to those reservations. I have no doubt that the other Governments of the world would accept the Lodge reservations. I think they would be very glad to have the United States come into the league on almost any terms."

Senator Kellogg of Minnesota said:

"Lord Grey's letter is a very candid, high-minded, statesmanlike statement of the real situation, and it is a letter to which no one can take exceptions. It is perfectly evident that Lord Grey would accept the Lodge reservations and that his Government would do likewise if afforded the opportunity. I have not had any doubt as to what the British Government would do. I am satisfied the British Government would accept the Lodge reservations and believe the other Governments would do likewise. I have no doubt that France would also accept. France has made that perfectly clear already, and within two weeks Senator Lodge has placed in the Record a translation of the article in the Temps of Paris, which is the mouthpiece of the French Government, indicating that France would accept the reservations. I do not care to speculate as to the effect the Grey letter will have."

Borah's Opposition Strengthened.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, leader of the group of Senators which has been irreconcilably opposed to the League of Nations covenant of the treaty, construed the letter of Viscount Grey as supporting the contention of those who have insisted that the treaty should be defeated because they regarded it as involving a complete abandonment of American traditional foreign policy.

"Aside from the exceedingly adroit and diplomatic tone of the letter," said Senator Borah tonight, "it has three great points of interest.

"First, it states plainly that entrance into the League, with or without reservations, is a complete abandonment of our foreign policy—'a plunge not only into an unknown but something which its (the United States') historical advice and traditions have heretofore positively disapproved.'

"Secondly, it plainly states that the United States should be permitted to come in with her reservations for the simple reason that, once in, the reservations will amount to nothing. He says in so many words, 'once in the League American reservations would not be felt in practice.' I agree entirely with Viscount Grey. These reservations, about which we have been fighting so much, will amount to nothing when we are once in the League. They do not protect the United States.

"The third proposition is that without the United States, that is, without her wealth, to underwrite the economic chaos of Europe and her man power to police her territory, the League will amount to nothing. In other words, Viscount Grey frankly concedes that Europe is a bankrupt concern and is seeking a solvent partner."

NEW YORK PRESS VIEWS.

Rejects Grey's Explanation.

From The World.

If the attitude of the Senate could be given an explanation as respectable as that advanced by Lord Grey, opposition to the treaty would not be confined practically to one party in that body. If true conservatism and traditional policy are chiefly responsible for the obstinacy of most of the representatives of that party in the Senate, how are we to account for the fact that for years past Republicans have vied with Democrats in support of measures and treaties in support of international arbitration and that Republicans no less than Democrats saw in the recent conflict a war on the part of civilization to make other wars impossible?

Lord Grey could not say it, but it is a fact that we are out of the League of Nations because Toryism has seized the Republican Congressional organization and stifled every liberal sentiment of the masses that gave it power. It is even more unrepresentative of the American people than of the party, and therein lies the hope for the future which one of the most enlightened of British statesmen does not fail to hold forth.

"Has Told England the Truth."

From the Sun and Herald.

There are people who will not enjoy the Grey letter, just as Junkerdom did not enjoy the cold, clear, honest way in which Grey dealt with the Prussian at the beginning of the war. His frankness will not be praised in some quarters of Washington. It will not evoke cheers in the ranks of those Englishmen who believed that Mr. Lloyd George, bringing home the signature of President Wilson to a document which would, if ratified by the Senate, bind us to be policeman and banker in every Old World quarrel, had performed the most useful diplomatic service for England since Disraeli's time.

But Grey has told England the truth about America's view of the covenant and both sides of the Atlantic will be the better off for his habit of honest expression. It would be well to have the Congressional Record reprint from the esteemed NEW YORK TIMES, which published it in full, this letter which was "written as a private citizen," but which reflects the uncontradictable conclusions of England's most distinguished diplomat.

Entente Not Antagonistic.

From The Tribune.

The returning British Ambassador speaks with full knowledge of conditions in this country as well as in Europe. It is becoming more and more evident that Great Britain, France and Italy are not antagonistic to the Senate reservations. Fear that the reservations will "nullify" the treaty seems to be confined chiefly to the White House. And that is because they frustrate the President's personal conception of the treaty rather than the European conception of it. Europe is not worrying over the wording of the reservation on Article X. or on the Monroe Doctrine.

JOHNSON TO INVADE JERSEY; BUTLER, TOO

Managers for Both Presidential Candidates to Begin Active Work There This Week.

SENATOR'S EYE ON BAY STATE

Unpledged Delegates Would Suit Columbia Head's Friends—Wood Campaign to be Extended.

Campaign managers for Senator Hiram Johnson and Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, are planning to begin active work in New Jersey and other States during the week in their hunt for delegates to the Republican National Convention. John R. Davis, executive head of the Butler Campaign Committee, announced last night that the movement for the New York candidates had developed in Senator Johnson's own State and was being pushed from coast to coast by representative leaders and business men.

Headquarters for Johnson in New Jersey will open today at 39 Broad Street, Newark, with Irving K. Taylor, a former Progressive, in charge. This is Dr. Butler's native State, but despite that the Johnson managers asserted last night that they were assured of a good representation in the delegation from that State. The Johnson men will also begin immediately to seek support in Massachusetts on the ground that Governor Coolidge having officially announced his refusal to be an active candidate for the nomination, the Bay State is now an open field for delegates.

Manager Davis, on behalf of Dr. Butler, said the latter was making no fight on any other candidate, and that his friends were perfectly willing to submit their arguments to a convention of uninstructed and unpledged delegates, in the belief that such convention would decide wisely and in the interest of the nation as well as of the Republican Party. Mr. Davis said:

"There must be no misunderstanding about the character and extent of the movement for the nomination of Dr. Butler for President. He is in no sense a favorite son candidate, although he enjoys the confidence and support of many party leaders, not only in New York, where he has lived and taken an active part in political affairs for thirty years, but also in New Jersey, where he was born and was associated from 1883 to 1889 with the Republican Party organization in Passaic County and in the State.

Says Movement is Spontaneous.

"The movement in support of Dr. Butler has been, from the first, perfectly spontaneous. It had its origin in the demands for a candidate, who should, when elected, be conspicuously fit to discharge the duties of the office, rather than one chosen on the old-fashioned basis of mere political availability.

"His support has grown steadily. Letters and messages have poured in from nearly every State and from the strongest men in the business and political life of most of these States. The list includes Governors, United States Senators, leaders in the Republican organizations, labor leaders, representative women and business men of influence and standing, who are deeply concerned both over the international situation and the economic and industrial problems which face the nation. They believe that Dr. Butler has demonstrated that he possesses the knowledge and the capacity to deal with those problems and to administer the affairs of the Government on sound business lines. Our appeal for support for Dr. Butler is made on this basis and on no other."

It was said that Dr. Butler had not been able to accept one one-hundredth of the invitations received asking him to make speeches and to lend his personal influence to further the movement by his friends and supporters in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Western New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, and California. Attention was called to the enthusiastic receptions he had received last week at the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce and at the McKinley Day address at Cleveland, Ohio.

A representative of Senator Johnson challenges Governor Lowden's right to claim the initiative in State economics. The Johnson manager quoted John F. Neylan, publisher of The San Francisco Call, who is here for a conference with the Senator's managers, to the effect that Johnson is the original budget reformer and that his system had been in practical effect in California since 1900.

Expects Majority in West.

"Senator Johnson is already assured of a majority of the delegates west of the Mississippi," asserted one of his local party assistants. "Reports of his support in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and some of the Eastern States are most encouraging. Active campaigns are to be extended to a number of these States this week. There is nothing in the rumor that Senator Johnson may be a third party or independent candidate. He will have nothing to do with any third ticket or party movement. The support for Johnson is developing so rapidly that we will be compelled to open larger headquarters here at once."

It was asserted at the Leonard Wood League headquarters that local political organizations were supporting and favoring his nomination in practically every State. It was said that since Representative Gould took charge of the Eastern campaign, a week ago, with headquarters during the process of bringing together the different organizations and groups supporting Major Gen. Wood had been successful. It was announced that the Wood campaign is to be extended to the "favorite son" ground also, particularly in Massachusetts and Ohio. A statement to this effect reads:

"It was at first considered advisable not to enter the States where favorite sons were being put forward, wherever the candidacy of those sons was genuine, especially if the delegations from those States would agree to support the nomination of General Wood as their second choice, after first ballots in the convention demonstrated the impracticability of continuing their efforts for the favorite son. But recently, in two cases, it has been deemed advisable to enter the contest in two States, at least, Massachusetts and Ohio."

It was said that in Nebraska, where the order of popular preference seems to stand for General Wood first, and then for Senator Johnson, General Pershing and Governor Lowden, in the order named, the contest obviously will be made for a delegation pledged to General Wood. It was admitted that serious attacks were being made on his support in South Dakota and Michigan by Governor Lowden's forces.

"This," a Wood manager said, "is considered to be a definite challenge because of the possible effect an early victory by Lowden might have on the rest of the country. But the Wood Campaign Committee has no intention and no fear of losing these States, where the primary elections take place late in March and early in April."

GRAND STREET BOYS DINE.

Tales of Early Days on East Side Heard by 2,000 Guests.

The Grand Street Boys, an organization which counts in its membership a Governor, several members of the judiciary and other public officers and prominent business men, held its first annual dinner last night at the Hotel Astor, at which 2,000 guests heard many of those who had made good tell of their boyhood days on the lower east side. Eligibility to membership is based on residence in that section of the city which lies east of the Bowery from Houston to Catharine Street.

Many of the speakers took occasion to comment on the Americanism of the east side and cited as proof the men from that section who had risen to places of prominence, notably Governor Smith.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky of General Sessions, one of the "boys," said that the east siders did not want any fundamental change in a Government which gave every man the right to rise in the world according to his ambitions. Judge Joseph Mulqueen said that fifty years ago the east side was a power and it was still a power today. Proof of this lay in the fact that Republican Leader Samuel Koenig and Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany chieftain, both came from that section of the city, he said.

One of the features of the dinner was a vaudeville entertainment in which songs directed at many of the members were sung.

BOOM FOR LOWDEN AS REDUCER OF TAXES

Campaign Chairman Finds in This a Reason for His Nomination.

WOULD SAVE IN NATION

Estimates That a Reduction of Only One-Tenth Would Mean Half a Billion Dollars.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Representative Frank L. Smith, Chairman of the Lowden Campaign Committee, made public a statement today in which he said that "Governor Frank O. Lowden today stands forth as the only man in the United States who has demonstrated the ability to reduce taxes in wartime and, at the same time, make every necessary expenditure to help win the greatest war in history.

"He has reduced the taxes of Illinois $7,00,000 in the past three years, or one-third," asserts Mr. Smith. "That is one of the substantial reasons why the Republicans of Illinois want to see Governor Lowden made President of the United States.

"They believe he can materially reduce the taxes of the Federal Government and bring about a reorganization of the Federal Government machine, antiquated as it is, which will make an enormous, permanent saving to the taxpayers of the United States. A saving of only one-tenth of the annual expenditures of the Federal Government today would amount to more than half a billion dollars annually."

CUMMINGS TO SPEAK.

Leaders Among Democratic Women Will Attend Dinner to Chairman.

Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will resume his speaking tour today of New York State, and the last lap of his itinerary has been arranged to bring him here on Thursday night in time for the testimonial dinner arranged in his honor by the National Democratic Club at the Commodore. His stops include Buffalo, Rochester and Schenectady. He is expected to speak at the latter point tomorrow, and will conclude with an address at Poughkeepsie.

Among the invited women guests who are active in Democratic affairs are Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, Chicago, Chairman of the Women's Bureau of the National Committee; Dr. Elizabeth Van R. Gillette and Mrs. John J. Day, Schenectady; Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. Frank L. Crocker, City Magistrate Jean H. Norris, Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby, Mrs. Grace Strachan Forsythe, Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Mrs. Lewis Nixon, Mrs. George H. Childs, Mrs. Mary M. Lilly, Mrs. Lillian R. Sire, Mrs. Nora D. McCall, Mrs. Augustus P. Cooke and Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary for the President, and all of the local political leaders have been invited.

NEWBERRY DEFENDANTS ILL

Seven Not Expected to Appear at Continuation of Trial.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 1.—Influenza made a fresh attack on the defendants in the Newberry elections conspiracy trial today and it is probable tonight that seven of them will not appear in court when the case is resumed tomorrow afternoon. That the trial will go on was indicated by the fact that the twelve jurors sworn in Saturday gave no sign of being affected by the malady.

Three of the five defendants on yesterday's sick list had recovered this evening, but five others were fresh victims of the epidemic. John S. Newberry, brother of the principal figure in the trial, was stricken on his way to Detroit, and word tonight was that he would not be able to return for several days. Other fresh influenza patients were Frank McKay, Grand Rapids; Benjamin Gero, Mayor of Manistique, and Robert G. Teiro of Stephenson. In addition William Crebass, former Sheriff at Llanse, acquired a case of blood poisoning, which may keep him away from the trial for several days.

KILLED IN SALOON QUARREL.

Harlem Man Found Dead in Street —Four Are Held.

When the police of the West 135th Street Station found the body of a man on the sidewalk in front of a house near 147th Street and Seventh Avenue yesterday morning they made the entry in the police books that "John Mooney," address unknown, had been murdered. Letters bearing that name and an undecipherable address were found in his pockets. The body had three bullet holes in it, but none of the patrolmen had heard shooting.

Upon searching the neighborhood the police found several men in a saloon at 2,538 Seventh Avenue and a revolver with three empty cartridges in the cylinder. They arrested a man who gave his name as Richard Gallagher and sent him to Police Headquarters under a charge of homicide. His companion, who said he was Charles Stuart of 38 Buford Avenue, Jamaica, was held on the charge of acting in concert and two other men were held as material witnesses after they had told the police about the quarrel and fight that had ended in the death of one of the men. They told how some of the men in the place had carried the body around the corner and laid it down in the street.

The police late last night learned that they had the incorrect names of both principals in the case. Although the victim apparently had been masquerading under the name of Mooney, Grace Fitzgerald of 287 West 127th Street, identified the body in the morgue as that of her brother, John, who had been missing from home for several days. The police said that the real name of "Gallagher" was Michael O'Shaughnessy, and he was booked by the police as having an alias.

GIRL REFUSED FLAG SALUTE

Bedford Inmate Disciplined for Disrespect—Two Others in Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, Feb. 1. — Evelyn Hollenbeck, an inmate of the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, was locked up in punishment today for refusing to salute the flag, and two other girls were disciplined for having a rough and tumble fight while leaving chapel exercises.

Miss Helen Cobb, the superintendent, asked the Hollenbeck girl why she refused to salute the colors and when she made some sneering remark about the flag Miss Cobb ordered her locked in her room and deprived of privileges.

According to matrons, a woman named Richardson tried to entice an inmate named Patriano out of the line of girls leaving the chapel. The latter resented her interference, with the result that the Patriano woman was locked up in prison and the other turned over to the house physician.

RABBI DIES OF BURNS.

Accident Result of Refusal to Light Fire on Sabbath.

Rabbi Harris Rothenberg, 68 years old, who was severely burned when he tried to light a fire at his home, 660 New Jersey Avenue, Brooklyn, on Saturday night, died yesterday in the Kings County Hospital.

According to Mrs. Solomon Levinson of 609 Vermont Street, Brooklyn, the rabbi's daughter, he died a martyr to his religion. Being an Orthodox Jew, she said, he would not make a fire in his home until the Sabbath ended and endured the cold weather until sundown. When he finally decided to make the fire, she said, his hands were so cold that he could not control the kerosene, or whatever substance he used to quicken the fire, and the flames caught his clothes.

Rabbi Rothenberg, it is said, was a writer of the Holy Scroll and forty years ago started the Synagogue Kohal Adasyeneirin on the east side, Manhattan.

YEAR FOR BEATING GIRL.

Jersey Man Sentenced Second Time on Daughter's Complaint.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Feb. 1.—Frank Chorma, 41 years old, of Garfield, today received a sentence of 364 days for beating his eighteen-year-old daughter, Barbara. The sentence was imposed by Recorder J. H. Lefferts.

Ten days ago Chorma was fined $100 for beating the girl. He served a few days and was bailed out by one of his friends. No sooner had he returned to his home, according to the story of the girl to the police, than he beat her again.

to the peoples. We have no doubt America will do the right thing, but she must be allowed to do it in her time.

The Daily Chronicle in an editorial says:

"Lord Grey's letter discloses one interesting fact—that he thinks it better to have the United States inside the League on almost any terms and with whatever reservations than not to include her in it at all. Most of the League's best friends in this country tend toward the same way of thinking, but Lord Grey's judgment carries a very special weight because, while his loyalty to the league idea is entire and unimpeachable, his exceptional experience in diplomacy and the working of treaties should help him to gauge with more accuracy than most of us how far the reservations of the Republican Senators would be likely to hamper or sterilise in practice America's membership in the league.

"His opinion on this subject certainly has not been expressed with a view to influencing American politicians, but it may perhaps weigh a little with Senator Hitchcock and his friends when they finally come to decide whether they will let a mutilated treaty go through."

The Morning Post says:

"Lord Grey's proposal is that we should allow America in the League of Nations upon a special in-an-out clause of her own. She would have a superior status and at the same time would have no obligations. She would, in fact, be allowed to come in at the shallow end. Once in, Lord Grey has no anxiety that she could be led gradually into deeper water until she found by experience that there is really no danger at all. Only get them in, says Lord Grey, no matter upon what terms, and everything will come right.

"Now, the sum of the American reservations leaves nothing of effect in the covenant at all—as far as America is concerned—and if the other signatories were to grant them it is just possible the Americans might be induced to send their representatives to Berne, but if they are to obtain these reservations other nations must have them also. We live, after all, in a democratic age, and we must start on the level in so democratic an institution as the League of Nations. If America is to be allowed to go in at the shallow end we should all have that privilege. For our part we think the League of Nations is very much more dangerous to the British Empire than it is to America."

As regards Lord Grey's assertion that there would be no objection in principle to the increase of the American vote, The Morning Post comments:

"The the Americans are to be allowed six votes while refusing to accept the obligations accepted by other nations that have only one? What will Italy, France and Japan think of such a proposal? Will they be as accommodating as Lord Grey?"

Remarking that there are periods like the present when matters are so grave that they bring a renewed sense of the grotesque as jests are provoked by funerals, J. L. Garvin reviews in The Observer the state of Anglo-American relations. He agrees heart and soul with Lord Grey's plea for patience and faith and argues that nothing but a sense of the grotesque element that runs through all human affairs can allay the irritation felt at a time when all nations are showing their worst side to each other.

"The quite miserable state of Anglo-American relations," he says, "is no doubt the worst case.

"In the United States there is being carried on without check a hostile propaganda against Great Britain such as has been rarely organized in one country against the interests of another. Public receptions are given to leaders of Irish separation, money is openly raised for the cause of Irish independence, and while there is no toleration for theoretical Bolsheviki, there is a complete indulgence for the egotistical fanatics whose practical aim is the supreme crime of an Anglo-American war. We have read in the American newspapers communications accusing this country of carrying out in Ireland the atrocities of the Armenian abomination."

Causes of "Psychological Rupture."

Mr. Garvin then refers to the reception of the Prince of Wales as raising the sane forces of the United States to combat these efforts, but he says he must discuss "the quite extraordinary psychological rupture" between the two countries from a European point of view.

He asserts that America looks like a fortunate combatant who has walked off when the victory had been won and deserted the wounded comrades who had borne most of the brunt and paid most of the cost in blood and money alike and without whom there could have been no victory.

"That thought," he adds, "is very bitter and on the European Continent it is very genuinely felt. Her influence on the peace negotiations was nevertheless enormous. It was impossible for Europe to challenge the representative authority of an American President. In this way there was framed a treaty which would have been utterly unthinkable but for the assumption that American power would be available to uphold it."

Mr. Garvin then suggests that Secretary Glass might have announced his policy, with which he does not quarrel, in quite another tone. He says:

"Europe is adjured to abandon vain dreams, work hard and pay gold. This unfortunately is not so very unlike the remark of the Bourbon Princess who, when told that the poor had no bread, asked why they did not eat cake. Instead of shipping more gold across the Atlantic, where it has been piled up in the war years of Europe's needs, some of the same gold should come back to this side.

"The humor at this point is a little melancholy for the more wounded, impoverished and dislocated nations, but it is very real, and we wish Mark Twain were alive."

Then Garvin admits that Great Britain is open to much the same reproaches from her European allies on the ground of the high prices she charges for coal, wood and freight, but he argues that the chaotic situation might have been avoided if America had been willing to continue a definite system of international co-operation.

But as the way out of the confusion he sees the establishment of a League of Nations in however feeble a form.

Would Accept All Reservations.

"Let us meet," he continues, "the objections and qualms and doubts of the United States so liberally and solidly as to leave America not a rag of decent excuse for standing out. Instead of complaining that there are ten or a dozen reservations to the covenant let us urge America, if she will, to make them a hundred. Let us ask her to bring over a shipload of reservations on the understanding that there are to be paralleled or equivalent exemptions for all other members of the League."

He is sure once the League is started America will be glad to come in.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—It is evident from the tone of editorial comment on Viscount Grey's estimate of America's position on the League of Nations that it set forth conditions little understood before.

With the situation clearly explained by such an authority, newspapers here seem willing to give the United States the benefit of the argument that she is unwilling to make a radical departure from her former policy without due consideration. The letter is viewed as a powerful appeal to America to enter the League.

After saying, "There is a deplorable tendency to cast the major responsibility for Europe's troubles on America's shoulders," The Times says the Viscount's statement arrived at a most opportune moment and "those who digest it will find misunderstanding removed and comprehension established."

RADICALS DESERT DR. GRANT'S FORUM

Bishop Burch's Rule Against Impromptu Addresses in Church of Ascension Is Enforced.

BATTLE ACTS AS CENSOR

Sidney A. Reeve Speaks on Economics, Predicting a Consumers' "Revolution."

The regular Sunday night forum was held in the Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, last night, but no radical utterances were made, for the forum of the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant's parish was held under the new rules laid down by the vestrymen and approved by Bishop Burch.

Flocks of radicals departed dolefully while Sidney A. Reeve, an economist, expounded his views on current conditions. But in the opinion of George Gordon Battle, junior warden, who presided, the forum was a decided success. Mr. Battle said the forum had developed just to the point the vestry and Dr. Grant wanted and that those who had left after hearing part of the address on economics were the sensation-seekers which the vestry wished away from the forum for all time.

Under the new regulations the agreement is that only speakers of proven conservatism and sound views are to address the forum. Also, there was to be an end of the after-lecture talks. Last night the agreement was carried out to the letter and, as Dr. G. A. Carstensen, rector of Holy Rood Episcopal Church, earlier had declared that the fulfillment of the agreement would mean a discontinuation of the plan to file charges against Dr. Grant, all the agitation against the rector probably will be dropped.

Dr. Grant Absent.

Dr. Grant was not present, and in his absence the Rev. Harold A. Lynch, the assistant rector, conducted the brief religious service stipulated by the forum's peace pact. The service consisted of the singing of hymns, a responsive reading of the Scriptures and the reading of a lesson and prayers.

After the service, Mr. Battle made a statement outlining the new rules agreed upon by the church authorities, and when he announced that the audience wasn't going to get a chance to make speeches, a few of the 400 present left.

There was also another change noted—there was a marked modification of the character of the congregation. Few of those who think a revoultion just ahead, who think things ought to be changed, who regard the Reds as misunderstood were on hand.

In his lecture, Mr. Reeve predicted an economic revolution in America. A man who sat in the back of the church and was seeking something lively in "A Book of Common Worship" hastily put the book down at the mention of the magic word "revolution," but finding that it wasn't used in the radical sense, sadly went back to his book. Returning to the lecture, Mr. Reeve thought the economic turnover would result because four of the great powers had written $200,000,000,000 of paper money, with nothing behind it but faith and patriotism."

Most of this issue of fiat money, said the lecturer, had been spent in America, and this sudden flood of wealth had upset economic laws to some extent. He declared that the issue of money had been made without any real consideration of the burden upon the ultimate consumer. This ultimate consumer, as he phrased it, would bring about an economic democracy, for he would be forced to do so in order to survive. The economic revolution, he said, would come not because anybody wanted it, but because the ultimate consumer would refuse to carry any more burdens.

No Speeches From Audience.

Following the lecture, a hymn was sung. Then came the questions. Ordinarily, anybody in the church had a right to get upon his or her feet, and while ostensibly asking a question, to make extended remarks. The new rules, however, forbid spontaneous speaking by persons in the church. All questions henceforth, and beginning last night, must be in writing, and they must be handed over to the presiding person, the Chairman, who looks them over and censors them.

Mr. Battle received the questions last night, but apparently he didn't have to do any censoring. One of the queries, however, caused Mr. Reeve to predict that within five years there would be a great catastrophe in Wall Street. He predicted that the aftermath would result in the passing of the Government into the hands of a more progressive element, but that the element would fail to satisfy the people. Then would come socialism, perhaps Bolshevism, and finally, out of all the chaos, would come a system with different economic ideas.

Mr. Reeve gave it as his opinion that all these changes would cost 10,000,000 lives, but only 1 per cent. of the lives would be lost through violence, the remainder being claimed by famine and pestilence. In answer to another question, the lecturer compared the Albany situation to the Dred Scott case's effect on the slavery question.

In a sermon in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine yesterday, Dr. William Austin Smith, editor of The Churchman, upheld the policy of holding church forums, and, by inference, absolved Dr. Grant from the criticism which had been directed at him. Dr. Smith cited passages in the Bible where men were called together to discuss religion and its problems and interpretations and said that it was just as necessary to promote intelligence "in the church as it is to instill and stimulate a love of God."

ALLEGED "REDS" ARRESTED.

Six Held in Newark as Members of Communist Party—One Citizen.

Six alleged members of the Communist Party were arrested in Newark early yesterday morning by agents of the Department of Justice. Five are being held at the Essex County Jail for transportation to Ellis Island, where proceedings to deport them will be instituted. About forty others, arrested in other cities of the State, will be brought to Newark to be questioned today. One of the six taken in Newark, Conrad Fredenreld of 153 Elm Street, is a citizen, and was held at Police Headquarters for action by State authorities. The arrests were made at the homes of the alleged Reds, all of whom are alleged to be leaders of the Communist Party in the State.

CONVICTS ELUDE SING SING GUARDS

Two Brooklyn Trolley Bandits Have Either Escaped or Hidden in Prison.

WARDEN STARTS MAN HUNT

Every Available Keeper and Trusty Searching Buildings and the Countryside.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Sing Sing Prison is being turned inside out tonight in the dwindling hope of finding in some obscure cranny within its walls two desperate criminals who are missing from their cells. Whether they hid themselves away in hope of finding a favorable opportunity to escape, or whether they already are beyond the walls and perhaps, have essayed the perilous crossing of the half-frozen Hudson, still is so much in doubt that the siren which has been wont to herald each new burst for liberty thus far has remained silent.

The two for whom every available guard and trusty are hunting hour after hour are Alfred Friedlander, 18 years old, and Percival J. McDonough, 25 years old, known as the "Brooklyn car bandits." They are the two who just about a year ago terrorized Queens County when they held up three trolley cars, one in Flushing, one in Jamaica, and one in Queensboro Road. In one instance they went through every passenger in the car; in another McDonough, who had been a motorman, ran away with the vehicle, and in a third they used a stolen automobile to get from one holdup to another. Friedlander is serving eight to sixteen years. McDonough got thirty-nine years, the Court having given him a stiff sentence with the avowed intention of making an example of him because he had a record of four previous convictions.

These escapes—if they are escapes—are the first under the régime of Major Lewis Lawes, who recently became Warden here. Major Lawes has an excellent escape record at the New Hampton Reformatory, for though several men got away from that unwalled place of detention, every one of them was caught.

A count of the prisoners at noon mess today showed them all present. There was a second check in the cell block and the dormitory after supper, preliminary to releasing the men for a movie show. A moment later guards were scurrying all over the place, lights were flashing in unused corners, every man off duty had been summoned, the show was called off and an urgent message was going over the wires to the police of New York and other nearby cities.

Major Lawes took personal charge of the man hunt. Despite his hope that the pair were still inside, he sent a search party to broadcast the news to the countryside and to keep a keen lookout for the men.

The Warden bethought himself at once of the significant fact that the two men were transferred only two weeks ago from Auburn, which is a harder place to escape from. At once he wondered whether their coming to Sing Sing had been contrived as part of a well-laid escape plot. Though sentenced originally to confinement in Sing Sing, the pair arrived there last March during the diphtheria epidemic, and after the directions of the commitment papers had been complied with technically, they were sent to Auburn.

Friedlander is five feet two inches tall and weighs about 146 pounds. McDonough is two inches taller, and weighs about the same. Both men gave addresses on Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, when they were convicted.

All the prisoners enjoy a considerable degree of liberty within the prison precincts on Sunday afternoon. Because of this, if the men did contrive to get out in daylight, they may have got many hours' start. At a late hour no clue either to their method of escape or to any possible hiding place had been found.

PLAN AIR RACE TO NOME.

Rules of Former Transcontinental Flight to Govern New Contest.

Tentative plans for a transcontinental air race this year, from New York to Nome, Alaska, a distance of 4,870 miles, were announced last night by the American Flying Club, which is co-operating with the Army Air Service in arranging the project. The race will be held under the same rules and handicaps which governed the New York to San Francisco race last Fall.

The route from Mineola, L. I., to Minot, S. D., a distance of 1,673 miles, will be over the United States. At North Gate, N. D., the fliers will turn into Canada and continue 1,300 miles across the Dominion to Fort Egbert on the Alaskan border. In Alaska the route will be from Fort Yukon to Fairbanks, thence to Nulato and Nome. Compulsory stops will be made at control stations scattered along the airway. Only qualified aviators will be allowed to compete and their planes will be subject to examination at each stop.

BARONESS HUARD LECTURES

Francis Wilson's Daughter Tells French Views of Americans.

Baroness Frances Wilson Huard, wife of Baron Huard, the French painter, who lives near Château-Thierry when the war started in August, 1914, gave a lecture last night at the Temple Emanu-El, on "Americans from the French Point of View." Baroness Huard is an American by birth and is the daughter of Francis Wilson, the American actor.

The American soldier because of hard work during the war and chivalry toward French women and children, Mme. Huard said, left a place in the hearts of the French people that never will be forgotten. There was closer fraternity between the French and American soldiers, she said, than between those of any other allied countries. The light-heartedness and recklessness of American soldiers first astonished the French people, Mme. Huard said, but later delighted them.

Hugo Tells of Support Pledges.

Political supporters here of Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State, who is contesting the claims of several rivals for the Republican nomination for Governor, announced yesterday that he had received the indorsement on Saturday of the Republican County Committee of Schenectady. He had previously got the support of the Jefferson County organization and three local organizations in the Buffalo districts.

GLASS AND BRITISH IN ACCORD ON LOANS

the British Government has invited the co-operation of the Governments of other countries, and in particular of the United States, with them in joint action for further measures of relief and reconstruction in the suffering parts of Europe. Any such measures if finally agreed upon must obviously involve no further borrowings by the people of the United Kingdom from the United States, but further advances by the United Kingdom as well as by the United States and such other countries as take part in the joint action contemplated to countries requiring assistance.

I have the honor to be with the highest consideration, Sir, your most obedient, humble servant, R. C. LINDSAY.

Denies Reports in Some Newspapers.

The date of Mr. Lindsay's letter shows that it was sent to Secretary Glass at a time when some newspapers were conducting a publicity campaign to the effect that Great Britain was endeavoring to obtain huge loans from the United States Government, one version being that Ambassador Grey had come here for the purpose of obtaining, and in fact had obtained, the promise of President Wilson that the loans would be forthcoming. This version, which was without foundation, has been denounced by American officials, and Mr. Lindsay's letter puts the British Government on record as officially denying such reports.

It was generally accepted, after the publication today of the Glass statement and Mr. Lindsay's letter, that the subject of this Government extending further loans to Great Britain, or to any of the other European countries, with the possible exception of extreme cases, such as the relief work for Armenia, Austria, and Poland, was closed.

It seemed certain also that if an international conference to discuss finance and commerce is eventually brought about the extension of further loans by the United States Government will not be a major topic, and that other means of accomplishing reconstruction on a sane basis must be reached if any material good is to be accomplished.

The question of the cancellation of war loans to foreign nations by the United States, which was hinted at in the European memorial requesting that an international conference be called, has also apparently been swept into the discard and the decks cleared for the consideration of the great problems from another angle.

One view taken in regard to the publication of the Lindsay letter was that it showed that the British Government had not given official sanction to some of the points developed in the European memorial which was drafted and signed by private individuals.

BRITISH FINANCIERS FAVOR GLASS'S STAND

Pall Mall Gazette Says Europe Cannot Ride Back to Solvency on Some One Else's Back.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The lapse of twenty-four hours has shown clearly that sound financial opinion here is in accord with the stand on the exchange situation taken by Secretary Glass, however unpalatable in the opinion of some critics the dose may be. Thus The Pall Mall Gazette tonight recognizes it is not altogether unwholesome that Europe should have a chill wind from across the Atlantic, and thinks it would be disastrous if she thought she could accomplish the painful road back to solvency on some one else's back.

"Moreover," it says, "we must not judge America entirely by politicians who talk with the accent of Sir Georgius Midas. She has statesmen of a higher range who realize, as Lansing observed the other day, that it is not entirely by merit that she is rolling in money, and that it is in her cause, as well as their own, that some of the peoples of Europe have come to taste poverty."

Meanwhile, neither in financial nor manufacturing circles here is there any trace of pessimism. They recognize that this country has difficult times before it, but they are confident they will be met with the same success as has carried it before through other crises.

Thus, Sir George Hunter, Chairman of the shipbuilding firm of Swan, Hunter & Wicham Richardson, speaking at Wallsend today, declared he saw no reason to fear England could not meet American competition, but he warned labor that the reduction it had gained in working hours and consequent reduction of output was having its effect on exchanges.

Another contributing cause of the present situation, referred to by the financial editor of The Westminster Gazette, is what he terms "wholesale gambling in Turks." Violent fluctuation are making the path of the legitimate business man extraordinarily difficult, and The Westminster Gazette suggests that other Governments should follow the example of Belgium and take steps to check speculation in foreign exchanges.

Franklin Parker, of the banking firm of Samuel Montague & Co., lays stress upon the relief to the American exchange the raising of the Russian blockade was likely to offer. Europe, he said, would now be tapping new sources for grain, butter, eggs, oil, flax, &c.

"It is," he said, "as though a huge benefaction has fallen from the moon. The effect of this will be to lower the cost of many of our imports from America and to impress the exchange."

He is convinced that there is nothing the Government could do to assist commerce except to reduce its expenditure and its debt to America, and he pins his faith on the normal tendencies of finance and commerce if they have free play.

"One thing is certain," he added, "we cannot ship gold as Glass mentions. We should risk in that case losing all our gold. We must proceed by steps. We have proceeded on the right lines as regards the taxation mentioned by Glass. We tackled it in good time."

The Evening Standard has this editorial comment to make:

"Leading Americans are urging that Europe must help herself and that America has done her bit. Europe is not asking for America's assistance—Sir George Paish represents nobody but himself—but the fact remains that the present deplorable state of the New York-Europe exchange is a real menace to the world's convalescence. It is bad for America's exports as well as for Europe's imports. We cannot ignore the fact that the state of the exchange is largely due to debts contracted by Europe during the first two and a half years of war. Lord Grey admits 'Americans differ among themselves as to whether they could or ought to have entered the war sooner than they did.' The fact that for two and a half years Europe fought America's battle unaided does have an important bearing upon the problems which arise out of Europe's indebtedness."

G. H. Perris in an article in The Daily Chronicle entitled "Wilson—or Glass? The choice before the American People," writes:

"The Treasury is an office of great power and influence, but it is more than possible that Mr. Glass and his colleagues will not survive the coming electorate struggle and that their successors may have quite other ideas as to the financial relations of the new and old worlds. The essential question for us is not what a minister or even a cabinet thinks, but what the American people think. In particular we want to know whether the body of American opinion is against the holding of an international financial conference.

"There is something in Glass' criticism, and much in his homily from the extra Scriptural text, 'Bear Ye Your Own Burdens,' that should be pondered by every good citizen on this side of the water, and that would be echoed by any Englishman who was addressing one of the more unfortunate States which are our debtors. It cannot be too emphatically said that here, or further East, the debtor nation must first settle down to steady work and relentless economy and taxation if any considerable effort of mutual help is to be launched.

"No one who knows the American people can doubt their warm-heartedness any more than their shrewdness. They properly ask the usual creditor's assurances. They will not go out of their way to help communities that are manifestly idle, extravagant or disorderly. To that extent they will certainly be with Glass.

"It is true, however, a millionfold more in national than in individual affairs, that creditors and debtors are linked by common interest and that wise creditors do not limit themselves to lectures on economy, especially when storm clouds obscure the future of the fortunate and the unfortunate alike.

"In its insensibility to this fact the spirit of Glass' pronouncement is singularly and significantly unlike that which inspired the later utterances of his master, President Wilson; it does, indeed, recall the stage of rhetorical neutrality which Wilson outgrew in time to perform services to the world which constitute his title to fame. The Wilson whom we, equally with his countrymen, most honor is like Glass, a foe of the disorders that lead to and not only flow from war, and of waste that is illustrated alike in private luxury and public armaments, but where Wilson in seeking for a cure advanced to the idea of international conference and co-operation, Glass seems to fall back upon the antique superstition of neutrality.

"Which road will the American people choose—that of Glass or that of Wilson? Fundamentally it is the same alternative that still lies before the Senate in the form of the Peace Treaty and the Covenant, although in this case the Wilson Cabinet has been nobly and obstinately united for the international solution."

FRENCH APPROVE CONFERENCE

Cabinet Accepts Invitation to International Parley on Exchange.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The first opposition to the American Government's stand on exchange as outlined in the letter from Secretary of the Treasury Glass to the United States Chamber of Commerce is the declaration in French governmental and financial circles that the proposed international financial conference will take place in the near future.

M. Marsal, new Minister of Finance, has committed himself to it, and the new Cabinet has supported him unanimously. A semi-official statement from the Ministry of Finance says:

"Certainly the French Government will continue to take as a basis of its action four measures well known—loans to reduce fiduciary circulation, taxes to refill the treasury vaults, economy to avoid purchases abroad, and production to increase exportation. But in its efforts in this direction the French Government recognizes the incontestable utility of international arrangement.

"The English Government first presented this idea, and we have accepted it. The proposal has gone to all the other States.

"The basis of discussions which will take place at this conference will be to search for interallied accord on exchange, either by the opening of credits or by accord from the monetary point of view."

In the Echo de Paris today Pertinax makes a bitter attack on the American attitude as presented by Secretary Glass. He says:

"The Minister of Mr. Wilson opposes this reunion suggested by Lloyd George to aid the economic distress of Europe. He proclaims to the nations of the Old World, without distinction between the associates and enemies of America, that they can depend upon neaven and themselves, but not upon the United States.

"Here is an assertion the absurdity of which it is easy to prove. During the last five years sales made abroad by America exceeded its purchases by $14,000,000,000. This has been paid up to $3,500,000,000. As for the rest, she has consented to Government loans and bank loans which total $13,000,000,000. Glass now advises America not to run after its money, but to close its account. Why? Under the pretext that to prolong exchanges with Europe will force America to consent to new loans.

"We should like to know the opinion of a number of the compatriots of Mr. Glass, of the farmers and manufacturers, whose shipments mounted from $125,000,000 in the first eight months of 1914, to $640,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1919, the sellers of cotton and cloth whose sales went from $267,000,000 to $840,000,000, of the shippers of condensed milk and canned meat, whose sales mounted from $85,000,000 to $905,000,000.

"The truth of the matter is that the politicians of Washington are vexed at the small success of the Fourteen Points. The misfortune is that American public opinion does not know the danger of the present hour.

"With or without America, the economic conference will be held. It is good that England takes the initiative. She is the only country of Europe with the exception of the neutrals, which has a good grasp on her business. Let the nations at the conference reach accord upon their needs. Let them practice simultaneously energetic reforms. Let them make a program."

The Silver Lining

For the year after January 16, 1920, there will be more than $2,000,000,000 for unaccustomed spending or investment.

The men folks of our country have been accustomed to spend a certain large sum of money each year for something they can no longer purchase.

Life is a matter of habits.

If you displace one habit, you introduce another.

What will these new habits be? Will we eat candy or drink near beer, or form the savings bank habit or new movie habit or what ever?

Will your savings bank advertise thrift to people who are unaccustomed to saving or will you leave that "education" to the Blue Sky Oil promoter?

Will the candy or your soft drink you may make be the new-found habit?

What do you manufacture?

The nation is open to new suggestions and new habits.

A MID-WINTER TREAT

In mid-winter, when the diet is heavy and the system prone to become clogged, the tropic sends us a wonderful regulator—the grape fruit.

This big brother of the orange is a delightfully refreshing and stimulating tonic, and a distinct aid to health.

And besides, as served at CHILDS, it is one of the pleasures of the table, prized for its pleasantly pungent flavor.

Make grape fruit a part of a well balanced meal at CHILDS.

JEWS GET NEW BIBLE FOR ENGLISH SERVICE

Dedicated at Convention in Philadelphia Before Representatives of 1,500,000 Members.

REVIEW WORK OF THE YEAR

Three Hundred Delegates of Women's Branch Also Meet to Discuss Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—With more than 600 delegates, representing congregations aggregating 1,500,000 Jews in all parts of the United States, the eighth annual convention of the United Synagogues of America opened here this morning. More than 300 members of the Women's League, a branch of the organization, are also meeting here.

The principal address at the morning session of the men delegates was made by Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, who spoke instead of Dr. Elias L. Solomon, President of the national organization, who was prevented from attending by illness. Rabbi Cohen read the President's message, emphasizing the need of strengthening the bonds of Jewish religion and the value of the Talmudic teachings for the young.

Rabbi C. David Matt of Minneapolis pronounced the invocation and dedicated a new pulpit Bible prepared for service in synagogues where the English language is used. At the afternoon session annual reports were presented by the officers of the organization and by the Chairmen of the various committees. The report of the Committee on Propaganda was read by Dr. Cyrus Adler of this city, who asserted that education in the Jewish traditions was one of the greatest safeguards of true Americanism.

Mrs. Charles L. Hoffman presided at the women's session and made the principal address. Another speaker was Miss Deborah Kallen of the Boston Museum of Art, who explained her system of training children in expression through the medium of drawing and painting.

An exhibition of work of Miss Kallen's pupils and also of the handiwork of the children who are being taught wood carving and other crafts by Miss Langer, of the Central Jewish Institute, New York, was an interesting feature in connection with the women's convention.

The alleged attempt of Christian Churches to proselytize among Jewish children will be one of the important topics of discussion tomorrow afternoon, when the report of the Committee on Christian Missionary Activities Among Jews will be read.

"QUITTERS," SAYS DANIELS

Tells Zionists That the Treaty Delay Has Shamed Our Ideals.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, speaking at a dinner of the Zionist Organization of America at the Hotel Pennsylvania last night, which was held in connection with the $10,000,000 Restoration Fund national drive, said that the Zionist movement had his godspeed, and stated that he foresaw the end of religious persecution throughout the world with the ending of the war. Judge Julian Mack, President of the organization, also spoke, and Abram I. Elkus presided.

"The return of thousands to Palestine," said Secretary Daniels, "will be of tremendous importance historically and ethnologically, and will establish a centre for Jewish culture, Jewish philosophy, and Jewish religious ideals."

Secretary Daniels urged the deportation of alien anarchists, saying that "we have learned how to build ships since 1914 and can supply the bottoms for criminal aliens." He said that we have been looked upon as "quitters" by the rest of the world for not ratifying the treaty, and that "when America's idealism and generosity were needed to stabilize the world we have been sawing wood to the shame of our ideals."

ZERO NIGHT FIRES KILL 7, ROUT FAMILIES

see that they were losing their nerve, and he ordered three of his men, including the probationary fireman, to get them down as quickly as possible.

Escape by the stairways was cut off, there was no fire escape on the front of the building, the truck companies had not yet arrived with their ladders, so that Fireman Charles Amato saw that something must be done quickly if the women were to be saved. Shouting to Fireman Robert Tierney and Probationary Fireman Matthew Crawley to try to make their way to the top floor of the burning building by going through the adjoining house, Amato started up the front like a human fly. He beat his companions to the fourth floor.

Flames were burning away the floor of the room when the firemen started their difficult task of rescuing the women. Standing with one foot on a ledge of the adjoining building and the other on the ledge occupied by the women, Amato seized the women, one by one, with his left hand and swung each one in a half circle behind his back to the probationary fireman, who caught them deftly after Amato's hold had broken and hauled them to safety in the other house.

A Breathless Moment.

Six times the human pendulum swung to and fro in the rescues and the spectators held their breath when, as the third woman was being swung to safety at this high altitude Amato seemed to slip from the grasp of Tierney, who was braced against the window ledge of the adjoining house, with Amato's arm in his own. But the fireman made a quick recovery and the woman was caught safely by Crawley. Several other persons were taken out by the firemen, including two women who had been overcome by smoke.

Mrs. William Steele, who conducted the lodging house, said the fire had started in a room occupied by Mrs. Martha Shuey, who said she was a writer. Most of the roomers were women, who were so excited they were unable to give their names to the police. The zero temperature turned the building quickly into a glittering ice palace, as the fire engines poured their streams into it. The loss was about $15,000.

Forty girls in the John and Beekman telephone exchanges at 34 Gold Street stayed at their switchboards yesterday while smoke was pouring into their rooms from a fire in a five-story loft building at 40 Gold Street. Firemen stayed by the boards to warn the girls of approaching danger, and over the wires which they kept open were sent messages for additional apparatus to prevent the fire from spreading to other large loft buildings in Gold and John Streets. After three hours' hard fighting the fire was controlled, with damage of $75,000.

Power House in Danger.

When Deputy Fire Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin arrived he received a hurry call from the manager of the substation of the New York Edison Company, directly across the street from the loft building, to come at once to the power station. Thousands of gallons of water were cascading into the sub-station through holes in the wall, and in a few minutes the dynamos would have been stopped and the electric current would have been shut off throughout Manhattan Island south of Fourteenth Street.

After the Fire Department pumps had been started Deputy Chief Martin investigated. He found that an old conduit ran east and west across Gold Street, directly under the loft building and the sub-station. He said that apparently it had been used in Dutch Colonial times to carry water on one of the farms. He was unable to find any record of the tunnel.

Fifty families were driven into the cold in a fire that caused $100,000 damage to apartments at 120 Nepperhan Avenue, Yonkers. Ambulances were called and many women and children were treated for exposure by the surgeons. Some were taken to the hospitals and hundreds of others found shelter in neighboring houses.

Patrolman Thomas Courtney of the Gates Avenue Station in Brooklyn rescued an unconscious woman from a fire at 535 Throop Avenue, Brooklyn. The woman, Mrs. Beatrice Courtney, was overcome by shock when she learned that the three-story house adjoining was burning. The policeman also led the woman's three-year-old child out of the building. Deputy Fire Chief John O'Hara, who lives a block away at 508 Hancock Street, sent in three alarms. Twenty families were made homeless.

Patrolman James Norton of the Hamilton Avenue Station, Brooklyn, carried two children from a burning building at 522½ Court Street, Brooklyn, and then led out the father and mother and two other children who were unable to make their way alone down the smoke-filled stairway. The policemen rescued six members of another family by taking them to an adjoining house over the roof.

MAY RECALL BARON LUCIUS.

Berlin Moved by Foreign Attacks on Temporary Envoy to Rome.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The German Government will, in all probability, cancel the appointment of Baron von Lucius, temporary diplomatic German representative in Rome, as a result of attacks upon him by French and other Continental newspapers.

They charge that he carried on espionage and propaganda in connection with a mission to Sweden during the war. Baron von Lucius is also under suspicion of having been in active touch with the Russian Bolsheviki. It is learned from a reliable source that the Italian Quirinal has virtually notified Wilhelmstrasse that the Baron is persona non grata.

Hinting at the episode, the Tageblatt blames the Foreign Office for "awkward procedure" in selecting and dispatching new envoys and charges before Governments in question have been consulted.

The newspaper says the Cabinet has rushed into print with names before knowing whether the men selected are acceptable. Baron von Lucius and Dr. von Rosen, whom Spain rejected, are the only trained diplomatists on Germany's new list of foreign envoys.

Admiral Rafaele Volpe.

NAPLES, Jan. 31.—Announcement is made of the death of Admiral Raffaele Volpe. He participated in the battle of Lissa, in which the Austrians gained a victory over the Italians, July 18, 1866, and was later Italian Naval Attaché at Berlin.

PARROT AIDS GIRL IN BURGLAR CHASE

"Get Them," Cries Polly When Alarm Bell Rings, and Tailor's Daughter Catches Man.

FOUR RELATIVES JOIN IN

Suspect Arrested by Police as He Is Struggling to Get Free from Five Pursuers.

After chasing a man whom she accused of trying to rob her father's tailor shop last night, Cecilia Sherman, 16 years old, of 5 Chrystie Street, grappled with him at Pearl and New Chambers Streets until assistance came from two girl cousins, two brothers, and later the police. The man, who described himself as Frank Fabela, 22 years old, of the Pearl Hotel, Pearl Street and Park Row, was locked up in the Oak Street Station on a charge of burglary.

Warning that burglars were trying to enter the tailor shop, which is below the apartment in which they live, was sounded suddenly last night by a burglar alarm and a trained parrot. Mr. Sherman was visiting friends. Two relatives, Julia Bialkin, 14 years old, and Sadie Bialkin, 18 years old, of 30 Greenwich Street, were in the room upstairs.

"Ma, the bell is ringing. Get them. Get them," screamed "Girlie," the parrot, as the burglar alarm rang. The bird had been trained to shout those words when the alarm went off. Cecilia started off for the Oak Street Station, half a block away, when she saw two men run up the street. Instead of going to the police station she gave chase.

At Pearl Street and the Bowery she caught up with the prisoner and said to him: "You are under arrest." He ignored her, she said, and ran on. At New Chambers Street she again caught up with him. This time she grabbed him and held on. Meanwhile the Bialkin sisters joined her. They found her struggling with the man and volunteered their assistance. The other man escaped.

Lawrence and Alexander, two brothers of Cecilia, also appeared. They, too, set upon the prisoner. Patrolman McCarthy and Detective Rollon by this time had arrived and placed the latter under arrest.

Last night made the seventh attempt within the last two years to rob the tailor shop, which repairs police uniforms.

MAURETANIA STILL IN PORT.

Liner Will Not Be Able to Coal Before Wednesday at the Earliest.

The Mauretania, waiting since Friday for coal, with 1,300 passengers booked, will not be able to depart before Wednesday noon at the earliest.

The Pannonia, which has been here since Jan. 22, will get her coal in and sail at noon today, 48 hours late, it was said last night.

Bankers and merchants, who mailed letters Thursday night expecting the Mauretania to take them the next morning, have complained because the mails were transferred to the Holland-America liner Noordam, which will not land them in England or France before Feb. 9 or 10. The Mauretania would have been due in Southampton on Feb. 5 if she had sailed on time.

HERALD MEN UNITED IN ALUMNI SOCIETY

Veterans of the Bennett Staff Recall the Old Days at the Last Owl Club Dinner.

TO KEEP TRADITIONS ALIVE

Incidents of Old Paper's Days of Greatness Told by Men Who Revere Its Memory.

The Alumni Association of the New York Herald was organized by more than 140 members of the Owl Club at a dinner which was held early Sunday morning in the Della Robbia room of the Hotel Vanderbilt.

For two decades it has been the custom of the Herald staff to gather once a year at the Owl dinner. On this occasion cablegrams of felicitation have been sent to "Commodore" Bennett, as he was known to his employes, and leaders in the Herald organization have expounded the Bennett principles and traditions, many of which were handed down from the days of the editor who in 1835 founded the paper now merged with The Sun.

Usually the attendance at the Owl Club's meeting, has been restricted to members of the staff, but to the twenty-first and final session yesterday morning, all retired Herald men were invited. Many of the alumni made brief addresses in which they spoke with pride of their journalistic earlier days in Herald Square and before that in Ann Street, and all expressed keen regret over the passing of the Herald as they had known it. To perpetuate the spirit of the Bennett personnel and foster the associations of many years the alumni organization was formed. It was understood that dinners would be held annually.

The following officers were chosen unanimously: John T. Burke, President; William W. Willis, Vice President; Hamilton Peltz, Secretary-Treasurer. The following members were named to form an executive committee for the purpose of drawing up a constitution and by-laws: Leo L. Redding, Miss Martha Coman, Randolph Marshall, Robert E. Livingston, Michael F. Haggerty, John Floyd Humes, F. H. Pierson, Royal K. Fuller, John P. Donlon, Robert H. Patchen, Samuel Morse, Miss Caroline Harding, Allen Eddy, Karl Decker, and Frank Parker Stockbridge.

There was a vaudeville entertainment, sketches and songs in which John T. Burke, Harry Newman, Sidney Greene, Major Stewart Richardson, Eugene Ackerman, Henry Caldwell and others appeared.

"Big Six," the Typographical Union, at a meeting yesterday, ratified the decision of its Executive Committee that the typographical forces of the Sun and The New York Herald should be regarded as amalgamated and that therefore the priority rule with regard to employment would apply to the men of both forces. The question at issue was whether or not Herald printers who went to The Sun still were members of The Herald and Telegram chapel of the union and would have no priority standing with The Sun. The decision was that The Telegram should be regarded as a distinct entity.

ROOSEVELT-MILLS DEBATE.

Assistant Naval Secretary and Former Senator Defend Their Parties.

Members of the Colony Club listened to a debate yesterday afternoon between Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Democrat, and Ogden L. Mills, former State Senator, Republican, on the respective merits of their political parties. Mr. Roosevelt had to withdraw before the debate was finished, and Mayor John K. Sague of Poughkeepsie replaced him to the extent of answering questions propounded from the audience.

Mr. Roosevelt laid stress upon the efficiency of the Administration in the war. He pointed to the number of Congressional investigations as to its conduct, and argued that the failure of such to bring out any real scandals of magnitude went to show how well the war was fought. Mr. Roosevelt paid tribute to the progressive idealism of President Wilson, which, he said, represented the best aspirations of the American people.

Mr. Mills took credit to the Republican Party for the advancement of universal military training, and attacked the Administration for its one-time boasts that the country had been unprepared for war.

BROKE LAW FOR NAVY F. D. ROOSEVELT SAYS

Committed Enough Illegal Acts to Put Him in Jail for 999 Years, He Adds.

DIDN'T WAIT FOR CONGRESS

Tells Brooklyn Audience He Was Man That Picked Sims for British Task.

In telling an audience of 1,500 some of the secrets of conditions of the American Navy just before the start of the war with Germany, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, last night, admitted that he had committed enough illegal acts to put him in jail for 999 years and that he would have been undoubtedly impeached had he made wrong guesses.

This statement and confession followed an explanation of the condition of the navy before the war. He said there was no program thought out and that he prepared one which called for aggressive action.

"I was opposed by the President, who said that he did not want to commit any overt act of war, but who added that he was following a definite course in an effort to avert a war.

"Two months after war was declared," continued Mr. Roosevelt. "I saw that the navy was still unprepared and I spent forty millions for guns before Congress gave me or any one permission to spend any money."

Mr. Roosevelt told the audience that he suggested Admiral Sims as the head of the Interallied fleet in March, 1917. He paid a high tribute to Annapolis and said that the 3,000 officers and students there at the outbreak of the war deserved much credit for helping to train the great naval forces which were turned out in the war-time. He added that the academy had paid for its upkeep many times, and said it was only a matter of a short time before it would receive proper credit.

In telling of the Sims incident, Mr. Roosevelt said he was absent from Washington at the time when he received an urgent message to hurry back.

"There had been a request received from the British Admiralty to send over one of our Admirals so that he could become acquainted with conditions over there. I conveyed this information to President Wilson in the presence of Secretary Daniels. President Wilson turned to Mr. Daniels and asked, 'Who shall we send?' Mr. Daniels said there were several men that could be sent over, and he suggested that he be given a few days to make a selection.

"On the spur of the moment I suggested Admiral Sims. Both President Wilson and Secretary Daniels agreed and it was decided that Admiral Sims should start immediately.

"In the last week of March, 1917, Admiral Sims, in civilian clothes, left this country to report to the British Admiralty."

Mr. Roosevelt said that although he spent $40,000,000 without getting permission from Congress, later Congress did appropriate more than $100,000,000.

"At the beginning of the war," said Mr. Roosevelt, "we had 60,000 men and 3,000 officers in the United States Navy. On the day the armistice was signed there were 504,000 men and 30,000 officers in our navy."

After telling of the aid given the English and French navies, Mr. Roosevelt said that at the close of the war there were 350 United States vessels actually operating in European waters, not counting those used as convoys.

GIRL ASLEEP NINE DAYS.

Defies All Efforts of Hospital Surgeons to Arouse Her.

The doctors at St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn believe they have a genuine and severe case of sleeping sickness in Sophie Troyamsky, an 11-year-old schoolgirl of 166 Sutter Avenue. She came home from school a week ago on Friday complaining of drowsiness. Since going to bed that night she has not been awake for a moment.

On Thursday she was taken to the hospital and the surgeons have made every effort to awaken her. They have pressed her eyeballs, pricked her with needles and shouted her name in her ears. None of these devices brought any response except the last, which caused her to give a low groan each time.

Dr. James E. Greene of 1,304 Pacific Street, Brooklyn, and Harold Cohen, 11 years old, of 32 Chester Street, Brooklyn, have recovered from attacks of a similar illness, said, however, not to be the real sleeping sickness. They had been asleep for three days, but regained consciousness after surgical treatment.

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

© 1920

A Post in Hudson's Straits

This Revillon trading post is on the bleak and lonely shores of Hudson's Straits, opposite Baffin Land, which at this point is only about 40 miles distant. The building at the right is the post trader's house; at the extreme left is the warehouse for trading goods, and near it the building where raw furs are stored. The tents are the homes of Eskimos who soon learn to use the more convenient and portable canvas in place of heavy hide.

COMING HERE TO AID GIRL.

Spikers Hope to Take War Mother, Miss Knowles, to Baltimore.

Superintendent Baker, at Ellis Island, said yesterday that Miss Emily Knowles, the young English woman who arrived on the Lapland Jan. 15, and was detained by the immigration authorities, has been informed of the instructions from Washington to admit her conditionally on a bond for $1,000, and also told of the offer of Guy S. Spiker, the brother of the father of her three-month-old child, to wed her.

Mrs. Perley R. Spiker and Guy Spiker of Baltimore, will come to New York today to try to effect Miss Knowles's release, and persuade her to go to Baltimore with them. They will appeal to Mrs. Kate Battersby of Fall River, Mass., in whose custody the authorities are willing to release Miss Knowles, to let the girl return with them. Mrs. Spiker is willing to file a bond.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 1.—"I have consulted the immigration authorities," Guy Spiker said to-day, "and there is nothing to prevent Miss Knowles becoming an American citizen during her time of probation in the United States. We are anxious to give her the chance that she and her child deserve. Two wrongs do not make a right, and I shall be willing, even anxious, to marry her, if she will have me. Of course, I cannot say right now that I love her, for I don't know her. We can not possibly talk about any wedding plans, for that is a thing that we don't want to force. However, things have progressed nicely so far and we are hoping that destiny will work out in our favor. Somehow or other, in the end destiny is just and justice in this case means a square deal to that little girl and her baby."

RAISE TRAVEL RATES.

French and Japanese Steamship Lines Increase Fares to Far East.

News was received yesterday from Marseilles that the Messageries Maritime Company had increased the passenger fares to India, China, Japan and Australia fifty per cent., and the Japanese steamship line, the Nippon Lusen Kaisha, had added thirty five per cent. increase to their rates via the Suez Canal.

It is expected that the two English companies, the Peninsular & Oriental and the Orient line will advance their fares to meet those of their competitors. Before the war in August, 1914, a ticket round the world could be purchased, complete, in New York for $600. Now the steamship and railroad ticket agents will sell the tickets only in certain sections and to make the circle would cost at least $1,000 without any guarantees of connecting steamships in the East between Hong Kong and Colombo.

INFLUENZA DROPS; OPTIMISM FEARED

to the owners definite points in writing and would give a decision within forty-eight hours. The Commissioner agreed to all this, saying he would "tell" the owners to appear, not "invite" them. When a motion was made to postpone the strike for forty-eight hours and to hold another meeting on Tuesday to receive the decision, it was unanimously carried.

James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, told the meeting that Sheriff David H. Knott was interested in a combination of New York hotels which had sent out of New York to get strikebreakers. Sheriff Knott said last night that he had just returned from Havana after a three weeks' absence and that he had nothing to do with the management of any hotel, but simply owned stock in them as he owned Liberty bonds.

A Bellevue ambulance took four influenza patients yesterday from Pier 97, North River, alongside of which the steamship America had been docked in the morning. The cases were said to be serious. There had been five deaths from pneumonia on the ship, four of the victims being passengers, and the fifth the second officer, Enrico Orengo. The passengers' bodies were buried at sea, funeral services being conducted by Captain Tanard Mario of the ship and the purser, Elfreds La Gala.

There were twenty-seven admissions to Bellevue from midnight Saturday to 4 P. M. yesterday, fourteen of the patients having pneumonia.

Five persons, all the members of a family, were taken to hospitals by the police yesterday after tenants at 406 East 101st Street had reported that they had heard moans in a flat occupied by Samuel Levine. The police forced the door and found Levine, his wife, Rachel; Mrs. Levine's mother, Mrs. Fager Hershowitz, 70 years old, and two children, all unable to leave their beds without assistance.

Thirty cases of influenza were under treatment in Sing Sing last night, an increase of twelve in twenty-four hours. The influenza cases are isolated in the prison school rooms, which have been fitted up as an auxiliary hospital, the regular hospital having been filled with patients when the epidemic began.

INFLUENZA WANES IN CHICAGO

New Cases Decrease from 860 to 591 in Last Twenty-four Hours.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—New cases of influenza and pneumonia, and deaths from the diseases in the last twenty-four hours showed a sharp decline, and Health Department officials announced tonight that the outlook was encouraging.

Influenza cases reported today numbered 591, against 860 Saturday, and pneumonia cases decreased from 352 to 246. Influenza caused 98 deaths, as compared with 122 yesterday, and 75 persons died of pneumonia, a decrease of ten from the previous day.

INFLUENZA IN ITALY.

Rigid Measures Being Adopted to Check Epidemic.

ROME, Feb. 1.—Owing to the appearance of bronchial pneumonia as a complication of influenza in the most populous centres of Italy, hygienic measures adopted last year against the Spanish grip are again being applied. The disease is taking a benign form in 8 per cent. of the cases.

Large assemblages of people are discouraged, public places are being rigorously disinfected and all street cars are disinfected before leaving depots.

A more difficult problem is to insure disinfection of public cabs, which last year escaped entirely and undoubtedly contributed much to spreading the disease. In the meantime, however, it has been decided that all cabs carrying sick to hospitals must be disinfected by the hospital authorities before resuming service.

BOY SLAYER DOOMED, WEEPS

"Deathhouse Kid" Is Told Conviction Has Been Affirmed.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Feb. 1.—Theodore Dixon, seventeen, dubbed the "deathhouse kid" in Sing Sing Prison, wept when informed today that the Court of Appeals had just affirmed his conviction of first-degree murder. Warden Lewis Lawes had attendants notify the boy of the decision against him in Albany. The news reached the prison Saturday night but was not taken into the condemned cells then.

Cardinal Farley Club Closed.

The Cardinal Farley Club, of 15 East Thirtieth Street, which had aided more than 800,000 service men during the war through its canteen and other activities, closed last night. The property was a gift from the Cardinal to the League of Catholic Women Workers, who conducted its war activities. It is thought that the club may be reorganized if sufficient funds can be obtained.

ANDERSON ASSAILS DOCTORS

Anti-Saloon Leaguer Impeaches Honesty of Liquor Prescribers.

Attacking the use of whisky for influenza in an address at the Ridge View Congregational Church, White Plains, yesterday William H. Anderson, of the Anti-Saloon League, said that "the doctor who defends alcoholic liquor as medicine argues from his appetite or his prejudice instead of from his judgment or any scientific knowledge."

The Anti-Saloon League must be kept going, he said, to launch an even broader "educational work than ever before attempted. For example, the people must be taught that whisky is not helpful but harmful in influenza and pneumonia.

To support this assertion he quoted Dr. Harvey W. Wiley and attacked physicians who prescribe liquor.

"Most of what is published about the difficulty in getting whisky for influenza medicine is wet propaganda," he said. "Many druggists are conscienceless profiteers, or are sore at the loss of profits on liquor sold to persons ashamed to go to a saloon to get it. And these druggists are seeking to make it hard for liquor to be obtained on the prescriptions of behind-the-time physicians who persist in using it.

"Many druggists, of course, are highly conscientious. One great drug chain which had cut out liquor has given a fine example of unselfish public service by carrying it for sale at cost in some of its stores for emergency use until the public gets adjusted and educated."

Two arrests for violation of the prohibition act were reported yesterday. Dominick Mayo and Antonio Grillo, both of 5 Christie Street, were locked up in the Oak Street Station last night charged with transporting liquor. The men had a gallon demijohn of red wine, which, they said, they were taking from one house to another.

Prison Newspaper's New Name.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Feb. 1.—Sing Sing prison's newspaper, Star-Bulletin, has appeared for the last time under that title. Major Lewis Lawes, the warden, announced today that he has ordered the name of the paper changed to the Sing Sing Bulletin.

The newspaper, which is printed once a month, was founded as the Star of Hope, under former Warden Addison H. Johnson, about twenty years ago.

Energizing Production

The key to deflation is production, and the exercise of thrift, implying economy, saving and the elimination of extravagance in every direction. Contraction of consumption and decrease of indebtedness will equally serve.

With deflation must come a reduction in the scale of living, but this should be no hardship, inasmuch as scale is relative, and deflation, like inflation, will affect all alike. Inflation has its joys and its sorrows, but it does not contain so much ill as deflation. We cannot refrain from again quoting the philosophy and wisdom of Sam Patch, who averred that it was not the flying that hurt, but the 'lighting.

The present conditions in the steel trade are, it would appear, repeated throughout our industry generally, with promise of continuation of activity. The fly in the ointment is that we are not producing at the rate of 100 per cent. but possibly only 75 per cent. or 80 per cent. The Harriman National Bank has already pointed for the benefit of its customers the probable course that trade must ultimately take, and we believe that they are fully prepared for any change in the present trend.

The solution of the cost of living problem will be helped by immigration, of which there are favorable reports coming to hand. What this means in the reduction of labor costs is obvious. As many supposed, the rapid emigration of our aliens back to Europe was in large part a temporary matter. Now they are returning. They have discovered America to be a land not only of promise but of performance.

ASTRONOMER PLANS ARTIFICIAL ECLIPSE

Professor Todd to Use Black Balloon to Shut Off Sun's Rays in Tests in Plane.

WILL RISE ABOVE MISTS

Clear Observations Said to be Possible at 30,000 Feet Over Turbulent Ether.

A project to create artificial eclipses of the sun by using a black balloon and carry on astronomical observations by following the balloon in an airplane, is being matured by Professor David Todd, who holds the chair of astronomy at Amherst College, according to announcement last night by the Aero Club of America.

If experiments can be conducted successfully, the hope of the astronomer is said to be that he will be able to learn new things about the sun's corona which otherwise would necessitate waiting for years for natural eclipses. The announcement says that through the use of modern airplanes, equipped with the "super-charger" or "aero-compresser," which prevents loss of engine power due to rarified air, a man can rise above 30,000 feet and carry out observations of celestial phenomena from altitudes above the turbulent atmosphere close to the earth which interferes with obtaining clear and accurate knowledge. Heights greater than 30,000 feet already have been attained by aviators.

Professor Todd's eagerness to study an eclipse from a high altitude and the uncertainty of plans predicated upon a real eclipse rather than an artificial one were reflected on the occasion of the sun's eclipse of May 29 last. Secretary of the Navy Daniels assigned to him a seaplane and two aviators so that he might carry on his work from the North Brazil zone of observation. Unfortunately the ship carrying the expedition met with an accident and did not reach the zone in time. Professor Todd then went up from Bermuda but, it generally was understood, did not meet with the success which might have crowned his efforts had he reached a more favorable place.

While the announcement of his new plans made last night went into no great detail, it said that Professor Todd just had made a report to the Aero Club in which he had outlined twenty difficult problems of astronomy which he hoped might be solved from airplanes at great height.

Henry Woodhouse says of the project:

"Up to the present the astronomer's view of the celestial ceiling has been through 30,000 feet of atmosphere of mixed densities, which refract the rays of the stars and the reflected light of planets. The columns of hot air rise from the earth, being displaced by solid air and further disturbed by horizontal air currents rushing downward from a quivering substance which is greatly magnified by the telescope, and looking through this thickness of turbulent atmosphere is almost like looking at an object in the sky from a submarine under water. If the astronomer could get above this thickness of refractory atmosphere to a level 30,000 feet above the earth he would be able to get at a number of problems at closer range and work out their solutions."

Travis, State Controller, announced last night that nearly 1,000,000 telephone subscribers in this city would receive today with the regular monthly statements, copies of a pamphlet explaining the new Income Tax, law. WOMEN'S SPRING SUITS

Not in Some of our Suits, but all of our Suits—Not as "Finishing Touches," but Through and Through

THE Franklin Simon & Co. collection of Spring suits is an object lesson in fine workmanship. It bears study. Evident to the eye are the perfect seams, braid pipings, folds, silk arrowheads and hand made button holes. Hidden from view, but as importantly present, are the careful shaping and stitching that maintain the grace of a draped line as skilfully as the severity of a tailored line.

From the First Basting Stitches to the Last Tailored Touches

every suit in the Women's Suit Shop tells the story of the infinite care that has been exercised in its creation and the trained judgment that has guided its selection. In short, Franklin Simon & Co. suits, including a number designed and made in our own Fifth Avenue workrooms, are custom tailored. And she who chooses from among them has the pleasure of being suited, substituted for the annoyance of being fitted.

THE DAY OF COOPERATION

(Cooperation Won the War)

Through cooperation maximum results are attained at minimum cost. This is true economy.

THE RICE LEADERS OF THE WORLD ASSOCIATION is an unique phase of cooperation. The hard-won reputation, prestige and goodwill of the worthy concerns forming the Association are banded together as a cohesive force to demonstrate and further popularize sound business principles. The executives controlling these concerns believe in and practise these principles, as set forth in the Association's

QUALIFICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP:

HONOR—A recognized reputation for fair and honorable business dealings.

STRENGTH—A responsible and substantial financial standing.

QUALITY—An honest product, of quality truthfully represented.

SERVICE—A recognized reputation for conducting business in prompt and efficient manner.

"The Association Emblem portrays these qualifications by word and symbol."

The above Qualifications for Membership describe the foundation upon which a business must be built to enjoy Membership. The Association's EMBLEM portrays these Qualifications by word and symbol. Wherever seen in connection with a member's name, product or policy the above Emblem stands for fair business treatment. It represents members' policy behind their merchandise. It marks the spirit which governs their every business act.

The prestige that comes from right business conduct is the inheritance of members. It is admitted that Association membership brings new business to them and binds their old business friends closer to them; but—

The purpose of the Association goes beyond this. It also benefits buyers and consumers in the U. S. A. and markets of the world. It establishes an unquestioned and dependable source of supply. Read through the list of Members below. The confidence you place in one or more of the Members justifies equal confidence in every Member.

The Association claims no monopoly of business integrity—it speaks only of its Members. Manufacturers, merchants, buyers and the public are cordially invited to write to the Association regarding the part they can take in this movement for better business.

THE SCREEN

There is beautiful photographic work in "The Willow Tree," at the Capitol this week. The Japanese setting of the story gave Henry Otto, the director, and his associates exceptional opportunities, and they did not seem to have missed any of them. Also they made a number of pictures which revealed a mastery of camera technique as well as artistry of setting. Their dream and moonlight scenes were especially good. It was by its pictorial quality that "The Willow Tree" achieved distinction.

With all its admitted accuracy of detail, and despite the fact that its cast included several natives of Japan, the photoplay was not impressively Japanese. Perhaps it wasn't meant to be. It was probably intended to be what it was, simply a romance employing an idea of Japan familiar in popular fiction, with costumes, settings and customs serving rather to give it fanciful colors than to identify it with the country across the Pacific.

Viola Dana, who played the leading rôle, was a Japanese maiden of the kind seen sometimes in American musical comedies. Many persons, perhaps, would be pleased by her shrugs and smiles, her coy and cute ways of doing things, but none of her little tricks would be strange or foreign to them. It may be that they would like her better for that. A genuinely Japanese heroine might be somewhat incomprehensible.

The story of "The Willow Tree" is from the play by J. H. Benrimo and Harrison Rhoades and is well known surely. Like most other Japanese romances contrived for Western consumption, it is about the love of an Englishman (sometimes he is an American) for a maiden of Japan, and the consequent, and expected, difficulties that arise. The narrative gets out of the rut, and becomes charming, when a supposed, and perhaps actual, Japanese legend is introduced in which the personified heart of a willow tree destroys her mortal life so that the warrior she loves may be free to answer his country's call to arms. The situation in the legend arises in the story, but the real heroine resorts to a ruse to send her English lover to the war against Germany and is waiting for him in perfect health when he returns four years later. She could not emulate the girl of the legend because that would have made the ending tragic, and "The Willow Tree" never has any idea of becoming a tragedy.

Among those most noticeable in the cast, besides Miss Dana, are Edward Connelly, Pell Trenton, and Frank Tokunago.

Beginning this week, the Capitol abandons its policy of continuing a musical production of the revue type through several weeks and turns to the presentation of operatic and other works to be changed every Sunday. The present offering is an elaborately staged cantata opera, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," for which S. Coleridge-Taylor composed the music. Longfellow's words are sung by a chorus to orchestral accompaniment and the story is acted in pantomime by the principals. The result is novel and pleasing, except, perhaps, for those who have forgotten their "Hiawatha" and neglected to read the part of the poem printed in the program. The pantomime is hardly intelligible unless one knows beforehand what it is all about. Every one, however, can enjoy the excellent music and also the setting and general atmosphere of the production.

"Double Speed," with Wallace Reid, is at the Rivoli this week. Its title is misleading to those who have Reid's "The Roaring Road" and "The Lottery Man" in mind. Its speed is generally about half that of those productions, and sometimes much less. The story does become merry in places, though, and the general opinion will probably be that, if one has to wait for the laughs, they prove worth waiting for. This is principally because of Reid, but is also due to clever complications in the story, which is such an involved arrangement of nonsense that no satisfactory outline of it can be given in the space available. It must do to say that Reid takes the part of an adventurous young man who goes from New York to Los Angeles in an automobile, or rather two of them; changes his identity several times, fictitiously assumes his right name, and, after having all of his tangles straightened out, concentrates on making love to his heroine, who, by the way, is Wanda Hawley, as prepossessing and talented a young person as one is likely to meet on the screen for weeks.

Tully Marshall and Theodore Roberts are in the cast, but haven't much to do, though, of course, they do that well. The production was directed by Sam Wood.

Gaiety is added to the Rivoli program by a Chaplin-Essanay revival, "A Burlesque on Carmen," in which Edna Purviance, the best leading woman Chaplin ever had, and Ben Turpin will be recognized.

The photodramatic feature at the Strand this week is "Water, Water Everywhere," with Will Rogers in the leading rôle, and other pictorial offerings are "Mooning Through Kipawa," a Chester scenic, and "Call Loan," an adaptation from O. Henry.

Douglas MacLean and Dorris May, who scored so emphatically in their first starring vehicle, "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave," are back at the Rialto in "What's Your Husband Doing?" and "Excess Baggage," with Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, fills out the program.

Thomas H. Ince's production of "Dangerous Hours" is at B. S. Moss's Broadway for the week.

Motion pictures of the Stecher-Caddock wrestling match were presented at the Cohan Theatre last night.

Ina Claire Secretly Wed Year Ago.

Ina Claire, it was learned yesterday, has been secretly married for about a year to James Whittaker, a Chicago newspaper man. About two years ago Miss Claire was engaged to be married to the late Lieutenant-Commander Lawrence Townsend, Jr. Miss Claire is at present appearing at the Lyceum Theatre as the star of David Belasco's production of "Gold Diggers."

TRY-OUT FOR TWO PLAYS.

Brady to Test "Opportunity" and "The Wedding Ring" on the Road.

William A. Brady, continuing a custom he started recently in Boston, will give trial productions to two plays out of town in the next two weeks. Alice Brady and the players appearing with her in "Forever After" will give a single performance at the Lyric Theatre, Philadelphia, on the afternoon of Feb. 11, of "Opportunity," by John T. Glynn and Owen Davis. "The Wedding Ring," by Owen Davis, will be acted in Boston on Feb. 10 by the players in "At 9:45."

Mr. Brady has entered into an arrangement with Jessie Bonstelle whereby plays will be given trial productions this Summer in stock companies controlled by her.

Mr. Brady announced yesterday that he will soon bring to New York a drama entitled "Man and Woman," in which Holbrook Blinn and Mary Nash are now appearing on tour. It is the work of Benjamin F. Glazer and Carlos Bonhomme. Early in March Mr. Brady will sail for England, where he will present "The Man Who Came Back" in association with Charles B. Cochran, the English producer.

No, merely one of true musical appreciation—typical of many the whole land over.

This gem of a grand in miniature, the Kranich & Bach Grandette, less than five feet long, costs little more than a good upright yet in regal appearance, superb tonal qualities and exceptionally sturdy construction, 'tis admittedly the nearest realization to the finest concert grand.

Temtor BRAND REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

PURE PRESERVES
APPLE BUTTER
JELLIES, SYRUPS
AND MINCE MEAT

—the new Temtor Label
The name—Temtor—is your guarantee of the good old home-made taste and purity of Temtor Products—even if you happen to get them with their old labels.

An Old-Time Home-Made Taste Won Temtor This Great Business

THREE immense factories are now needed to make enough Temtor Products to give everyone all they want of that good old home-made taste.

For ten years Temtor Preserves and Syrups have been made so well—with the same pure fruits and sugar that were used for home preserving—that the St. Louis factories of the Best-Clymer Manufacturing Company couldn't be built fast enough to supply Temtor Products to all the people who wanted them.

—And so, a few months ago, a larger, more powerful company was organized—and called the Temtor Corn and Fruit Products Company, to make that good old home-made taste on a much larger scale. The new company bought the immense factories of the Corn Products Refining Company, at Granite City, Illinois. The price paid for this property was four and one-half million dollars.

In St. Louis, the "Mother" plant of the Temtor Products Company is being increased so that it will soon be making more than twice as many preserves as ever before—and down at Fort Smith, Arkansas, there is still another large Temtor factory—adding its daily output to help satisfy the sweet tooth of America.

Temtor Preserves are pure, fresh fruit and sugar—prepared in shining copper kettles, in vast home-like kitchens of spotless cleanliness. The delicacies sold under the Temtor Label are: strawberries from Missouri and the Middle West; loganberries, raspberries and blackberries from the garden spots of the Northwest coast; cherries and plums from Michigan and Wisconsin; peaches, pineapples, oranges and quinces from California; and Jonathan and Ben Davis apples from the Ozark Hills of Missouri and Arkansas.

In addition to supplying the public with delicacies like this—the Temtor Corn and Fruit Products Company is a large manufacturer of Pure Corn Syrups and Sorghum Syrup. It has 6,000 acres of land under lease—and in addition to its own crops has to purchase in the open market to supply its large sorghum mills—which are in the Ft. Smith plant.

The 1919 sales of the St. Louis plant alone were more than four million dollars. As soon as its new factory buildings are completed and its still greater production is combined with that of the Ft. Smith and Granite City plants—about October 1st—the Temtor Company will then be making and selling from twenty to thirty million dollars' worth of Temtor Products a year.

The good old home-made taste that won this great business will win your approval. The next time your "sweet tooth" gets aching for good things to eat ask for your favorite fruit preserved the Temtor way.

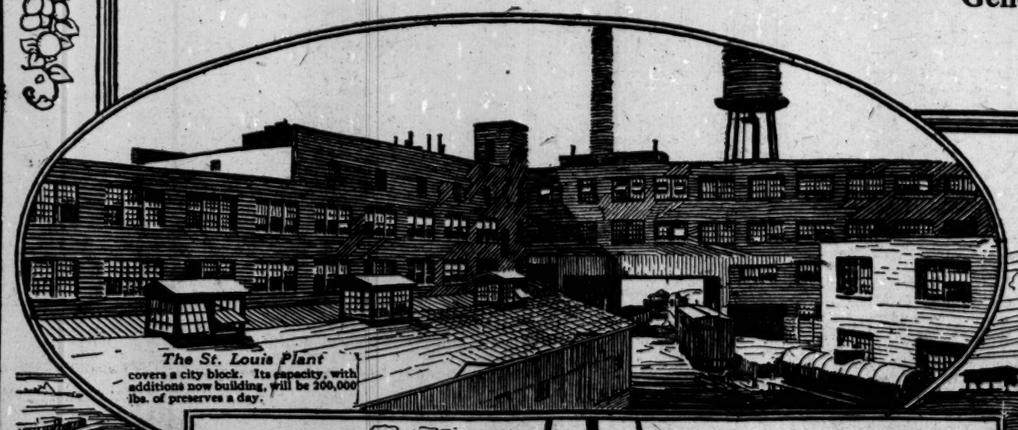
General Offices—St. Louis



The St. Louis Plant
covers a city block. Its capacity, with additions now building, will be 200,000 lbs. of preserves a day.

The Ft. Smith Plant
It's the largest Sorghum Syrup plant in the world. It covers 20 acres.

The Granite City Plant covers 33 acres and has a daily capacity of 600,000 lbs. of Corn Syrup.

VISCOUNT GREY'S VIEW OF THE TREATY RESERVATIONS.

To Viscount GREY of Fallodon the mind of HENRY CABOT LODGE is an "unplumb'd, salt, estranging sea," or, if he fathom it, he prefers, in his deep desire for the acceptance of the League Covenant, for placatory effect and propitiation, to assume that reverence for "traditions consecrated by the advice of WASHINGTON," not party politics and personal animosities, must be the motive that has prompted the Republican Senators, under Mr. LODGE'S leadership, to oppose and obstruct ratification of the Treaty of Versailles. Viscount GREY'S letter, cabled to THE TIMES of yesterday, is not merely intended to explain, palliate, and defend at the bar of British public opinion our astounding treatment of a pact that embodies principles of right and justice for which we have always contended, but to convince Britons that it would be better to let us enter the League hobbled and hampered by the Lodge reservations than by objecting to them to give us cause for staying out.

Exception might be taken to the reasoning upon which he bases his plea in justification of the Senate's course. Under the Covenant as drawn up—the reference is obviously to Article X.—it might be possible at some future time for a President "to commit the United States through the "American representative on the "Council of the League of Nations to "a policy of which the Legislature at "that time might disapprove." This contingency, he points out, "cannot arise in Great Britain." Neither can it arise in the United States. In no matter which the Constitution commits to the control of Congress could any American representative or any President "commit" the United States; and whatever assurances might be given they would always and inevitably be conditioned upon the approval of Congress. And all members of the Council would be well aware of that condition.

But the main thing is that Viscount GREY argues that the United States should be admitted to the League, reservations and all. Although he expressly states that his views are those of "a private individual," the conjecture that they are put forth with the knowledge and approval of his Government is not excluded. There is still an obstacle in the six votes of Britain and its self-governing Dominions. As to that he is optimistic. Great Britain will not yield the point; of the right of her Dominions to a vote as members of the League there can be "no qualification." But if any part of the Empire is involved in a dispute with the United States all parts of the Empire as well as the United States would be debarred from voting; in other matters it is believed that the votes of the Dominions would "in most cases be found on the same side as that of the United States." This should be comforting to sticklers for Lodge reservation No. XIV. But if that is not enough "we have no objection in principle to increase of the American vote."

Perhaps that would be the best way out. Perhaps, also, the shortest way with Article X. would be to cut it out of the Covenant altogether. Between complete excision and Mr. LODGE'S reservation the difference would be quite negligible, for in either case we could be counted on to take forcible steps to prevent war only when Congress felt like it; in other words, we should be moved by self-interest, by the desire for self-protection, not by love of peace or the obligation of the Treaty.

The test of Viscount GREY'S plan will come with its application. Thus far no concession or overture has moved Senator LODGE. While making fair profession of a wish to secure ratification, he has at every critical moment been found obdurate, manoeuvring to put new obstacles in the Treaty's way. He is resourceful, apparently determined to kill the Treaty. Will he accept his own reservations if the Democrats and the other parties to the Covenant accept them? Who can feel sure that for just such an emergency as this he is not holding in reserve other flagitious infringements of our sovereignty, half a dozen new assaults upon our independence, disguised but all fatal? Those who have watched his management of the campaign against the Treaty with increasing conviction of his implacable hostility to ratification will not be able to dismiss their doubts about his reception of Viscount GREY'S very evidently sincere effort to help the Treaty on its way to acceptance.

Everything is conceded in this overture and it comes from a high source. It bespeaks the earnest desire of our kin across the sea, we may say the desire of their Government, that we accept the Treaty and enter the League. It would be a halting advance toward secure peace without our participation. But Viscount GREY speaks for but one of the Allies; a frank, full-hearted acceptance of his plan would not make the Treaty secure. Our delay and dalliance have been of evil example. If we ratify with this hedge of reservations, will France ask no new thing as the condition of her assent? Will Italy be content to waive all her causes of complaint and dissatisfaction? In the truculent, chip-on-shoulder phrasing of the reservation respecting the Monroe Doctrine there is the broadest opportunity for Japan to demand far more than the Allies and the United States could grant. In short, our perverse behavior has invited danger from many quarters, insomuch that Great Britain's assent to every point that the hostility of the Lodges, the Knoxes, the Borahs, and the Johnsons could raise would not insure present peace or future safety.

Moreover, the President's view of the transaction must be considered, although, if it were made certain that all the other Powers would accept ratification in this form, we do not see how he could justify to American public opinion his own personal refusal to complete the process of ratification. Viscount GREY'S broad-mindedness, the sincerity of his undertaking, and the generous impulse that prompted it will be appreciated in this country. But although his letter may seem to be a powerful reinforcement of the forces in the Senate that have professed to be striving for ratification with Mr. LODGE'S reservations, we must warn him that he need look for no very effusive thanks from that quarter.

THE RAILWAYS AND THE COUNTRY.

Great weight has been given to the argument that the railways ought to be made self-supporting out of regard to the interests of bona fide investors, as distinguished from the in-and-out operators in their securities. Abating nothing of the weight deservedly attached to this consideration, it may be said that there is a better reason. Railways do not exist for the sake of investors in their securities, any more than taxes are laid for the benefit of holders of Government bonds. The support of the Government for the general good and the service of shippers for the good of all production and distribution are the prime motives in those cases. And the fact is that the railways are failing in service to shippers as much as they are disappointing investors. Shippers are themselves partly responsible for their troubles, for they have put cheapness of service above security and sufficiency of service.

Now that they are paying the penalty of their mistake they may change their opinions. Items in last week's news support this suggestion. The West Coast Lumbermen's Association says that car supply has relapsed to the deplorable condition of a few months ago, and production has fallen from 90,863,000 feet for the last week reported to 67,074,597 feet. The outlook for future car supply is bad, and sales managers are refusing business until they can feel some assurance that they can make deliveries. Bradstreet's names first and last among unfavorable influences upon trade the shortage of railway cars and motive power. The elevators of the Northwest are bulging with wheat which cannot be moved, and in which much money is "frozen." The movement of manufactured iron is deficient in deplorable degree.

The reason is simple. The Federal Administration has not ordered as many cars as are necessary to replace those which became unserviceable in the ordinary course of events, and has done its best to make good the deficiencies by energy in pooling and marshaling the cars available, establishing priorities according to the necessities of the trades concerned. The Director General says that cars must be furnished, like other betterments, from capital account, and that is the business of the companies, not of the Government operators. The Director General is almost satisfied with this state of affairs, although he says that he has added annually 84,500 cars, compared with the 97,158 added during the years preceding his administration. Also he reports a decrease of 4.89 per cent. in efficiency of loading, equivalent to 105,000 cars, and despite the co-operation of many shippers. The Director General recites the many measures which he has taken in order to realize the benefits of unity of operation, and yet shippers know that they never had such troubles in such degree before the campaign against the railways produced its necessary results.

It might be thought from this that the country is threatened with interruption of communications like that in Russia, under a severer form of Government operation. The fact is that business is moving; but the financial results are not similar. The Eastern lines of the Pennsylvania in December earned gross ten millions more than in 1917, but the net operating income fell from forty-nine millions to seven millions. The Baltimore & Ohio increased its gross in December by half, but its net operating income fell from twenty-two millions to five. The Illinois Central increased its gross by half, and earned a deficit. There is no promise of cars or other facilities in such records, which could be increased indefinitely. When profits were allowed and realized from rates less than now charged, the railway profiteers did not so treat the shippers. They built terminals and tracks on a scale which are the salvation of the present situation, and were condemned then for their extravagance. If the shippers want those conditions to return, they have their choice of supporting more economic administration of the railways or rates high enough to allow whatever extravagance of administration in the payroll, and something over for betterments.

It is time for the shippers to recognize that the service of the railways belongs to them, as much as the bond interest belongs to those who have furnished the money for betterments. The stoppage of the flow of funds into railway investments and the turning of railway earnings into wages is not for the advantage of the service of shippers. The growth of the railways has stopped and the growth of the country has increased. The railways are about at the limit of their efficiency, and the country must make up its mind to get along with less railway service or impose an alternative on those who talk and talk and do nothing.

GOVERNMENT FROM THE OUTSIDE.

The guarding of liquor in bonded warehouses, whose owners must pay the revenue taxes on it but cannot sell the liquor for beverage purposes or export it, has become a concern as well as an obligation of the Government; but it seems to be the view in some quarters that the Government ought not to worry about the expense involved, because the Anti-Saloon League has plenty of money to spare, millions of dollars, in fact, to aid the Government in the emergency. The Federal Government, with the cooperation of the State Governments, is required to enforce the prohibition amendment. Guarding liquors in bond—there are 800 warehouses and they hold 60,000,000 gallons—is essential to the proper enforcement of a law which was enacted mainly through the activities of the Anti-Saloon League with a great campaign fund.

One State Legislature after another was manoeuvred into approval of the amendment during the war, until it was adopted, and the country woke up one morning to find that without referendums, provided in some of the States, the Prohibitionists, who had never been able to poll much in excess of two hundred thousand votes for their Presidential candidates, had won a victory by stealth. The Anti-Saloon League stood over the electorate like a Colossus. No wonder it considers itself an agency of Government by virtue of its triumph in organic lawmaking. It is now ready to enforce prohibition if the Federal Government and the States do not satisfy its ideas of what enforcement should be.

In the House of Representatives on Friday last, when the question of an appropriation for guarding the bonded warehouses was under consideration and an additional $1,000,000 was regarded as probably inadequate, the prohibition members reminded the House that the Anti-Saloon League was raising $25,000,000 to see that the amendment was enforced, to "aid the Government," it was declared. An objection was raised by Mr. IGOE of Missouri, who could not understand why the Anti-Saloon League should be allowed to provide money for the enforcement of the law, or to have anything to do with the matter. But no other voice was raised in protest or astonishment.

The proposal of government by the Anti-Saloon League did not seem strange to Congress; it had become accustomed to the idea. As the League had procured the adoption of the prohibition amendment by working on the fears of the politicians and by bringing "moral pressure" to bear upon the State Legislatures, it seemed logical that the League should take a hand in enforcing the law and providing its own appropriations with a liberality that made an economically inclined Congress seem niggardly.

The structure of the Government never contemplated such an innovation. But why should the League be impeded by precedent and custom in its purpose to set up as a Government agency to enforce the law that it had imposed upon the country? Evidently it does not intend to be hampered. It has the money, it has the organization, it has the audacity. Congress feels poor, it does not know its own mind, its will is weak, and it will consent to the guardianship of the Anti-Saloon League unless sane and robust leadership comes to the front to insist upon the Federal Government, and incidentally the State Governments, exercising their prerogatives without the interference of a private organization that has no governmental powers whatsoever.

WOULD SCHNEIDER KNOW HIM?

It is much that we are beginning to have American opera of any kind, and in "Rip Van Winkle" DE KOVEN and MACKAYE have produced a work which is frankly gay and popular, telling a tender and diverting tale amid picturesque surroundings. One can only wish it well. Yet in the case of what purports to be native, the native critical faculty has a special license.

It is reported of the elder DELMONICO that in opening his American establishment he directed special attention to producing the autochthonous dishes in their autochthonous forms. Turkey and cranberry sauce were to be turkey and cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie was to be pumpkin pie. A "Rip Van Winkle" cannot fail to be somewhat disillusioning in which the indigenous tongue falls of an effective enunciation and in which, furthermore, when the syllables come most trippingly forth, they bear a foreign accent. The fault lies somewhat, no doubt, with our lack of an adequate conservatory of opera, but the management cannot wholly escape responsibility. Not the least of the charms of native art is that it addresses, or should address, the vernacular heart in the vernacular tongue. It is difficult to give thanks unreservedly over a board upon which the sacrificial bird is not adequately crisp, the sacrificial pie insufficiently succulent and tanned by the oven.

With the new portrait of our old hero, the situation is equally dubious. Rip is betrothed to the termagant Katrina; but, such being the librettist's sensitiveness to romantic predilections, he escapes the fate of marriage with her. There is a chit of a girl, one Peterkee, with whom he wanders off to the mountains, and, when he returns after the sleep of twenty years, a magic flask restores his patriarchal visage and rusty hinges to their pristine youth and vigor. The opera has the happy ending of a marriage with Peterkee. And so we have a Rip who is never seen as a husband, who is not driven to drink by the wifely tongue, or to the old familiar moods of humble pathos and heavenly humor.

To many good folk all this will be clear gain. Speaking from the Easy Chair, GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS once recorded the stern moralities of a wifely Portia upon an earlier portrayal of the character. "See," she said, "the earnest, tearful interest "with which these boys and girls near "us hang upon the story. The "charm to them of the scene and of "the acting is indescribable. Do "you suppose they can escape the effect? All their sympathy is kindled "for the good-natured and good-for-"nothing reprobate, and when Gretchen turns him out into the night "and the storm they cannot help "feeling that it is she, not he, who "has ruined the home, and that the "drunken vagabond, who has just "made his endearments the cover of "deception, is really the victim of a "virago." From the point of view of this Portia, Rip is a terrible example who all alone would justify the stern rule of the present day.

The reply of the Easy Chair will to many folk seem inadequate. "The "picture as he [JOSEPH JEFFERSON] "paints it is moral in the sense that "nature is moral—the sweet-natured, "weak-willed, simple-hearted vaga-"bond of the village and the mountains, touching the heart with "pity, and, in the drunken scene, "with sorrow. This figure excludes "all the rest. Its symmetry and "charm are the triumph of the play." But this was said in an unregenerate day, when life and art stood on equal footing with the moralities.

Well might this new and conventionally romantic Rip exclaim: "And are we then so soon forgot?" Even if his dog Schneider were there he would not know him.

BOYCOTTS IN THE BALKANS.

A dispatch from Belgrade, pointing out quite accurately the prostration of the Serbian people after three wars and their urgent need for a period of peace and reconstruction, says that in case the Adriatic dispute cannot be settled in any way acceptable to Jugoslav ideas the consequence is likely to be not war, but an economic boycott of Italian goods. This statement can hardly be accepted. Boycotts as a substitute for war are not in favor in Southeastern Europe, and the feeling between Jugoslavs and Italians is of a sort which would hardly be satisfied by purely economic reprisals. Settlement on the basis of the Treaty of London plus Fiume would almost certainly mean war; and there has been some fear that even a compromise might be accepted only as temporary, with the Jugoslavs dreaming of a war some day when they were better off to recover their irredenta in Istria, or the Italians distracted by a movement in which Spalato and Sebenico took the place of Trent and Trieste.

That danger is likely to exist for some time, no matter what settlement might be reached between the two Governments; but if the settlement is one which both Governments can make in good faith there is some hope that ideas of war for the completion of national unity may gradually disappear. It would be impossible to make any settlement which would wholly unite both peoples; there must be thousands of Italians left in Jugoslavia and thousands of Jugoslavs left in Italy by a decision which would consider nothing but ethnographic boundaries. The only way either nation could annex all its irredentas would be by a grave infringement on the rights of the other.

But since any settlement has to be a compromise, there is some hope that a compromise which both Governments could accept would ultimately be accepted by all but the irreconcilables in both nations. The most serious danger that will remain if the present peril of war can be averted will be that Government and people on each side will feel that they have been cheated; and while this feeling might not issue in war, there is considerable likelihood that a settlement such as now seems possible might suit the Jugoslavs so little that they would boycott Italian goods anyway.

Jugoslavia suffers, like all the rest of Eastern Europe, principally from the breakdown of transportation and the collapse of exchange. The territories of the old Serbian Kingdom have been devastated and almost a fifth of that kingdom's population has perished. The loss in man power can be recovered only in a long period of peace. The devastations, bad as they were, could not wholly ruin an agricultural country; and the Serbian dinar has a higher value in exchange than the currency of any other country in Southeastern Europe except Greece. In the other half of the kingdom, the part which was included in the Dual Monarchy, the loss of life has been far less and there was no devastation by invading armies. Economically these territories are in comparatively good condition, but they have been flooded with the almost worthless currency inherited from the Hapsburgs. Yet the country has a surplus of food products in many districts; rich mines await development; and in the forests there is an asset which can be realized comparatively soon. The Jugoslavs say that they lost a hundred million dollars' worth of exports in the last year because they could not use the Adriatic ports.

If they lost that, the Italians also lost a good deal. The establishment of a competent system of communication throughout Jugoslavia requires much engineering work of the sort in which the Italians have excelled. Italian manufactures have, or had, a great field in the Jugoslav countries; and to the advantage of propinquity is added the very material asset of many thousand Italians who can speak the language. There is an economic element in the dispute over the Adriatic ports, though it has been greatly overestimated in much of the discussion of the question; there is a far greater economic asset in good relations. The Italians can do certain things for Jugoslavia better than any other people; the Italians can make money in Jugoslavia more conveniently than anywhere else. Here is a community of interest which would long since have silenced the bickerings over frontiers if economic interest were the all-powerful motive of policy that our contemporary materialists would have us believe. But both nations put aside their own interests to fight out a point of honor.

Mr. NITTI, at least, seems to realize the importance for the material well-being of his nation of a friendly neighbor across the Adriatic. There is still hope that the dispute can be settled in some way which will be moderately acceptable to both sides, and will not be followed by a demonstration of the old pastime of cutting off the nose to spite the face.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Avocations of a Marshal Academician.

Something of what we call, not altogether accurately, the Old World quality appears in a dispatch that came the other day from Paris—a display of the union of plain living and high thinking, the blend of simplicity of material circumstance with the highest manifestations of intellectual and moral splendor. Marshal FOCH visited the Academy to rehearse the ceremonies connected with his approaching reception into that august body, and in the course of his visit had one or two experiences that may have seemed strange to him, and certainly seem strange to the Anglo-Saxon reader.

In the first place, the commander in chief of the armies of civilization, the greatest armies ever gathered together—a man who, one may almost say, deserves to supplant ATTILA as bearer of the title of "Last of the Romans," in just recognition of his services as the preserver of Latin civilization against the new ATTILA—this man who a year or two ago had the power of life and death over millions now has to read to a committee of the Academy the speech which he is going to make on his reception, to see if it is up to the required standard. That scene would perhaps have given considerable pleasure to Mr. ERZBERGER and his colleagues of the German armistice commission, who a year ago last November had to listen to a speech by Marshal FOCH, perhaps his most famous one, which they found highly unsuitable, but which they were compelled to accept none the less. Whether the Marshal's address to the Academy will be as good reading as the armistice terms we do not yet know, but at any rate the committee passed it, and the Marshal was spared the painful experience known to so many undergraduates of being "flunked on composition."

Cheese as Related to the Cosmos.

Having successfully passed this test, the Marshal was allowed to remain and watch the Academy at work; and its work at this particular time happened to be the discussion of the definition of the word "cheese," which is to go into that dictionary by which the Academy sets the standard of the French language. As a good Frenchman Marshal FOCH must know that cheese is a serious matter; but, not being a philologist, he has perhaps regarded it heretofore from a somewhat empirical point of view. But after listening to the Academy's discussion he probably knows that the subject of cheese has more aspects, material and otherwise, than were dreamed of in his philosophy. He went home, one may suppose, informed for the first time of the history, the psychology, the chemistry, and the metaphysics of cheese; and for the first time, perhaps, the savior of France realised some of the finer values of the French intellect, which in an example so commonplace doubtless can find much light on the nature of the universe.

The French genius has always excelled in the art of war, and in that field Marshal FOCH is perhaps as distinguished as any Frenchman, except the greatest Frenchman, who was not a Frenchman at all. But it has excelled in many other fields, and when it comes to a discussion of the philosophy of cheese the greatest Marshal may well sit down as a humble listener. In such matters he knows his place. There is a profitable contrast between this ceremony and that by which the University of Königsberg conferred the doctorates of philosophy, law, theology, and medicine on HINDENBURG after his victory in the Mazurian Lakes.

Intensive Production of Literature.

A certain publishing house is just now congratulating itself—and incidentally one of its authors—on "something very like a record" in the production of literature. An author of established standing wrote a book about the Peace Conference—nothing very revolutionary in this, for apparently all authors of established standing attended the Peace Conference, and most of them seem to be telling us what they think of it. But this particular author succeeded in writing his book about the Peace Conference in two weeks, an achievement of which any author might be proud.

His example incited the publishers to emulation. His manuscript was accepted, put into type, and corrected for printers' errors within three days. Twenty days after the manuscript reached the publisher the finished volumes were on their way to the booksellers. All this is rapid, very rapid indeed, and the skeptical reader might have some doubt as to the quality, if not of the mechanical production of the book, yet of its literary value. But all doubts will be silenced by the final sentence of the announcement: "Less than a week later the first printing had been exhausted." The book had justified itself.

The author and publishers had, indeed, only taken literally the repeated injunctions of the leaders of our time to "work and save." If increase of production is the only way to get out of our present troubles, let us produce as hard and as rapidly as we can, without concern for overtime; a philosophy excellent in many ways, and perhaps to be justified in this particular case by performance. But one cannot help wondering if in this intensive outburst of work the author did not perhaps save some of his ideas to put them in his next book.

The Distinguished Service Medal.

The enlisted and drafted men of the American Expeditionary Forces have been aware for a long time that the Distinguished Service Medal was not for them, although they could not understand the discrimination. They could earn the Distinguished Service Cross, but not the medal, which was intended for officers doing big or important things, often at a desk or in headquarters, in positions of responsibility. Of course it was an arbitrary ruling, because there was nothing in the law excluding men in the ranks. The law being vague in its definition of the service for which the D. S. M. should be bestowed, somebody Higher Up made his own interpretation and imposed it upon the War Department.

This must be the case, because enlisted men were recommended for the honor from headquarters of the A. E. F. in France. As the medal was much coveted, there was dissatisfaction in the army with 1,200 awards to officers and not one to a private or non-commissioned officer. The men could have the Cross, and 4,500 were given out. When the humblest soldier, combatant or cook or choredoer, can win the greatest prize of all, the Medal of Honor, by a deed of gallantry, it seems grotesque that a common enough decoration for officers should be denied to men in the ranks. The discrimination is not good for morale and it breeds class feeling. Congress should intervene and make the D. S. M. a democratic decoration.

American Sardine Supreme.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in this morning's TIMES an article lamenting the fact that without French sardines the table d'hotes in this city would lose one of their fixtures. It may be interesting to you to know that there is not one restaurant in a hundred in this city that uses French sardines at the present time. Since the beginning of the war, when the supply of French and Portuguese sardines was cut off, this city has practically depended on California sardines.

WHICH WOULD YOU TAKE?

Saranac Lake or the Great White Way—
Which would you take if you had your say?
The Silver Lake, where the red gods walk;
Or the Great White Way, with its face of chalk?

Saranac Lake or the Great White Way—
Which would you take for life's brief day
If you had your choice? Would you choose the Lake
Or the Great White Way, where sad hearts ache,
And where spectre hands and weary feet
Pass sombrely along the street—
Where stupid fools their follies share
Beneath the white lights' ghastly stare?

The Great White Way or Saranac—
Which do you say? A dreary track,
Where phantoms glide by night and day,
Is the path that leads through the Great White Way.

But Saranac—my fondest dream
Is oft of you—clear, crystal stream—
'Neath sun, or rain, or sleet, or snow,
It sets the red blood all aglow.
When memories come floating back,
Of your dear face, fair Saranac.

MR. HOOVER QUALIFIES.

Constitutional Provision Is for Fourteen Years' Residence in All.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The assertion has been made in at least two newspapers that Mr. Hoover is not an available candidate for the Presidency because he does not satisfy the requirements which are contained in Article II., Section 1, of the Constitution of the United States, which are as follows: "No person except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of 35 years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States." The particular requirement which it is asserted that Mr. Hoover does not satisfy is the one which has been italicized. Light is thrown upon the purpose and meaning of the qualification of a President in respect of residence by an examination of the proceedings of the Constitutional Convention, as reported in Volume 5 of Elliot's Debates, Pages 363, 447, 462, 503, 507, 521, 530 and 562. The same material is contained in Farrand's Records of the Federal Convention.

On July 24, 1787, a committee of five was elected "to report a Constitution conformable to the resolutions passed by the convention." On Aug. 20 it was moved "that the committee be instructed to report proper qualifications for the President." On Aug. 22 the committee reported a proposal that the qualifications be that "he shall be of the age of 35 years and a citizen of the United States, and shall have been an inhabitant thereof for twenty-one years." This provision was not debated, and on Aug. 31 this and other proposals which had not been acted upon were referred to a committee of eleven, one member from each State. On Sept. 4 this committee submitted the following provisions: "No person except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; nor shall any person be elected to that office who shall be under the age of 35 years, and who has not been, in the whole, at least fourteen years a resident within the United States." On Sept. 7 these provisions were agreed to without debate or dissent. On Sept. 8 "a committee was * * * appointed by ballot to revise the style of and arrange the articles which had been agreed to * * *." This committee reported the Constitution substantially as it was finally adopted.

A residence qualification for eligibility to the office of President was first suggested when the only other qualifications proposed were as to age and citizenship. It was reasonable to provide against the possibility of a person's being elected to the high office of President who had but recently become a citizen and a resident and who would therefore not be familiar with our institutions and traditions.

The committee of eleven radically modified the original proposal of the committee of five by requiring that a person to be eligible to the office of President shall be a "native-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution." If these provisions had stood alone, it would still have been possible for a person who had become a citizen of one of the States just prior to the adoption of the Constitution to have been elected at any time thereafter to the Presidency. It would also have been possible for one who was a native-born citizen, but who had lived practically all his life outside of the United States, to become a candidate for the Presidency. To meet these possibilities it was further proposed by the committee of eleven that a person shall not be elected "who has not been, in the whole, at least fourteen years a resident within the United States." This was agreed to by the convention without alteration, discussion, or dissent.

The committee which put the Constitution into final form was not authorized to make any changes in the substance of the provisions which had been adopted, but only "to revise the style of and arrange the articles which have been agreed to."

The conclusion would seem, therefore, to be obvious. There is nothing in the wording of the Constitution which requires that a President shall have been a resident within the United States for the fourteen years next preceding his election. The Constitution simply requires that he shall have been "fourteen years a resident within the United States." Clearly any fourteen years of his life will satisfy the requirement. This conclusion is made doubly clear when we find that the committee on style used the words which we now find in the Constitution as synonymous with the provision proposed by the committee of eleven, and adopted by the convention, that the President must have been "in the whole, at least fourteen years a resident within the United States."

Helen Hartley Geer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A fine and lovable example of a high type of the young college woman of today was lost to New York City when Helen Hartley Geer (Mrs. Francis H. Geer) died a few days ago at the age of 26. A graduate of Barnard College in the class of 1915, "Bab" Jenkins made herself beloved in her student days by her enthusiasm, her energy and her charm, and was a leader in literary, dramatic, and student government affairs. Similarly as an alumna she was one of the most loyal and devoted graduates of her alma mater, and served on many committees and in important offices of the Associate Alumnae.

She felt strongly the hereditary responsibility of useful citizenship, exemplified by several generations of the Hartley family, and followed especially the lead of her mother, Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, in her interest in educational and social work. At Hartley House, in the Junior League, and many other fields of useful social service she was beginning a career which would have been of real value to New York.

All who came in touch with her during her brief life will remember always her rare charm, gayety, enthusiasm, and intensely vital energy. Few people are so vividly alive. She will remain with us as a delightful and lovable type of college woman—a wife, a mother, and an active and intelligent citizen.

A Song for Schools?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having read in your issue of today the article, "School Song Angers Reds," I am led to remark that while the sentiment of the song is truly American, the words are out of place in a public school.

"Don't you think the time has come to call their little bluff?
Ask them what's the matter,
Make them can the chatter,
Then proceed to make the party rough."

Fine English to use in educating future Presidential timber!

NEAR EAST RELIEF CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Need of Stricken Peoples Told at Hippodrome and Brooklyn Academy Meetings.

INITIAL GIFTS HERE $92,000

Daniels Confident America Will Respond—Must Help to Save Armenia, Says Morgenthau.

With preliminary gifts totaling $921,000, the Near East Relief yesterday started a three weeks' nation-wide campaign to raise additional funds for continuing and extending relief work among the stricken peoples of the Bible lands. In the metropolitan area initial gifts aggregating $92,000, of which $79,000 was subscribed by fifteen Armenian residents of New York, were announced. At two meetings yesterday afternoon, one in the Hippodrome and the other in the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, speakers recounted the wrongs of Armenia and other countries of the Near East and made pleas for contributions.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels was one of the speakers at the Hippodrome meeting, which was attended by more than 1,000 persons. He said that people were apt to think of the navy merely as a fighting force alone, forgetting some of its humanitarian accomplishments. Even before the war the navy had dispatched boats carrying clothing to Armenia and since then has repeated this work frequently, he said. He related many incidents in which the navy had served as almoner to suffering peoples. Digressing a moment, the Secretary of the Navy said:

"It is a tragedy that we are fiddling here in America while the world is burning. A year ago the peoples of the world looked to America as the light to guide them from hunger and distress. We have failed to live up to our obligations by our failure to ratify the League of Nations, which would have put an end to all these deplorable conditions. But I have faith that, with or without reservations, we will not take our hand from the plow until the work is finished."

Secretary Daniels said that, independent of what men in office might do, he was certain the heart of America would respond in sympathy for Armenia. With the country so prosperous, we would be undeserving the blessings of prosperity unless we came forward, he concluded.

Gerard Praises Navy.

James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, prefaced his address by saying that if he were Secretary of the Navy any Admiral who attempted to form a soviet born of criticism would go on the slide and find his head in the basket within twenty-four hours. There never had been anything the matter with the navy during the war, he added, significantly.

While France and England were trying to grab off rich territory, America, in the rôle of an idealist, was doing its best to feed Armenia, he said. But such idealism paid in the long run, as evidenced by the feeling of Cuba towards its benefactor ever since the United States came to her aid, Mr. Gerard continued.

"Armenia wants something more than flour and beans, and that is freedom," he declared. "They need our help in accomplishing this aim. They ask us for military supplies and a few marines to guard them until they are able to resist the Turk, from whose yoke they have been freed."

The Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise asserted that if Armenia was not clothed and fed in a spirit of brotherliness, the sin would be upon the soul of America. If Armenia be not free and independent, he maintained, then Germany will have won the war for Turkey even though she lost the war for herself.

Judge Abram Elkus, former Ambassador to Turkey, presided. Several reels of motion pictures depicting conditions and relief work in the Near East were shown.

Henry Morgenthau, former United States Ambassador to Turkey, and Captain George R. Hyde were the speakers at the meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

"Reports that have been brought in by agents of Near East Relief," said Mr. Morgenthau, "paint a picture of wretchedness in Armenia inconceivable to those who have not a first-hand impression of the savagery of the Mussulman. These homeless people were good enough to exert their poor might in our behalf while the war was still in the balance. Surely we shall not pass them by without compassion."

Duty of Americans.

Mr. Morgenthau said that if a proper solution of the Turkish problem was not reached Turkey would again be permitted to rule Armenia and that it was the duty of Americans to help prevent this.

Captain Hyde, who has been in Turkey as a worker for the Near East Relief, declared that the belief that the Turk had repented was without foundation.

James H. Post presided at the meeting.

In a statement describing its activities, the Near East Relief announces that it has sent to the Near East: 36 physicians and surgeons, 76 nurses, 7 mechanics, 15 industrial experts, 14 bacteriologists, 19 teachers, 20 administrators, 16 agriculturists, 34 secretaries, 37 engineers, 50 supply and transport workers, 46 army officers and 172 orphanage and general relief workers.

It has provided 15 shiploads of supplies. It regularly distributes 7,000 tons of flour each month in co-operation with the American Relief Administration; it has equipped and staffed 54 relief stations, 196 orphanages sheltering 48,975 children, 44 hospitals treating monthly 148,128 clinic attendants, 16 homes for women rescued from Moslem harems. It has organized and is operating industrial plants providing employment for 87,291 native workers.

The activities of the Near East Relief extend throughout Northern Turkey (Anatolia and Armenia), Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia, Persia and the Caucasus regions.

EXTOLS HOOVER'S CHARITY.

Pope Benedict Says He Ranks High in Christian History.

ROME, Jan. 31.—In Pope Benedict's letter thanking Herbert Hoover for his work in aid of the children of war victims, His Holiness says that Mr. Hoover's work entitles him "to a very high rank in the history of Christian charity and gives him a unique place in the gratitude of peoples."

The letter was addressed to Mr. Hoover and sent to the Chairman of the Interallied Food Organization through Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.

Dr. Goldman to Direct Jewish Aid.

Dr. Julius Goldman, active for more than fifty years in Jewish philanthropy, has been chosen Director General of the European work of the Joint Distribution Committee of the American Fund for Jewish War Sufferers. Dr. Goldman will leave this week on the Mauretania, following close upon the departure of twenty-six American relief organization now on their way to Poland. Dr. Goldman was formerly President of the Baron de Hirsch Fund.

SOCIETY ON STAGE IN WILDE COMEDY

Prominent Women Win Applause from Large Audience at Hudson Theatre.

MRS. SHIPMAN AS A WIDOW

Rector's Wife in Curtain Raiser—Mrs. Putnam and Mrs. Tilton in Pleasing Parts.

Oscar Wilde's delightful comedy "The Importance of Being Earnest," with society women playing the feminine rôles, and professionals taking the men's parts, drew a large and ready-to-applaud audience of friends of the participants to the Hudson Theatre last evening. The comedy was preceded by the one-act play, "The Ninth Waltz," by R. C. Carton, with Mrs. Herbert Shipman, wife of the Rev. Herbert Shipman, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, as the widow, and Norman Trevor as her old, but newly returned, suitor.

In the Wilde comedy, Mrs. James Lowell Putnam was Lady Bracknell and her beautiful silver and black costume, aigretted hat and handsome furs, as well as her more than English drawl won the plaudits of the house. Mrs. Mildred Bigelow Tilton played and fully looked the part of the Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax, aged only 18, though Mrs. Tilton has a daughter old enough to be listed in the Social Register.

Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas, the former Clara Fargo, who was noted for her dancing, was Cecily Cardew and quite slim enough to be 17, while Miss Elsa Maxwell as Miss Prism, Cecily's governess, lectured her pupil on the value of German grammar and practiced middle-aged wiles upon the Rev. Canon Chausable, played by T. Wigney Percyval, and Eric Snowdon was the man servant in the bachelor quarters of Ernest Glendenning. The latter not only took the part of the Insouciant Algernon Moncrieff, but also had the task of coaching all of the amateurs. Reginald Mason was John Worthing and was nappy in an, at times, an unhappy character.

Between the curtain raiser and the raising of the curtain for the play, Mrs. Oliver Harriman came out on the stage to explain a little of the work being done by the Milk for Children Fund, of which she and Miss Marbury are the executive officers, and to thank the audience for being there. The other charity, between which and the milk and the receipts of the play will be divided, is the Distribution Committee and American Control Committee for Russian Relief, that has the Princess Michael Cantacuzeno-Speransky as its head.

A group of young married women, headed by Mrs. Jewonski and Dolores, a dancer,, sold programs. They included Mrs. L. Rawson Wood, Mrs. John Wanamaker, Jr., Mrs. A. J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., Mrs. Dave H. Coddington, Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mrs. Biddle Duke, and Mrs. Edward Coddington.

Among the bookholders, many of whom gave dinners before the performance, were Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. J. R. Drexel, Sr., Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. Frederic Neilson, Mrs. L. Harrison Dudley, Mrs. Ormond G. Smith, Mrs. Dudley Olcott, Mrs. Irving Brokaw, Mrs. William Greenough, Mrs. L. Work Hewitt, Mrs. O. G. Jennings, Mrs. John Milton Dilion, Mrs. H. M. Harriman, Miss Mary Garden, Mme. Frances Alda, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Miss Ethel Barrymore, and Mrs. Thomas Hastings.

After the play those taking part and some of the audience were entertained by Mrs. Joseph B. Thomas at her home with supper and dancing.

DR. STEEN HOLDS JUBILEE.

Services Mark Fifty Years as Rector in Times Square Section.

Services were held yesterday morning and evening commemorating the completion of the fifty years' pastorate of the Rev. John Floyd Steen, rector of the Ascension Memorial Church in Forty-third Street, just west of the Times Annex Building. Bishop Charles Sumner Burch preached in the morning and the Rev. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church, delivered the sermon at night.

Both preachers paid tributes to Dr. Steen and his long service in the Times Square neighborhood, which began when the region was a rural district dotted with one-family houses and wooden shanties and when the market garden was the chief industry of the section.

Many of the pastor's former parishioners who had moved away went to the old church yesterday for the first time in years, and Dr. Steen held informal receptions before and after each service, going from pew to pew to greet old friends. One white haired woman whom he had not seen for many years said to him, "Dr. Steen, you ought to know me. In 1863 you were my teacher in grammar school."

Tonight and tomorrow night receptions will be held in the church parlors.

With the increasing values of real estate in the Times Square district it is understood that Bishop Burch favors the sale of the church site, which has a frontage of 75 feet. The adjoining property, with the same frontage, is assessed at $180,000 by the city, and in the present market the value of the church site is estimated at more than $200,000.

AIR CAPTAIN KINDLEY KILLED

Leading American Ace Falls to His Death in Texas.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 1.—Captain Field E. Kindley, American ace and commander of the 94th Aero Squadron, was killed instantly in aerial manoeuvres at Kelley Field No. 2 this afternoon. Captain Kindley's home was Gravette, Ark. The accident occurred while a group of airplanes were in practice formation, preparing for an exhibition scheduled in honor of General Pershing's visit next Tuesday. Captain Kindley's machine fell when he was about fifty feet above the ground. He was crushed and burned. Captain Kindley was one of the air service officers summoned before the House sub-committee investigating the air service recently. He came to Kelley Field from Mitchel Field, Long Island, one month ago.

Captain Kindley was the premier American ace remaining in the service, having twelve German planes to his credit, against seven to the credit of Major Reed M. Chambers, commander of the first pursuit group stationed at Kelly Field, who outranked him.

His father is Superintendent of Schools in Manila, P. I., and while stationed at Mitchell Field Captain Kindley had applied for service in the Philippines and to be assigned to the command of a squadron to be sent there. Later, however, the War College decided not to send a squadron to the islands.

LEEDS CEREMONY REPEATED

Widow and Prince Christopher Married by the Greek Archimandite.

VEVEY, France, Feb. 1.—Prince Christopher of Greece and Mrs. William B. Leeds were married according to the rites of the Orthodox faith in a little Russian church here today. The Queen mother of Greece and most of the Princes and Princesses were present. Former King Constantine and the former Queen were represented by proxy.

The ceremony, which followed the civil ceremony at Geneva yesterday, was performed by the Greek Archmandrite especially delegated by the Archbishop of Athens. The church was elaborately decorated with hundreds of exotic plants and a profusion of flowers. A reception at the hotel followed the ceremony.

SOCIAL NOTES.

New York.

Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn and Mrs. Osborn of 850 Madison Avenue will leave New York enroute to Honolulu on Saturday, Feb. 7.

The New York Chapter of the Alumnae of Trinity College, Washington, D. C., will give a valentine tea dance on Feb. 14 at the Plaza from 4 until 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Charles S. P. Richardson (Miss Charlotte Pell) has invitations out for a large dinner on Tuesday evening, Feb. 17, at the Ladies' Annex of the Metropolitan Club.

A private letter from abroad mentions a small dance that Mrs. William Barrett, the former Miss Alice Gordon Drexel of New York, gave recently at the Ritz in Paris. The guests included some of the American and English friends of Captain Barrett and herself.

Mrs. Blanche Shoemaker Wagstaff entertained on Wednesday with a large luncheon at the Colony Club, the guests including several of her literary friends.

Washington.

Colonel and Mrs. Charles Patterson gave a dinner last night in honor of the Italian Ambassador and Baroness Romano, afterward taking their guests to the Concert Diplomatique. Among those present were the Japanese Ambassador, the Minister of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, and Madame Grouitch; the Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker, Marquis and Marchesa di Bernezzo, Senator and Mrs. Keyes, the Inspector General and Mrs. Chamberlain, General and Mrs. Coe, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerton, Lady Campbell, Miss Romano, Miss Hitchcock, General Charlton of the British Embassy, Prince de Croy of the Belgian Embassy, Duke Caffarelli and Mr. Milmore.

Palm Beach.

The new golf course of the Everglades Club will be formally opened Wednesday, giving Palm Beach its third links.

Dinner parties were given at the clubhouse last night by Mr. and Mrs. Paris Singer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pillsbury, and Mrs. Harriet Harding.

Members elected within the last few days include Henry Spies Kip, James and Alfred Plummett, Peter Cooper Brice, James W. Amon, Garret Kip, G. W. Brand, Frederick Johnson, and Thomas C. Eastman of New York.

Among those noticed on the beach yesterday were Sir Matthew and Lady Thompson, the Hon. Frederick Guest, Lord Queensborough, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Thomas, Mrs. Eugene Philbin, Mrs. George D. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome N. Bonaparte and Edward T. Stotesbury.

Hot Springs.

The first of February brought a number of additions to the Winter colony at the Homestead. Arrivals from New York were Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Block, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Cobble, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Houpt and Charles Van Brunt.

Charles H. Buckman and J. Rex Flint arrived yesterday from Pittsburgh and Henry S. Monroe from Litchfield Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Towle are here from Lincoln, Neb., to remain three weeks.

J. Murray Bacon came from Boston and W. T. Shepherd from Richmond, Va. Howard E. Hansell, Jr., who has been passing several days at the Homestead with Mrs. Hansell, left last night for Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tudhope and Mrs. C. A. Page started for Toronto after spending two weeks at the Homestead.

OPEN MUSIC SHOW TODAY.

Mme. Farrar to Start Ringing of Chimes at the Palace.

Geraldine Farrar is to open the Music Show at the Grand Central Palace at 2 o'clock this afternoon, pressing an electric button that will ring a miniature copy of the proposed Victory Chimes now intended to be the first "Carillon" in America. The bells will play "The Star-Spangled Banner." Friends of the Victory Chimes movement will stand at attention as the chimes ring.

Among the founders of the proposed memorial are Mrs. Jane Wallace, Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor; George W. Pound, general manager of the Music Chamber of Commerce of America; C. F. McKay, Edwin J. Beinecke, and Miss Gleb Green, Librarian to J. P. Morgan. The Victory Chimes movement will begin its campaign this week, in which the children of the State will be invited to contribute each a penny toward the memorial.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Les Americains Chez Nous" ("The Americans With Us"), a new comedy by Eugene Brieux, has been obtained for this country by Leo Ditrichstein. The play is now running at the Odeon in Paris.

"Stand from Under," a drama by William Anthony McGuire, will be brought to New York in about two weeks by G. M. Anderson. In the cast will be John Halliday, Richard Dix, William Morris, Sue MacManamy, Eleanor Gordon and M. Tomomato.

William and Gordon Dooley will rejoin the Century Midnight Whirl a week from tonight.

Roy Gordon and William Halligan will be in the cast of Edward Clark's musical comedy, "Little Miss Charity." The music has been written by S. R. Henry and D. Savin.

Edward H. Reese will act the leading man's role in "East Is West," beginning tonight at the Astor.

Saxon Kling will be in the cast of "Shavings," coming to New York in about three weeks.

At the Bijou Theatre tonight Barney Bernard will act Abe Potash for the two thousandth time. "His Honor Abe Potash" is the fourth play in which Mr. Bernard has acted the character.

Jessie Reed has been placed under a long contract by Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., to appear in the New Amsterdam roof shows.

A vaudeville program will be given at the Plymouth Theatre next Sunday night in aid of the Beth David Hospital.

"Jane Clegg," a three-act drama by St. John Ervine, will be produced at the Garrick Theatre by the Theatre Guild during the week of Feb. 16, succeeding Tolstoi's "The Power of Darkness." Mr. Ervine is the author of "John Ferguson," the most popular of the Guild's productions to date.

Rachel Crothers's comedy, "He and She," with Miss Crothers returning to the stage to act the principal role, will be presented at the Little Theatre on Thursday night, Feb. 12. Cyril Keightley will have the principal male role. "Mamma's Affair," now at the Little Theatre, will be transferred next week to the Fulton, from which "Big Game" will be withdrawn.

A number of players from the Actors' Fund Home will be the guests of the Theatre Assembly at luncheon tomorrow and will attend the Capitol Theatre in the afternoon. Daniel Frohman, F. F. Mackay, and John Iris also will be guests at the luncheon.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The New York Symphony.

The New York Symphony Society's concert in Aeolian Hall brought forward as soloist, for the first time this season, Fritz Kreisler, who played Tschaikovsky's violin concert; the rest of the program was made up of Brahms's fourth symphony—played by the Philharmonic Society under Mr. Stransky a few days ago and by the New Symphony Orchestra under Mr. Bodansky a few weeks ago—and a Habañera by Louis Aubert, heard then for the first time in America.

Mr. Damrosch's performance of Brahms's symphony is not unfamiliar. It has plenty of energy and vigor, which are made to count for their utmost, especially in the presto and the final passacaglia. He takes the tempi with much freedom and marked modification, which are effective in the varied moods and sharp contrasts of the passacaglia; but there were places in the first movement where the tempo was so much held back as to seem excessively retarded, making a change in the spirit and a check in the rhythmic flow of the music. There was much of grace and poetic feeling in the playing of the andante, also warmth and delicacy of tone.

Louis Aubert's "Habañera" is a habañera in not much more than name; an amorous tone poem rather than a dance, bearing on its score a quotation from Baudelaire, strongly suggesting as much. The music begins with the rhythm and general character of the Spanish dance well marked, in a short viola solo, then in the whole orchestra; but the music soon becomes more deeply involved in emotional complexes and rises to a drastic climax. The orchestration is finely and richly colored; the harmonic idiom that of the modern French, more and more strongly accentuated as the climax is neared. The piece is not commonplace, and is in some respects of real beauty; an addition to the current programs quite worth making.

Mr. Kreisler was greeted with applause long and sincere. He has not been heard lated in Tschaikovsky's concerto, a piece of less musical value than those in which he has made and confirmed his greatest reputation. It is a prodigious piece for display, in the first and last movements. Mr. Kreisler's technique was not especially brilliant nor especially secure in the extravagant flights of the first movement. Some of the young fellows of today can fiddle around him in these flights—or could as he played them yesterday. But those same young fellows will have to grow a good deal before they deliver as he did the really poetical and musical phrases of that movement, or the whole of the canzanetta, with such beauty of phrase, such depth of significant expression, such repose. Mr. Kreisler seemed a little more certain in the brilliant passages of the last movement. His harmonics were of unusual clearness and precision. His playing was much appreciated and enthusiastically applauded.

TO GIVE HOLIDAY "AIDA."

Return of Whitehill Also at the Metropolitan Next Week.

The Metropolitan will give a matinée of "Aïda" on Thursday of next week, Lincoln's birthday, the cast including Muzio, Matzenauer, Crimi and Amato. On the following Saturday night, "The Blue Bird" will be presented at popular prices, the French opera's fifth performance, with Delaunois and the original cast, conducted by Albert Wolff, the composer. Next "Sunday Pablo Casals, the 'cellist, appears in concert with Muzio, Gordon and Crimi.

An American star, Clarence Whitehill, returns next Monday in "Samson and Delilah," with Caruso, Matzenauer and Mardones. Other subscription operas of the thirteenth week will be Wednesday "Carmen," Farrar, Sundellius, Martinelli, Couzinou; Thursday "Martha," Caruso, Barrientos, Perini, De Luca; Friday "Bonème," Alda, Sparkes, Harrold, Scotti, and Saturday matinée "Zaza," Farrar, Crimi and Amato.

Mischa Elman was heard at last night's Metropolitan concert, playing with the orchestra Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole." Florence Easton sang a new aria by Cesare Sodero, the harpist, and Renato Zanelli gave an air from "Zaza."

MARINUZZI LED SYMPHONY.

Ruffo and Yvonne Gall Heard with Orchestra at Hippodrome.

Stars and orchestra of the Chicago Opera Association's season at the Lexington came halfway across town to appear last evening at the Hippodrome. Five popular Sunday nights had been planned there this February, an excess allowance for the shortest month of the year, but for the fact that it is Leap Year and the first and last days of the month happen to be Sundays. An audience that would have overflowed the theatre on Lexington Avenue was present, and Mr. Marinuzzi's orchestra was assisted by Yvonne Gall and Titta Ruffo.

Mr. Marinuzzi put a serious touch to the popular occasion by conducting Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, as one of the young Italian's former predecessors had once conducted the Ninth. Leading without score, he brought from his orchestra a response electric with direct personal appeal; a performance possibly of warmer tone than prevails in classic Northern latitudes, but one whose qualities caught the imagination of the big, opera-loving house, which greeted the conductor with cheers.

Mr. Ruffo, to cap the evening, had chosen the drinking song from Ambroise Thomas's "Hamlet," in which opera he once appeared at the Metropolitan years ago. He changed the early program, dropping the air of the baritone hero from Leoncavallo's opera, "Chatterton," and giving instead Paladilhe's "Patrie" and a Neapolitan encore. Miss Gall sang the air from "Louise" and on recall added the waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet."

Panselle Sings with Philharmonic.

The Philharmonic Society at its matinée in Carnegie Hall yesterday performed Dvorak's symphony No. 3, in F major, not the most often heard of the Bohemian master's works, but one that Mr. Stransky has revived recently as music of a poetic, pastoral, even biographic, character. A large audience welcomed Rosa Ponselle, the opera star, in Boito's air of Margarita, from "Mefistofele," and the "Ocean" air from "Oberon"; the young soprano was in opulent voice, and she acknowledged with many gestures her long-continued applause. Tschaikovsky's "Francesca" intervened midway in the program, which closed with the familiar "España" of Chabrier.

Flagler Gives Symphony Prizes.

Harry Harkness Flagler, President of the Symphony Society, has offered prizes of $1,000 and $500 for a symphonic work for orchestra, not exceeding eighteen minutes in performance. The composer must be an American citizen and the manuscript must reach the office of the Symphony Society, 33 West Forty-second Street, by next Oct. 1. The judges are to be Walter Damrosch, Franz Kneisel, Leopold Stokowsky, John Alden Carpenter and George W. Chadwick.

EDWARD F. CULLERTON DIES

Dean of the Chicago City Council Became an Alderman in 1871.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Edward F. Cullerton, dean of the City Council, died of pneumonia this afternoon, aged 78. With his passing goes one of Chicago's most famous politicians. He served in the city long before the days of the elder Carter Harrison's mayoralty.

Born in 1842, when Chicago was merely a village, Cullerton, who in later years was called the father of the City Council, was first elected an alderman in 1871. With the exception of the period from 1892 to 1896, when he served the State, he was a member of the Council until his death. During his public service he saw aldermanic compensation rise from $3 per meeting to $3,500 per annum.

The Rev. Frederick Mortimer, rector of the church, officiated. Among those who attended the services were Supreme Court Justices Charles C. Black, Charles W. Parker, James J. Bergen, James L. Minturn, and William L. Speer. Interment will be today at Stonington, Conn.

Henry Richard Davis.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 1.—Henry Richard Davis, Secretary of the Providence Journal Company, and an employe and official of the company for sixty-six years, died this afternoon.

Mr. Davis was born in this city March 21, 1840. In 1854 he became a regular carrier for The Journal. In 1856 he entered The Journal's counting room, and seven years later was made the head of that department. When in May, 1885, the Journal Company obtained a charter and elected officers, Mr. Davis was chosen Secretary.

Mrs. Ida Belle Cutler.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 1.—Mrs. Ida Belle Cutler, wife of Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board, died here this morning. Mrs. Cutler was born in Kovna, Russia, but removed to Worcester, Mass., when very young and lived there for many years. She was the first woman member of the Providence Municipal Playground Commission and had been prominent in Jewish organizations.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON AND DARTMOUTH TO MEET IN INTERSECTIONAL FOOTBALL MATCH

DARTMOUTH ELEVEN WILL INVADE WEST

Green Team Is Scheduled to Meet University of Washington on Nov. 23.

TO DEDICATE NEW STADIUM

Intersectional Gridiron Battle Will Mark Opening of $500,000 Structure at Seattle.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 1.—Graduate Manager H. G. Pender of Dartmouth today confirmed the arrangements for the Dartmouth-University of Washington football game to be played on Nov. 23 at Seattle.

The contest will mark the dedication of a new $500,000 stadium at Seattle. This will be Dartmouth's first invasion of the West, and the game will be played just one week after the Dartmouth-Brown contest in Boston.

The Dartmouth schedule for 1920, now that the Washington game has been added, is one of the hardest and best that has ever been arranged for the wearers of the green. Syracuse, Pennsylvania State, Brown, Cornell and Pennsylvania are on the list, besides several other first-rate teams.

When Dartmouth journeys to Seattle to meet the University of Washington on Nov. 23, next, it will be the fifth of the more important Eastern football teams to make the long trip. Brown, University of Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Harvard have preceded the Green in playing intersectional matches in the Far West. Although in the most recent East vs. West encounter, the East, represented by Harvard, was victorious, the preponderance of victories remains with the Pacific Coast institutions.

The series began when Brown University visited Pasadena to meet Washington State on Jan. 1, 1916, losing to the Westerners by a score of 14 to 0. One year later, at Los Angeles, the University of Oregon defeated Pennsylvania, also by a score of 14 to 0. Syracuse, which has been the most persistent of the Eastern elevens in its invasions of the West, made its first trip in 1915, tying Montana, 6 to 6, defeating Occidental College, 35 to 0, and conquering the Oregon Aggies, 28 to 0. In 1917 and 1919 Syracuse played the University of Nebraska, winning the first game, 10 to 9, and losing last Fall, 3 to 0. Syracuse also lost to Indiana last Fall by a score of 12 to 6.

The last game played between representatives of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts was that of New Year's Day at Pasadena between Harvard and the University of Oregon, which Harvard won by the margin of a goal from touchdown, 7 to 6. This was Harvard's only Western invasion, but the Crimson had previously played four intersectional matches with the University of Michigan, winning all four of them, by scores of 4 to 0 in 1881, 3 to 0 in 1885, 4 to 0 in 1893, and 7 to 0 in 1914.

The University of Washington, which will be Dartmouth's opponent in Seattle, tied last Fall with Harvard's opponent, the University of Oregon, for the championship of the Pacific Coast Conference teams. Dartmouth was similarly successful in the East, where, by common consent, the leading honors of the season were divided equally among four teams, Colgate, Dartmouth, Penn State and Syracuse.

VAN SLYCK LEADS SCORERS

Yale Captain Regains Top in College Basket Ball League.

The seesawing race among colleges in the Intercollegiate Basket Ball League is providing a merry tussle among the leading scorers. After a week in second place, Captain Van Slyck of Yale regained his position at the top, as the result of his brilliant scoring in the game Saturday with Penn at Philadelphia. Yale lost, 32 to 16, but Captain Van Slyck, scoring 12 of the 16 points, again overtook Porter of Cornell, and now leads with 53. Porter's team was inactive last week, and he holds the same total of 51, which gives him second place. Hynson of Princeton retained third position among the individual scorers, but raised his record to 26 points. Sweeney, the stellar forward on the Quakers, has thrust himself into the first six. In two games Sweeney scored 4 baskets from the floor and 17 foul goals, for a total of 25 points.

Penn's entrance into the league race, marked by its first game on Wednesday at Princeton, indicates that the ultimate outcome is as much in doubt as ever. Princeton was virtually eliminated from serious consideration. The Tigers now stand in fifth position, just above Dartmouth. Columbia and Cornell, which are tied at third with .500, remained inactive, but the prospects point to a three-cornered race among Penn, Yale and Columbia for permanent possession of the league trophy. Each has won two annual championships, and a third victory carries permanent ownership of the cup.

The six leading individual scorers and the standing of the teams follow:

	Games	Field Goals.	Foul Goals.	Total Points.
Van Slyck, Yale	4	7	39	53
Porter, Cornell	4	11	29	51
Hynson, Princeton	5	12	2	26
Sweeney, Penn	2	4	17	25
Dole, Princeton	5	11	0	22
Molinet, Cornell	4	10	1	21

	Games.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Pennsylvania	2	2	0	1.000
Yale	4	3	1	.750
Columbia	2	1	1	.500
Cornell	4	2	2	.500
Princeton	5	2	3	.400

NEW ROCHELLE TEAM WINS

Defeats Plainfield Country Club at Hockey by 7 to 5 Score.

The New Rochelle Hockey Club team added another victory to its list yesterday, when it defeated the Plainfield Country Club sextet in a loosely played game on the former's rink, Beechmont Lake, New Rochelle, by the score of 7 goals to 5. The teams played three periods. In the first session the New Jersey hockeyists showed brilliant form, and, with a consistent attack, kept the play continually in New Rochelle territory. The period ended with Plainfield in the lead by 2 to 1.

New Rochelle's team improved its offensive in the second period, and with a series of spectacular plays broke through the Plainfield defense for four goals. This success gave New Rochelle the lead at the end of the period by 5 to 3. In the closing period the New Jersey players rallied, and, led by Cuahman, threatened to overtake their rivals. New Rochelle proved equal to the emergency, however, and maintained its advantage to the end. Charles Smith, the New Rochelle right wing, was the individual star, scoring three goals for his team and engineering many of the effective New Rochelle plays.

W. Va. May Play California.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 1.—The University of California has offered West Virginia the choice of two dates on its big Eastern base ball tour next Spring, and it is practically certain that the Westerners will appear here.

Comment on Current Events in Sports.

Notable Exhibition on Mat.

Wrestling gained the high tide of its popularity in New York last week at the Stecher-Caddock match, when 10,000 spectators contributed something like $75,000 to see the heavyweights do battle for the world's championship. It was a typical American sporting gathering, and the contest was of such a high order of merit that no one went away disappointed. For many years the ancient Greek pastime has been marred by crooked methods, and it has become discredited. In such performers as Caddock and Stecher the game has developed athletes of a better type than many of the foreign grapplers who come over here to get a pocketful of American gold.

Both Stecher and Caddock are products of the Middle Western farming country. They are clean-cut athletes, the finest type of the American out-door loving youth. They gave one of the most sportsmanlike wrestling bouts ever seen in the Garden. It was not marred by rough tactics nor by any of the unfair wrestling tricks which make many such bouts distasteful.

Caddock's downfall came when his stamina was gone. In cleverness he was easily the match of Stetcher, and for more than an hour he skillfully avoided Stecher's numerous efforts to gain his dreaded hold—the scissors. Stecher laid all the traps known to the game to entice Caddock into a position where he could apply his masterful grappling weapon, but the former champion outguessed him in all these attempts. Early in the battle Stecher realized that he could not bring his famous boa constrictor hold into play until his opponent's strength had started to wane. When the lighter man weakened it was then, and not until then, that Stecher was able to carry out his plan of campaign. The twenty or more extra pounds which Stecher carried was an important factor in his victory.

Not once during the bout did Stecher deviate from his plan of battle. He forced Caddock to take the aggressive. He patiently waited for the Iowa grappler to use up his energy in forcing the action. Stecher's supreme patience was tantalizing to his opponent. It got on his nerves, and he wore himself out in his persistent efforts to force Stecher into action. That was just what Stecher wanted him to do, and at the end all of Caddock's marvelous gameness and skill at defense were of no use with the stamina lacking to back them up. Caddock did not appear to have the great strength he had at his command before he went overseas. Life in the front-line trenches undoubtedly sapped much of that wonderful physical power which brought him the championship a few years ago.

Jay Gould's Racquet Mastery.

The surprising result of the national racquet doubles championship, completed at Philadelphia on Saturday, when Joseph W. Wear and Jay Gould, playing under the colors of the Philadelphia Racquet Club, defeated the former title holders, Clarence C. Pelf and Stanley W. Mortimer of Tuxedo, in one of the closest matches ever recorded, emphasizes once more the versatility that is possible in an athlete born with the instinct for handling a racquet of any kind. Jay Gould is like a talented musician who begins with the violin and gradually acquires a working knowledge of all the conventional musical instruments. Open champion of the world at court tennis, the most difficult and exacting of all the batting games, he has also taken up squash tennis successfully, to the extent of ranking among the best amateurs in New York, and winning the Columbia Club title, and now he has added to his laurels a share in the national racquet championship in doubles.

It was not thought possible that one man could shine in so many games simultaneously. Closely related though they are, and Mr. Gould's remarkable record in the recent tournament becomes all the more astonishing when one considers the fact that his head is still bandaged as the result of a deep cut sustained when he was playing in a benefit exhibition match of court tennis against Walter Kinsella only a short time before. His injury had held him back in the inter-city matches, in which his team was beaten, and had kept him from showing his best form until Saturday. But in the finals he proved that as a racquet player he must be considered quite as formidable as on the squash and tennis courts.

Jay Gould possesses an extraordinarily strong wrist, which makes all kinds of shots off the walls of indoor courts a comparatively simple matter for him. Added to this physical asset is a remarkable eye for a flying ball, and a geometrical instinct for judging angles. With this combination in his favor he stands today as the greatest all-around master of the racquet in the world.

The Kings of the Ice Track.

Skating races for championships are hidden away from the great legion of interested followers of the Winter sport who are unable to visit such snow-bound localities as Saranac Lake. There is, nevertheless, the excitement and interest which come from reading of the feats of a thinly clad daredevil who gyrates over glassy surface on a pair of steel runners two or three-sixteenths of an inch in width, who circles treacherous turns at breakneck speed, and who often trips and crashes, while a half-dozen trailing racers pile on top. It is a sport for the hardy, this skate-racing, but it is growing in popularity.

Skating has taken a firm grasp in New York among both the racing folk and those thousands of others who get health, strength and red cheeks from an occasional hour on the ice. For every indoor and outdoor rink of 1910 there are probably now five in existence. Tennis courts are easily convertible for Winter use, and the sand lot baseball diamonds are not such bad foundations for rinks.

A lucky few visited Saranac last week and had three full days of excitement when the national championships were contested. The 1920 races had probably more than the usual quota of spills, upsets, reverses, and unexpected outcomes. Such a pastmaster in the sport as Joe Moore had no luck whatever, finishing first in two of the races, but later being disqualified on such unfortunate, although justified, grounds as cutting corners.

The result was that outsiders carried off the titles in most instances, and Murphy, a New Yorker with a local reputation only, won the mile championship. Another newcomer, Hoerneg from Cleveland, took the 220-yard event. The accumulation of points for the all-round national championship took a freak turn, and resulted in a pair of racers being crowned as kings of 1920 on the ice. McWhorter and McGowan, both Middle Westerners, shared alike, and since no provision was ever made in rules for a skate-off, the title will continue to be held jointly until next Winter.

Plans for next year are already in a fairly advanced stage, and among other proposals is one to construct a large enough New York City rink to hold the races for titles here, on which case thousands, instead of scores, of spectators can see the sport.

Impressive Work With Cue.

If any additional proof were needed that amateur billiard playing is not dropping below the high standards set a few years ago it has been advanced conclusively in the Eastern Class 18.2 balkline tournament being held at the Amateur Billiard Club of New York under the anspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. The quality of cue work displayed by the six men in this tourney has been generally excellent. They have maintained good averages, but what has been more impressive has been their ability at close manipulation, gathering the balls and nursing them.

This has been particularly true of the playing of David McAndless, Jr., of Chicago, who won the national championship last season. None of his predecessors in the title role showed greater knowledge of billiards or greater mastery of execution than McAndless. In all of his matches thus far he has performed creditably—so creditably in fact that many professional players would be proud to boast the same prowess. In one of his games he established the extremely impressive average of 27 3-11 for 200 points. In another he made a high run of 122. Apparently there is no shot that is too intricate for him to make, but what is still more to the point is the fact that he seldom has to make difficult shots, so nearly perfect is his judgment of speed and his position play.

He has mastered second-ball play to a marked degree, with the result that his nursing is the predominate factor in his victories. As every billiard player knows, this second-ball play is one of the most important factors in developing billiard finesse. Judging only where the first object ball will rest after the shot has been made and paying little or no attention as to whether the second ball should be hit on the outside or inside, or quarter full or full, or with what degree of speed it should be struck is not attaining high skill in position play. This phase of the game McAndless has studied and practiced carefully.

Consequently the Chicagoan is able to do much of his playing inside the imaginary lines drawn through the spots at both ends of the table. Recently he ran more than forty points before he was compelled to drive either of the object balls beyond this line. This bespeaks delicacy of stroke and judgment of speed. On the whole, his playing in this tournament has stamped him as one of the best amateur players ever developed in this country.

International Athletics.

Although a track meet between a team representing two American universities and an Oxford-Cambridge team does not at present seem a probability for next Summer, the next most interesting thing in track competion seems reasonably well assured. Cambridge and Oxford have accepted, provisionally, the invitation to enter a quartet in the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival in Philadelphia on May 1. Final decision will probably be delayed until the Oxford-Cambridge dual meet in the Spring has given the Englishmen a definite line on the extent to which their university athletes have recovered from their wartime activities.

Every American will hope earnestly that the great English institutions will be represented in these classics of the college cinder path. Captain Jackson and his mates in 1914 won for England in one of the most sensationally close finishes ever recorded in the history of the games at Franklin Field, and there is every incentive to renew that historic rivalry.

All parts of the United States from coast to coast will be represented in the Penn relay events, and the participation of England will add the touch of international needed to elevate the games to as high, if not a higher, plane of interest and importance even than was attained in 1914. Certain it is that if England repeats her 1914 victory she will have earned a full meed of glory, for the American colleges were never supplied with better track material than they are this year.

American track athletics were not so hard hit by the war as those of England. Four years of hostilities naturally left a deeper mark than the year and a half in which America was involved. The wish will be sincere that the dual meet of Oxford and Cambridge and the visit of their relay teams to this country will show that England, like America, is now able to resume in track and field sports practically where she left off before the war began.

Quandary of the Oarsmen.

With the annual Harvard-Yale rowing classic scheduled this year for June 25, at New London, America, and the Henley Regatta listed for June 30, near old London, England, the congestion of the calendar is causing serious worries.

Harvard students hope to enter their crew in the Henley, and Harvard alumni do more than hope—they urge it strongly. Yale is hardly the less anxious, although there is not so much at stake for her. Old grads from these and other universities, who comprise the crew squad of the Union Boat Club of Boston, have practically decided to send an eight to England. They are practically certain of it.

When the Henley was last held in 1914 a Harvard crew won and carried back home the greatest of university rowing trophies, the Grand Challenge Cup. And now, after five full years of no races, the English are planning to revive the great classic: It seems improbable, however, that Harvard will enter its 'Varsity oarsmen, because the date for the dual race with Yale is fixed by the commencements and cannot be changed. A possibility being discussed among the Crimson alumni is that Harvard prepare a special crew, as she did in 1914, and train it for the Henley distance of one mile, 550 yards. It is a recognized fact among rowing coaches that many oarsmen, thoroughly reliable and competent, are unable to row a full four-mile race, and at Harvard there is a feeling that rowers trained to the shorter distance should be assembled.

Another proposal put forward, and advocated by many Yale grads, who would like to see the Ells enter into competition with Oxford and Cambridge, is that the date of the Henley be delayed until somewhere near the time set for rowing at the Olympics at Antwerp, where the tests of oarsmanship will occur from Aug. 22 to Aug. 29. If such an arrangement were made, there is likelihood that other American universities would enter eights on the Thames. At Pennsylvania, for instance, enthusiasm is running high over Coach Joe Wright's prospects, and alumni are urging the Red and Blue to compete in the Olympics if the Quaker 'Varsity wins on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie in June.

Acting unofficially, yet seriously, a person closely in touch with Harvard rowing affairs has suggested in a letter to the Henley authorities that the great classic be postponed at least one week so that the Crimson, and possibly Yale, might have time to make the transatlantic trip.

REID AND M'LEOD DEFEAT PENN PROS

Best Ball of 69 Wins in Golf Match at Pinehurst Against Hoffner and French.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 1.—Wilfred Reid of Wilmington and Freddy McLeod of the Columbia Club, Washington, defeated Charles Hoffner of Philmont and Emmet French of York in a howling gale here today by 3 and 2.

All four professionals finished well down in the seventies despite the adverse golfing conditions. Hoffner had the best individual medal score, but Reid and McLeod displayed superior team work and finished with a best ball of 69 to 73 for their opponents.

About 150 players will enter the qualifying round of the St. Valentine tournament tomorrow. Players who have been put in Class A and who are therefore limited to the first or the second, sixteen include L. G. Spindler of Fox Hills, C. H. Schoff of Philadelphia, Donald Parson of Youngstown, Grantland Rice of Englewood, Samuel Allison, W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, Albert B. Ashforth of Garden City, John D. Chapman of Greenwich, and Frank S. Danforth of North Fork.

UP-STATE FIVE HERE.

St. Lawrence Basket Ball Team to Meet Several Local Quintets.

The fast St. Lawrence University basket ball five will be seen in action here this week, when it will be pitted against the Brooklyn Poly and Crescent quintets. The annual New York trip of the Northern aggregation includes also a game with West Point and another with the Farmingdale Aggies.

The Scarlet basketeers registered a clean cut victory over Brooklyn Poly two weeks ago and hope to repeat when the two teams clash Friday night. St. Lawrence will take on the Aggies Wednesday night, returning to New York for the game with the Crescent A. C. five Thursday night. The game with West Point on Saturday night, Feb. 7, concludes the trip.

CHAMPIONS WIN AT CHESS.

Rice Progressives Score in First Round of Interclub Tourney.

Columbia University, the I. L. Rice Progressive Chess Club, Marshall's Chess Club, the Brooklyn Chess Club and the Staten Island Chess Club were the victors in the first round of the annual inter-club championship competition of the Metropolitan Chess League, in which ten teams have entered to play for the title held by the Progressives for the last two years.

The champions made a clean sweep at the expense of New York University, and Brooklyn obtained a 7½–½ verdict over Ocean Hill, but the other matches were more closely contested. Columbia University, true to form, defeated the New York Athletic Club's team, at the clubhouse of the latter, on the occasion of the Winged Foot organization's début in league circles. City College succumbed to Marshall's Chess Club.

The summary:

Columbia	5	New York A. C.	3
Rice P. C. C.	8	N. Y. U.	0
Marshall's C. C.	6	C. C. N. Y.	2
Brooklyn C. C.	7½	Ocean Hill C. C.	½
Staten Island C. C.	6½	Swedish C. C.	1½

Coleman Randolph, W. B. Gower and S. D. McGourky were the winners on the N. Y. A. C. team against Columbia, while P. Wolfson, W. Thompson, O. Frink, Jr., L. Schwarz and M. Gottlieb scored for the Blue and White.

The victorious Rice Progressive team was composed of R. Greenberg, E. Grumbach, H. Liebenstein, E. Schultze, H. Albert, E. M. Lang, S. Muldorf and M. Mishook.

The winners on the Marshall's Chess Club team were F. E. Parker, E. B. Edwards, G. Switzer, Otto Deck, S. Soldatenkov and H. I. MacMahon, and those for City College, H. Sternberg and J. Levine.

Seven won for Brooklyn, including Lieutenant F. K. Perkins, A. C. Cass, Lieutenant F. F. Russell, L. J. Wolff, W. M. De Visser, F. J. Le Count and S. Katz, and N. S. Perkins drew against A. V. Taylor.

On the Staten Island team at Stapleton the winners were P. Stevens, Jr., Dr. H. E. Leede, C. Broughton, H. Nielsen, S. P. Nabenhauer and P. A. Druckhleb, while G. A. Barth drew against G. Christenson. J. Westerberg alone won for the Swedish Chess Club.

FINLEY WILL HEAD NEW A. A. U. BRANCH

Commissioner of Education Elected President of Adirondack Association.

Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education for the State of New York, has been elected President of the newly formed Adirondack A. A. U., which is expected soon to take its place as a rival to the Metropolitan A. A. U. in the promotion of amateur sport in the State. The election of Dr. Finley as leader of the new association, together with final details of the organization of the body and its plans for the immediate future, were disclosed yesterday by Herman Obertubbesing, Chairman of the National A. A. U. Redistricting Committee, upon his return from Albany, where he attended a meeting at which final plans for the new association were adopted. With Mr. Obertubbesing, as representatives of the A. A. U., were Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary-Treasurer of the national body, and Jacob W. Stumpf, local Registration Committee Chairman. The meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce, Albany.

Prospects of the new association are accepted as promising by the A. A. U. officials, as a result of the enthusiasm shown by athletic leaders in the Adirondack district. Representatives of twenty clubs attended the meeting, which was presided over by Lawrence S. Hill, who is responsible for the work of organizing the new A. A. U. body. Fourteen club delegates paid dues, completing their membership, and were elected on the association's Board of Managers. The representatives of the remaining six organizations deferred completing their membership, until they had reported back to their organizations. It is expected that these clubs, with many others in the district, will be added at the next meeting, scheduled for Feb. 14.

A progressive campaign was adopted for the conduct of athletics in the district included in the new association. The territory comprises the portions of the States east of Oswego, Onondaga, Cortland and Broome Counties, and north of Dutchess, Ulster and Sullivan Counties. An effort will be made to stimulate interest in amateur sport under the supervision of the A. A. U. by promoting competitions in track and field, boxing, wrestling, swimming, gymnastics, cross-country, and basket ball. Plans for meets in these sports will probably be adopted at the next meeting of the association.

The officers elected, in addition to Dr. Finley, are: First Vice President, Walter S. Clarke; Second Vice President, Brother Cornelius; Third Vice President, Dr. E. L. Freund; Secretary, Lawrence S. Hill; Treasurer, Jacob H. Herzog; Official Handicapper, T. Bissell; Registration Committee, William S. Reid, Wilbur Batcheller and J. J. Mahoney. The Board of Managers and delegates at large are: Dr. Finley, ex-Governor Martin H. Glyn, Mr. Herzog, Vice President of the National Commercial Bank of Albany. The delegates and alternates to the A. A. U. convention include Dr. Finley, Mr. Hill, A. Samuels, J. J. O'Donohue, Mr. Clarke, Samuel Aronwitz, Captain Shelding, William A. Reid, M. J. McCaffrey, Lieutenant W. T. Stedman, Mr. Batcheller and M. Byrnes.

The clubs which have already completed their membership include the Albany Amateur A. C.; Albany High Schools Athletic League; Eastern New York Public High Schools A. L.; Fort Orange Post, American Legion; Capitol City Post, American Legion; Albany Police A. A.; Cathedral Academy, Albany; First Battalion, Tenth Infantry, Albany; New York Central Freight A. A.; Eastern New York Y. M. H. A.; Company L, 10th Infantry, Utica; Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y.; Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, and Christian Brothers Academy, Albany.

ICE BOATS MAKE POOR TIME

Jack Frost Finishes First Over Long Branch Course.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Feb. 1.—Captain James O'Brien's speedy yacht Jack Frost finished first today in the race for the O'Brien Cup, but lacked four minutes of making the race within the prescribed time limit of fifty minutes for the six-lap or fifteen-mile course.

Captain Edwin Pfeifer's Drub led the field of nine yachts for five laps, being passed in the final lap by the Jack Frost. The Imp finished third. Other yachts in the contest were the X. L. N. C., Princeton, Blanche, Isabel, Sweet Daddie, and Hazel L.

A drop in the temperature brought out a crowd of enthusiasts, but a lack of wind prevented the race from being finished within the prescribed time limit.

SHOOT-OFF AT TRAVERS ISLAND GOES TO FOUR EXTRA STRINGS BEFORE YULE BEATS CORBETT

YULE TAKES TROPHY AFTER A SHOOT-OFF

Defeats President Corbett of N. Y. A. C. on Fourth Extra String at Travers Island.

COLE HAS HIGHEST TOTAL

Gets Prize for Best Scratch Shooting During Last Three Months—Anderson's Run of 66 Is Longest.

George J. Corbett, President of the New York Athletic Club, and W. H. Yule had a most interesting shootoff for the high scratch prize over the Travers Island traps yesterday. Each gunner returned a card of 95 out of a possible 100 targets in the first time at the traps. They then shot off in strings of 25 targets. Each had the same score in the first three. In the fourth string Yule defeated Corbett by 24 to 23 targets. The latter, however, scored a leg on the Buermeyer Cup with a card of 48 out of a possible 50 targets.

A shootoff also was necessary to find the winner of the high handicap prize. It finally proved to be R. B. Cole, A special handicap prize went to C. J. Winninger and a special scratch trophy was taken by W. H. Yule. R. B. Cole received the prize for high scratch shooting during the past three months. He made the best score from scratch during November, December and January. The long run for the same three months was a 66 made by E. D. Anderson.

As usual, legs on the Tournament, Brenel, President and Lyon cups were credited to all gunners who had full scores of 25 targets.

The scores:

CAHILL IS BEST GUNNER.

Wins High Scratch Prize at Larchmont Yacht Club Traps.

Owing to the bitter cold, only eight gunners reported for the week-end shoot of the Larchmont Yacht Club yesterday. The best work was done by T. J. McCahill, who won the high scratch prize with a card of 88 out of a possible 100 targets, an excellent total when the weather conditions are considered.

The high scratch prize was taken by J. Megargee, who had a full card of 100 targets. He also won the high scratch prize a week ago, winning a 25-bird shoot-off from E. W. Fitzgerald by a score of 25 to 19 targets.

The scores:

Name.	Hit.	H'c'p.	Total.
J. Megargee	72	32	100
E. W. Fitzgerald	74	16	90
B. C. Duffy	64	24	88

DE NYSE WINS CUP AT TRAPS

Also Captures January Trophy at Inwood Country Club.

J. De Nyse won the high scratch prize at the traps of the Inwood Country Club yesterday. He took the cup with a card of 46 out of a possible 50 targets. De Nyse also was the winner of the Inwood Cup for January on a shoot-off held over from last week. The high handicap prize was taken by Dr. Hatfield. Legs on the Inwood Cup were scored by J. De Nyse, Dr. Hatfield, C. Cone, F. S. Salomon and F. Schwed. On the Monthly Cup legs were scored by De Nyse, C. Trevor and C. Cone.

The scores:

SHEA TAKES CLOSE MATCH.

Enters Semi-final of Handball Tourney by Beating Doherty.

Dan Shea of the Pastime A. C., local all-around athletic champion, earned his semi-final round bracket in the Metropolitan A. A. U. handball championship tournament at the Annunciation A. C. yesterday, after one of the most keenly contested matches of the tournament. Pitted against A. Doherty of the New York A. C. in his third-round match, Shea was returned victorious in straight games by scores of 21—17 and 21—19. These scores indicate more clearly than is usually the case the intense competition which was provided before the Brazilian Cross wearer was returned the victor.

Right at the start of the match the play waxed keen and there was no letup thereafter until Shea, with a final rally, annexed the laurels. Four times in the opening game the service alternated before an ace was registered, and then it was Doherty who started the scoring. The Mercury Footer held a slight lead thereafter until the sixteenth ace was registered, where Doherty's play experienced a reversal and Shea, improving, drew on even terms. The Pastime A. C. athlete continued his strong attack and took the game by 21—17.

In the second game the players alternated in the lead from the start, Shea, using a strong, low drive with cleverness and bewildering precision, and at times upsetting Doherty's attack. The latter, however, retaliated with a strong, slashing game, which kept him on practically even terms with his rival almost to the last ace. As the game progressed the play became more keen and each ace was bitterly contested. Shea's low drives enabled him to gain the lead when the score stood at 19 all, and then ensued a period when the service alternated at least half a dozen times before the Pastime player's victorious ace was recorded.

A. Badinelli, R. Powers and Cy Regan, all of the Annunciation A. C., were the other players to reach the semi-final round. Badinelli disposed of R. Manes, a clubmate. Powers eliminated A. Waldman, City A. C., and Regan defeated Thomas Badinelli, of the Annunciation clan.

The summaries:

Metropolitan A. A. U. Handball Championship—First Round—A. O'Brien, Annunciation A. C., defeated S. Frankel, City A. C., 21—9, 21—7.

Second Round—T. D. Badinelli, Annunciation A. C., defeated A. O'Brien, Annunciation A. C., 21—16, 12—21, 21—8.

Third Round—A. Badinelli, Annunciation A. C., defeated R. Manes, Annunciation A. C., 21—19, 21—20; Dan Shea, Pastime A. C., defeated A. Doherty, New York A. C., 21—17, 21—19; R. Powers, Annunciation A. C., defeated A. Waldman, City A. C., 21—16, 21—16; Cy Regan, Annunciation A. C., defeated T. Badinelli, Annunciation A. C., 21—17, 21—1.

Woman Golfer Plays Ball Out of Pond, But Fails In Herself

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 1.—Two unusual golf recoveries were made here today. A woman player drove a floater ball into the pond at the tenth hole. The ball came up near the bank and her recovery shot was dead to the pin. The player, however, leaned over too far and plunged head first into the water as the ball winged its way toward the green.

Parker W. Whittemore of Brookline, drove into a bad spot in a trap on his way to the thirteenth. He then took his niblick and holed out from more than 100 yards away for one of the most sensational twos that has ever been played at Pinehurst.

POHRING WINS OVER ICE-COVERED COURSE

Leads Field of 19 in Harlem Heights Road Race—Jackson Earns Fast-Time Prize.

Archie Pohring of the Morningside A. C. led home the field of harriers who braved the unfavorable weather and running conditions yesterday in the Harlem Heights Athletic League's prize handicap road race, conducted over a treacherous five and one-half mile course, under the auspices of the Alpha P. C. C. The winged "M" wearer, starting with a handicap allowance of four minutes, captured the premier prize in comparatively easy fashion after one of the best races of his career. Pohring crossed the finish line a winner in the actual time of 34 minutes 53 seconds, with a lead of a city block on A. Mathias of the St. Christopher Club, who raced home in second position.

The race attracted nineteen harriers, and the fact that eighteen finished the full distance indicates the excellent endurance qualities of the competitors. Conditions under foot were decidedly unfavorable and parts of the course, over the icy and snow-covered streets, were really dangerous for the runners. To add to the discomfiture of the harriers, a cold, penetrating wind at times broke their speed.

Pohring raced in impressive form in scoring his victory. He set the pace over the greater part of the trying course, and at the finish showed no apparent effects of his hard race. While occupying the position of pacemaker Pohring was several times challenged by aspiring rivals, but these challenges were beaten off as frequently as they were attempted.

For the first two miles A. Sands of the Morningside A. C., a former Erasmus Hall H. S. cross-country runner and runner-up for the P. S. A. L. title, set the pace. Sands was allowed the limit handicap of five minutes and he set a hot pace during his term at the head of the field. Pohring, starting one minute later, got away at a fast clip, and at the second mile mark was running shoulder to shoulder with the former scholastic hill and dale'r. For another half mile the two runners battled for the leadership, Pohring gaining the upper hand when Sands, weakening from the effects of his strong early pace, gradually lost ground. Thereafter Pohring remained at the head of the field, racing at a smart galt under the unfavorable conditions.

The fastest time for the race was recorded by Wilson Jackson, the sturdy colored runner, who sports the emblem of the St. Christopher Club. Jackson, starting from the 1:45 mark, finished eleventh in the actual time of 34:23. This performance enabled the colored harrier to capture the time prize by the margin of one second from Benjamin Segretto of the Morningside A. C., who was allowed a start of two minutes and finished eighth in 34:24.

Representatives of the St. Christopher Club, compiling the low total of 25 points, captured the team prize from the harriers of the Harbrook Heights A. C., who finished the race with 30 marks.

The order of finish follows:

Position.	Name and Club.	Handicap.	Actual Time.
1	A. Pohring, Morningside A. C.	4:00	34:53

DEEGAN FIRST IN ROAD RUN

St. Anselms A. C. Athlete Wins Eleven-Mile Race in the Bronx.

William Deegan of the St. Anselm's A. C. showed his heels to a field of nine rivals yesterday in an eleven-mile invitation road race in the Bronx, held under the auspices of the St. Francis Catholic Union as a preparatory test for prospective competitors in the Sea Gate marathon race. Deegan, racing at the head of the pack over the last three miles of the difficult trail, won without serious opposition in 1:04:15.

Up to the time he made his bid for permanent leadership at the ninth mile Deegan was a participant in a keen battle with Jack Phillips of the Paulist A. C. and James Brooks of the Mohawk A. C. These three were the principal contenders for premier laurels from the start, alternating in the task of pacesetting until Deegan suddenly shot away from Phillips and Brooks and, after the ninth mile, confined the duty of setting the pace to himself. Phillips and Brooks, however, maintained a close formation right up to the finish line, when the Winged P athlete managed to sprint to the line in second position, a second ahead of Brooks.

The order of finish follows:

Pos.	Name and Club.	Time.
1	Wm. Deegan, St. Anselm's A. C.	1:04:15
2	John Phillips, Paulist A. C.	1:04:45

OUTSIDER CAPTURES HABANA HANDICAP

Doctor Rae, a 6 to 1 Shot, Defeats Good Field in Distance Race—Currency a Winner.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 1.—Over a good track, Dr. Rae, the four-year-old son of Sea King-Stake and Cap, sprang a surprise when he won the Habana Handicap at one and a sixteenth miles here today, defeating a fairly good field. The stake carried a net value of 1,770. Dr. Rae for some unaccountable reason was the outsider in a field of five, going to the post at 6 to 1, while Lackawanna, which has been performing in brilliant style, was made the choice, opening at odds on. She receded to 6 to 5 at the close, however.

Kederis, who had the mount on Dr. Rae, was alert at the barrier, and when the start came, broke him of in a good position and then took a restraining hold on him. He allowed Lackawanna to race out in front. At the last furlong pole, Kederis went to work on Dr. Rae and the son of Sea King responded gamely and, closing in resolute fashion, got up to win by a neck, while Lackawanna was ten lengths in front of Byrne.

The Venezuela Handicap, a sprint for three-year-olds and upward, at six furlongs, resulted in an easy victory for the split favorite, Currency. In this event, Different Eyes was the medium of a terrific plunge, being backed from a high quotation of 3 to 1 to 8 to 5, but failed to land in the money. Currency went into a good lead at the lifting of the barrier and, increasing his advantage to the finish, won pulling up by four lengths.

Jockey Carmody carried of the riding honors by landing three winners.

NEW POWER BOAT UNION IS FORMED

Clubs of Middle West and Canada Complete International Organization.

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Representatives of 150 yachting clubs of the Middle West and Canada tonight completed organization of the International Power Boat Union, the purpose of which, it was announced, would be to "promote the sport of power boat racing, to unify racing rules and authorize dates for the territory it embraces."

Any group of three or more yacht clubs will be admitted to the union and each such organization will be represented on the Board of Governors.

Under the by-laws of the new organization, the rules defining professionalism were amended to allow any driver to compete for cash prizes so long as his livelihood was not derived from power-boating. The object of this, it was explained, was to admit followers of the sport who might not be able to finance their races unless they might be reimbursed by prizes won.

The principal organizations in the union are the Mississippi Valley Powerboat Association, Michigan Yachting Association and the Detroit River Yachting Association. Canadian and Lake Ontario groups are soon to be formed.

The officers include: Chairman, Charles P. Hanley, Muscatine; Vice-Chairman, F. G. Ericson, Toronto; Secretary, Robert E. Power, Cleveland; Treasurer, Sheldon Clark, Chicago.

A committee was appointed to communicate with the Royal Motor Yacht Club of England, to ascertain if that organization would entertain a challenge from the New Union for the Harmsworth trophy.

English Woman Best at Traps.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 1.—Dorothy C. Smiley of London was today awarded the Annie Oakley prize for the best net score registered during this week's handicap rifle contest for women at the Pinehurst Gun Club. Dr. Smiley led the field at 135-10-145. Mrs. Lawrence Barr of Pittsburgh, shooting from scratch, won the special prize offered for the best two targets of the week with scores of 144 and 143 out of a possible 150.

BOXING BOUTS FOR NEWARK

Fur Is Expected to Fly When Eddie Fitzsimmons Meets Duffy.

Eddie Fitzsimmons, local lightweight, who has advanced rapidly of late, will exhibit his ability in one of the four eight-round bouts which will be held this evening at the Newark Sportsmen's Club, Newark, N. J. Fitzsimmons, who is clamoring for a match with Champion Benny Leonard, has contracted for a bout against Jimmy Duffy, the rugged west side lightweight. Because of the reported heavy-hitting ability of Fitzsimmons and the remarkable courage shown by Duffy in his local bouts, the match has attracted unusual interest.

Benny Valger, French featherweight, who is seeking a title match with Johnny Kilbane, will compete in another eight-round contest. Valger's rival will be Joey Fox, the Bluglish featherweight, who has established a favorable reputation since coming to this country. The other two eight-round bouts will be between Gene Tunney of Greenwich Village and Al Roberts of Staten Island; and Charlie Beecher of the east side and Johnny Murray of the west side.

Capablanca in Madrid Exhibition.

MADRID, Feb. 1.—The Cuban chess champion, Capablanca, played thirty simultaneous games this evening at the Madrid Casino. He won twenty-eight of them and received 10,000 pesetas for his visit to this city.

MASON SIGNS FOR BOUT WITH WILDE

Stipulates Match Must Be Held in Toledo—Promoter to Confer with Englishman.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Feb. 1.—Ad Thacher, promoter of the bout between Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight title holder, and Frankie Mason, American claimant, will go to Milwaukee tomorrow to confer with Dave Hughes, Wilde's manager, and to complete arrangements for staging the event here some time during the latter part of this month.

George Biemer, Mason's manager, who arrived here tonight from Fort Wayne, informed Thacher that Mason will meet Wilde in no place other than Toledo. This was because of an agreement between Thacher and Mason that the bout, if held anywhere, would be held in Toledo, it was said.

Biemer signed Mason's end of the agreement. Mason now is at South Bend, Biemer said, and will come here as soon as the final contracts are signed. Thacher announced that Wilde will come at once to Toledo to complete his training.

The weight is to be 108 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight. The agreement calls for a no decision bout, it is understood.

The promoter is figuring on staging the fight in the Coliseum, providing he can seat 6,000 spectators. He put in his time today arranging a blueprint of the floor space.

FORSMAN AND LEITCH WIN.

Capture Quarter and Two-Mile Skating Races at Dyckman Oval.

Paul Forsman of Berkeley-Irving School, interscholastic ice skating champion, showed impressive form yesterday in capturing the premier prize in a quarter-mile handicap race held at Dyckman Oval. Forsman, with a handicap of ten yards, outskated Jim Kieran of the Riverside Skating Club, who had a similar allowance, in a keen struggle which continued right up to the tape. The scholastic star's time was 0:39 2-5.

A field of twenty-three skaters entered for this race, necessitating several trial heats and subsequent semi-final tests. Forsman, in the preliminaries, showed fine ability, winning his right to compete in the final without serious opposition. In the closing heat, however, Kieran clung to the shining heels of the schoolboy skater from start to finish, forcing Forsmen to extend himself to win. George Pickering of the Verona Lake Skating Club, the scratch starter, got safely through all qualifying heats, but in the final had to be content with third position.

Al Leitch, Lake Placid speed crack, carried off the prize in a two-mile handicap race, outskating a field of twenty-two rivals for the laurels. Leitch and Joe Miller of the New York A. C. started from scratch, conceding handicaps ranging up to 200 yards to their rivals. Before the first mile had been completed, however, the two back-markers were skating up in front at a stellar pace, which caused many of the original field to retire as the race progressed and Leitch and Miller continued their dizzy gait. In the closing half mile Leitch added to his pace and gradually left Miller in the ruck, winning by more than 150 yards in 6:41.

The summaries:

One-quarter mile race, handicap—Won by Paul Forsman, Berkeley-Irving School (10 yards); James Kieran, Riverside Skating Club (10 yards), second; George Pickering, Verona Lake Skating Club (scratch), third. Time—0:39 2-5.

Two-mile race, handicap—Won by Al Leitch, Lake Placid (scratch); Joe Miller, New York A. C. (scratch), second; Don Rasmson, 181st Street Ice Palace (20 yards), third. Time—6:41.

Martin, President of the organization, announced tonight, following the completion of the work by the Schedule Committee, which had been in session here two days.

NINETY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY SALE
Celebrating the founding of the Lord & Taylor Store in 1826

FIRST OFFERING OF THE ANNIVERSARY SALE

Finely Tailored Suits For Men and Young Men

$39.75

ONLY twice a year do we make decisive reductions in our men's clothing—in July and February. The present event, held in connection with our Anniversary Sale, represents substantial reductions from prices already moderate, and makes this the logical time to secure new clothing.

There is a good range of styles, fabrics and sizes to choose from—tweeds, cheviots, flannels, and unfinished worsteds in the heavier full-lined garments for the colder weather—lighter, half-lined ones suitable for Spring, as well as those of medium weight that many men prefer for all-year-round wear.

Men's Overcoats

Also Specially Priced at

$39.75

THERE is still a good assortment of winter-weight overcoats which we have greatly reduced for the Anniversary Sale. There are town ulsters, great coats, and Chesterfields that give an excellent opportunity to finish out the season or prepare for next winter at an extremely moderate price.

EXPLAINS EGYPT SPEECHES

Letter to British Historian Vividly Describes Events on Return from Africa.

An intimate and vivid account of his Egyptian experiences and his visits with European monarchs on his return from Africa in 1910 is given in a letter from Theodore Roosevelt to Sir George Trevelyan, the English historian, which begins in the February number of Scribner's Magazine. The letter, which is more than 25,000 words in length, was written at Sir George's request months after Colonel Roosevelt returned to this country. Extracts are quoted here with the permission of Scribner's.

The letter begins with the circumstances which led up to the famous Cairo University and London Guildhall speeches which aroused so much criticism. The strength of the Egyptian Nationalist movement, Colonel Roosevelt discovered, lay not with the Levantines of the cafés, but with the "mass of practically unchanged and bigoted Moslems to whom the movement meant driving out the foreigner" and "plundering and slaying the local Christian." Accordingly, when Colonel Roosevelt was invited to an entertainment in his honor at a native officers' club at Khartoum, he told them that ruin would come to Egypt and the Sudan unless they kept undiminished the power and prestige of English rule.

"I believe the speech accomplished its purpose," he concluded, "at least that is what Slatin Pasha told me and what the Sirdar wrote me at the time, and what Sir Ian Hamilton on his return from the Sudan also wrote me."

The relations between the sovereigns he met, reminded Colonel Roosevelt of the officers and their wives in Western army posts, knit together into one social whole, but, shut off from the rest of the world and sundered by an impassable gulf from enlisted men, "were riven asunder by bitter jealousies, rivalries, and dislikes."

"The Kings whom I saw," he wrote, "were not as a whole very ambitious or very forceful, though fine, honest, good fellows; and the monotony of their lives evidently made them welcome any diversion in the shape of a stranger, who could give them an entirely new point of view. * * * They also all stood distinctly in awe of the German Kaiser, who evidently liked to drill them.

"Most of them had obviously read up my writings for the occasion, and would appeal to me for enlightenment upon points which they could not understand; they would usually need further enlightenment about some of the expressions I used in telling the stories, and they would evidently solemnly write or tell one another just what these expressions were. Accordingly, after the usual formal and perfunctory conversation with the new King or Crown Prince, he would, with a little preliminary manoeuvring, ask me if I would mind repeating the story I had told some preceding King about this, that, or the other frontier hero who had afterward become a public servant holding my commission—wishing to know just how and why it was that Benjamin Franklin Daniels, afterward Marshal of Arizona, had his ear 'bit off' in the course of the exercise of his duties as peace officer, or why the Hon. Seth Bullock, who was Marshal in South Dakota, had regarded homicide as a regrettable but inevitable incident of a political career in territorial days; or, he might (and in two cases actually did) say, 'I beg your pardon, but I do not quite understand what is a two-gun man,' which would necessitate a brief review of the right of private war in the Far West, and the advantages accruing to the cause of virtue if its special champion was able to use a revolver in either hand."

Colonel Roosevelt wrote with enthusiasm of his liking for the King and Queen of Italy, but added that "to be King or Queen in a country like Italy at the present day means unending strain and worry, and both the King and Queen were faithfully and conscientiously and wisely, and with great self-devotion and self-abnegation, doing everything they could to meet the difficulties of an uncommonly difficult situation."

The Austrian Emperor struck Colonel Roosevelt as an interesting but not a very able man. At his first interview "he said that he had been particularly interested in seeing me, because he was the last representative of the old system, whereas I embodied the new movement, and that he had wished to see me so as to know for himself how the prominent exponent of that movement felt and thought."

Describing the State dinner which the Emperor gave him, Colonel Roosevelt wrote: "The Emperor and all the Austrian guests had one horrid habit. The finger bowls were brought on, and with each a small tumbler of water in the middle; and the Emperor and all the others proceeded to rinse their mouths and empty them into the finger bowls."

LINKS IRISH WITH GERMANS.

De Valera Says They Wanted to See England Defeated in War.

In reply to a question, asked after he had lectured at Hunts Point Palace yesterday afternoon, Eamons De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," said that "so far as England was concerned, Ireland wanted Germany to win the war." A few minutes earlier Borough President Henry Bruckner of the Bronx had announced: "I am not pro-Irish; I am of German extraction," and, after explaining that he was present as a citizen, had bought a $500 bond.

The meeting adopted a resolution pledging the support of those assembled to the cause of the "Irish Republic," and asking the Bronx representatives in Congress to use every legal and constitutional means to bring about recognition by this country. Rabbi David Klein and Harry Boland, Sinn Fein member of the House of Commons for South Rosscommon, made speeches.

Women's Clubs to Meet.

Representatives of half a million women are expected at the semi-annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the Biltmore next Saturday morning. Miss Gail Laughlin of San Francisco, President of the federation, will preside. Emma Hirth, Mrs. Shepard Morgan, Miss Eugenia Wallace, and Miss Amelia Hutchinson will speak.

BEFORE YOU TELEPHONE MAKE SURE THE CALL IS ESSENTIAL

300,000 calls daily have been added to the abnormal telephone traffic in New York City as a result of the epidemic of influenza and pneumonia.

In addition to a shortage of about 1,000 operators from our normal force, 2,000 operators are absent from the Central Offices on account of sickness. The girls remaining on duty are meeting the emergency with a fine spirit of service that merits the highest praise and the most kindly cooperation. But there are limits to what they can do.

Every unnecessary call places an unnecessary burden upon the operators and may delay vitally important messages.

COOPERATE! Help keep the lines open for carrying the messages to physicians, hospitals, nurses, health department workers and others directly concerned with the epidemic.

VIRTVS VINCIT

PRODUCT of THE MASTER CABINETMAKERS of AMERICA

FRANKLY, this advertisement is not written for the purpose of bringing business to the Gimbel Store. We publish it rather as a measure of tribute to the Brunswick Phonograph and to its makers.

YOU will find the Brunswick occupying a commanding position at the national music show. You will find it occupying a like position in the Gimbel Salons—as well as in the minds and hearts of the thousands who have purchased them here.

GIMBEL Brothers were the original sponsors of the Brunswick in New York. We brought it here from the West; gave it its baptism in a whirlwind campaign of sales, and are still proud to fly the Brunswick pennant from the masthead.

The Ultona — The Exclusive Brunswick Reproducing Device

The Brunswick Ultona, all record reproducer, and the new all-wood Tone Amplifier bring out tones hitherto lost. Each record is played at its best. So faithful is the Brunswick Method of Tone Reproduction that one marvels at its clearness, its richness, its melodiousness.

The ULTONA

The Shape of the Brunswick Horn Means Superior Tone

One of the secrets of the Brunswick's wonderful tone on All Records is the exclusively patented Oval wooden tone chamber and throat. It actually does eliminate all harshness, all stridency and so-called "tinny" sound that you have always thought a necessary evil of the old style "Talking Machine."

Every Brunswick a Big Value in Tone, Size, Appearance

The Brunswick in its generous size and splendid appearance is typical of its Western origin—the wide spaces and magnificent vistas. So—not only is its size conducive to richness of tone—but its general good looks make it a noteworthy acquisition to the most elegant room in the most elegant home. The sketches convey a slight idea of this characteristic.

CHILDREN ARE CARED FOR

Imperial Palace at Gatchina, with Its Art Treasures, in Care of Cultured Custodians.

By ARTHUR E. COPPING.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DORPAT, Jan. 30.—Through joint permission of the Esthonian Government and of the Moscow Government I am about to visit Soviet Russia to report on conditions now prevailing in that country.

At present the vital problem is not what did the Bolsheviki set out to do, nor what occurred in the early stages of their power, but what sort of Government are the Bolsheviki running now, and what are the fruits of that Government.

Nothing they have said but strengthened one's conception of the Bolsheviki as thieving cut-throats who, instigated by deep-scheming Germany, held Russia's docile millions in subjection by the most savage and untiring terrorism. Since coming to the Baltic States I have in gathering information resulting from Yudenitch's advance tapped a new stratum of evidence, hostile to the Bolsheviki, but, on working the ground carefully, I detected isolated facts of contrary tendency.

Gatchina Treasures Preserved.

At Gatchina, that beautiful domain of imperialistic Russia, south of Petrograd, what was my surprise to find the town and palace unharmed, and the abundant art treasures of the district in cultured custody. Certainly the inhabitants poured out nothing but undiluted denunciation of the Soviet rule, but allowance had to be made for the fact that they belonged to the dispossessed class, and were unlocking a sense of injustice and ill usage fomented in their hearts for over two years. Moreover, their stories of personal hardship were none of current date, but belonged to the early stages of Bolshevist ascendency.

It was a tantalizing moment when a Gatchina schoolmistress spoke nicely about Bolshevism.

"You must not suppose," she said, "that it is merely a system of violence and spoliation. On the contrary, its professors were idealists honestly striving to uplift human society."

"Good!" I exclaimed. "Thank you. I am eager to hear the testimony of a defender of Bolshevism. Tell me what sort of time you personally have had during the last two years."

Whereupon came disclosures quite contrary to the expectation her words had aroused. It was a story of a long professional working day followed by irksome domestic drudgery, nobody remaining available to cater, cook or sew for her, and of incessant striving for adequate nourishment. All this had resulted in a load of debt, in disconcerting contrast with her comfortable little savings of other days.

Two delicate pieces of inferential evidence came to assume significance in my mind. A lady who bought food furtively and acted contrary to the official mandate in other ways told me how for months she was shadowed by Bolshevist spies, who finally, more narrowly to watch her proceedings, took lodgings in the house where she lived feeding the children.

Another case was where little attempt was being made to disguise White sympathies a Gatchina family had a Bolshevist agent residing in their midst for nearly a year.

There was no arrest in either instance, and somehow such long periods of mere watching suggested a forbearance and patience out of harmony with the idea of reckless and ruthless tyranny.

Care Taken of Children.

Then came a witness who amazed me by the nice things he said about the Bolsheviki from whom he had fled, notably as to infinite pains taken over the feeding, instruction, recreation and general welfare of children.

At first I thought the man must be a Red agent disseminating propagandist fictions, but inquiry threw doubt on suspicion, which evaporated when I submitted his statements to other refugees, particularly a lady who in recent months has enjoyed the comprehensive knowledge that came of journeying between Gatchina, Petrograd and Moscow. Condemnation of Soviet rule was breshed through every word of her previous statements to me, but now she said:

"Oh, yes, it is quite true the Bolsheviki look after children very well indeed."

Here is another slender scrap of testimony, telling against the side supported by all available witnesses. Rethinking me I should have occasion to use Russian money, I asked a refugee family if they had brought any with them.

"Yes," came the answer. "I have a few thousand Kerensky and Bolshevist rubles, but I am not parting with them. We want money for our maid who came away when we did, but now wishes to return.

"Is her family there?" I asked.

"No," came the reply, "she is all alone in the world, but on second thought she does not like leaving Russia."

Here, then, at any rate, was one person for whom Bolshevist rule possessed attraction.

Then I heard Yudenitch's officers mention as an obligation resting on patriotic Russians that they would have to shoot all the Bolshevist commissars, and that every Communist should be executed. Talking with Nicholas Klishko, the Bolshevist Secretary at the Peace Congress at Dorpat, I asked how many commissars held authority in Russit today. He answered that there were approximately 100,000, and as to the number of Communists he believed the strength of the party was not far short of 1,000,000.

This representative of Bolshevist Russia confirmed the reported good treatment of children, but as to the overfeeding of children he shook his head.

"No child goes without food. No child's food has to be paid for. But children do not get as much to eat as they ought to, and other persons go definitely short."

With his hands he indicated the dimensions of the daily bread ration.

"Just one jolly big slice," I suggested.

"Yes," replied Klishko, who has a knowledge of idiomatic English, "and not so jolly big either."

He said assurance had been given many times that, provided she be left in peace to develop her internal affairs, Soviet Russia would honor the financial obligations incurred by the former Russian Government.

Thus the "Socialist Republic" apparently would countenance the reintroduction of capitalism under two heads: (1) For working timber and mining rights conceded in payment of debt, and (2) for providing the thousand and one articles of which the Russian people are in urgent need. Meanwhile it seems to have encountered difficulties, especially on the vital question of transport, while on the allied subject of trading, human nature and abstract principle would appear to have been in collision.

Leaving prejudice behind, or at any rate desiring so to do, I go into Russia seeking the truth.

Austria to Get Dutch Loan On Tobacco Monopoly Credit

VIENNA, Jan. 30.—Authorization for a foreign loan, with a monopoly on tobacco as security, has been given by the National Assembly, and the Government has decided to contract with a Dutch organization, which will advance 30,000,000 florins.

The Government will share the profits of the monopoly and will retain supervision of its finances. Finance Minister Reisch has expressed the thanks of the republic to the Allies for facilitating the agreement.

ANXIOUS ABOUT ESTHONIA

Reluctant to Let Neighbor Forestall Her in Expected Trade Movement with Russia.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Jan. 28.—Much uncertainty still prevails here as to the real intentions of the Allies, but the impression is gaining ground that new methods toward the Bolsheviki are about to be adopted. Reports—somewhat vague, but said to be based on inside information—come from Esthonia that the latter is about to conclude actual peace with the Soviet Government in order to obtain the first fruits of the expected trade movement.

What certainly is true is that in the recent Helsingfors conference—which really accomplished nothing definite, though perhaps laying a useful foundation for future co-operation—the Esthonians took a much more negative attitude than the other Baltic States regarding the question of hostilities with the Reds and firmly refused to enter the compact not to make a separate peace.

In view of this attitude, the Letts are naturally loath that Riga should be forestalled by Reval, and are beginning to wonder whether they, too, should not modify their position, especially if as is reported, Great Britain, to whom Latvia is closer than any other power, has no objection to Esthonia's conduct.

It is announced today that the financial agreement lately concluded with the Letts and Lithuanians by an English banking group has been "sanctioned," that is, received the approval, and doubtless with it the support of the British Government. It is expected that the stability of the present Latvian administration will be greatly increased, especially as there is a proposal involved in the scheme—which is mainly industrial, connected with flax and timber—to straighten out the existing currency tangle of the Lettish and Russian rubles, ostmarks and ostrobles by the issue of a single new currency backed by substantial guarantees which have a genuine value quotable on the foreign exchanges.

Whether this is possible remains to be seen. Even advocates of the scheme admit that the Russian—that is the Czar—ruble presents a very serious obstacle. It is bound to flow in great quantities the moment Soviet Russia becomes accessible, and it is doubtful whether the suggested devices of appointing a date limit beyond which exchange is impossible or of only accepting Russian money bearing the Lettish Government stamp will prove more than temporarily efficacious.

Meanwhile the recovery of Letgalen by the Letto-Polish forces is almost completed, and on the Lettish side there exists no serious obstacle to the cessation of hostilities.

There is at present a Lettish Commission in Moscow discussing the "return or exchange of prisoners," and there is reason to believe that it has been instructed to put out tentative feelers toward Bolshevist sentiment.

Many well-informed people here believe that the Reds' real intentions are less pacific than they would make it appear, and that a strong drive against Poland—and probably Latvia as well—is contemplated in the near future. But a threat of this kind may merely be a Bolshevist bluff—they offer peace in one hand and a sword in the other, according to the classic method of German diplomacy — destined to impress the actual or possible allied supporters of the countries menaced.

MUTINY OF POLES IN SIBERIA CLAIMED

Moscow Also Reports Semenoff's Troops Have Joined Reds—Slav Battalion Captured.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—According to a wireless message sent out by the Moscow Soviet a Polish division in Siberia has mutinied and murdered its officers and joined the Bolsheviki.

It is also asserted that General Semenoff's troops have joined the Reds.

A later message from the same source reads:

"In the capture of Jojneudinsk, in the Kansk region, (Siberia), we took the whole of the Second Slav Battalion prisoner and captured five armored trains. Nigni-Vdinsk has been occupied. The enemy is retiring in panic eastward.

"In the Elizabethgrad region our troops occupied Glodas and a series of villages twenty-five to thirty miles west of Elizabethgrad."

"We have captured Perekop town (in Taurida, near the Black Sea), and driven the enemy out of his fortified positions on the Chengarsk Peninsula, inflicting heavy losses."

A Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company under date of Friday says that according to the Ukrainian press the capture of the town and port of Odessa was effected by Ukrainian regulars reinforced by irregulars of the Kherson Government.

There was hard fighting against General Denikin's troops, most of whom were taken prisoner, while the remainder retreated into Rumanian territory, where they were disarmed.

RED COURIERS USE AMERICAN PAPERS

German Captured en Route to Moscow Reveals Plot to Overthrow Berlin Government.

LETTER IN HIS NECKTIE

Swiss Prisoner's Documents, Also in Necktie, Show Intrigues of Communists at Berne.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Bolshevist agents intrusted with messages regarding sensational widespread Red plans have been for a considerable time traveling between Berlin and Soviet Russia on false credentials, it is stated in official quarters. The credentials they carried are said to have described them as delegates of the American Red Cross mission in Berlin to conduct investigations regarding the exchange of German prisoners from Russia.

These couriers, it appears, were carrying dispatches between Moscow and Bolshevist organizations in other countries, including the German Spartacides and the Swiss Communists. Lithuanian authorities discovered the illicit traveling after Lithuania's borders had been crossed many times and a number of arrests followed. Not all the couriers were provided with American papers, but such forged credentials were found on several of the prisoners.

Two men who carried Red Cross passes admitted they had nothing to do with the American mission, but in reality were working for the Communists. One woman, similarly equipped, who worked from Dvinsk, said she had been instructed to deliver documents to persons she did not know personally.

Most interesting of the captures were two men en route to Moscow by way of Berlin. They carried letters concealed in their neckties. One of them was a German, and a member of the Independent Socialist Party of Germany, and the other was a Swiss belonging to an extremist organization called the Socialist-Democratic Organization of Young People in Switzerland.

The German carried a letter from the head of a Spartacist organization in Germany to M.Tchitcherin, Russian Bolshevist Minister of Foregn Affairs. The letter indignantly denied the report that German Spartacides were counter-revolutianary to the Russian Bolsheviki. It declared that Karl Radek (the Bolshevist propagandist who recently left Berlin) could testify to the writer's communist sympathies. It was said further by the writer that he was arranging with the Russian Bolshevik Zinovieff with regard to spreading communist propaganda in all parts of the world by special courier service from Berlin.

Another letter seized, which was written by the same German, stated that he had succeeded in inducing a staff of engravers to print American, French and German passports for the use of couriers, and suggested that the Soviets make similar arrangements for couriers from Russia to Germany.

The Swiss courier carried a letter from the Secretary of an organization of extreme Socialists in Berne to an editor of a Red paper in Moscow, acknowledging the receipt of Bolshevist literature from Moscow, of which, he said, he had made great use, and asking further supplies.

Under interrogation, the German courier declared the German Independent Socialists would attack and overcome the German Government at the moment they were assured of support from Lenin.

REST HOUSES FOR MOURNERS

Y. W. C. A. Will Keep Open Those Near Cemeteries in France.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Young Women's Christian Association is preparing to entertain at its rest house at Romagne this Spring and Summer relatives and friends of the American dead who lie in the nearby American cemetery, the largest in France. More than 23,000 American soldiers are buried here.

The rest house can accommodate twenty over-night visitors and a much larger number for meals. At the two American cemeteries near Château-Thierry rest houses will be opened this month—one in Belleau Wood, where there are 2,594 American graves, and the other at Fére-en-Tardenois, where lie 3,092 American dead. Here there will be no accommodations for overnight visitors, as the hotel facilities at Château-Thierry are good. Only tea and light lunches will be served.

Further north in the department of the Aisne are seven American cemeteries with nearly 3,000 graves. Bony, near St. Quentin, is the centre of this area, and it has been the most visited American cemetery up to the present. At Bony there are two small cottages in the cemetery grounds with a few emergency beds. These cottages will be opened during the present month. There will be no regular meal service at Bony but luncheon may be had and tea will be poured in the afternoon.

PARIS STREETS TO BE DARK

Government Takes Drastic Measures to Conserve Coal.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—After tomorrow the nights in Paris will recall the nights of the Gotha raids, for the Government announces that because of the shortage of coal the streets can no longer be lighted at night, except with exceptions which, while useful, will do little to brighten the blanket of gloom which will hang over the boulevards.

Street lighting by gas will be reduced two-thirds and lighting by electricity will be suspended, except at public markets and important street crossings. This means that most of the lamps on the grand boulevards will be dark.

Special police arrangements have been made to prevent an increase in street robberies, which have been very numerous of late because of the activity of apaches. Many Paris newspapers complain of the measure as showing a maladministration of public affairs.

EXPECT WILSON IN SOUTH.

Tumulty, However, Knows Nothing of Reported Visit to North Carolina.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 1.—President Wilson is expected to visit North Carolina shortly and he will probably stay at Southern Pines or at Pinehurst.

One of the larger Winter residences at Southern Pines is said to have been put at the President's disposal for the period of his visit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Secretary Tumulty said tonight that he knew nothing about a residence at Pinehurst being offered for occupancy by the President. No confirmation could be obtained here of the report that the President might go there.

Sinn Fein Reject Overtures from Labor Party Requiring Them to Take Oath of Allegiance

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 31.—The Sinn Fein Party will make no bargain with the British Labor Party that involves attendance at Westminster and taking the oath of allegiance.

THE NEW YORK TIMES learns that during an interview between Arthur Henderson, Adamson, and Griffith of the Labor Party, and John McNeill, Sinn Feiner, the labor delegates asked, if they were returned to Westminster with a strength equal to that of all other parties, would the Sinn Fein members go to Westminster to enable a Labor Government to carry a substantial Home Rule bill.

The Sinn Fein would not be asked to interfere in purely British legislation.

The Sinn Fein leaders refused to accept the hypothetical case as likely soon, and flatly refused to attend Parliament, as it involved recognition of the British right to rule Ireland. They remarked that a sense of public decency should urge the British people to change the military régime in Ireland, for which they were responsible.

It is believed in well-informed quarters here that the labor delegates will recommend dominion home rule, with county option, for all Ireland.

DUBLIN, Feb. 1.—A total of sixty-five prominent Sinn Feiners and Republicans have been arrested in Dublin, Tipperary, Limerick, and Cork. There were no further developments in the situation today.

Saturday night Police Sergeant Wellwood was fired upon in Limerick. The bullet struck him in the jaw. At first it was feared that his wound would prove fatal, but it is now believed that he will recover.

REVEALS MYSTERY GIFT FROM KAISER

Small Hospital for Amerongen on Grounds Donated by Count Bentinck.

WOOD SAWING SUSPENDED

Floods Cause the Ex-Monarch to Remain Idle About Doorn—Place Looks Desolate.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

THE HAGUE, Monday, Feb. 2.—According to the Nieuw Rotterdamsche Courant, the ex-Kaiser has now decided to build a small hospital at Amerongen as a memorial of his residence there.

The hospital will be large enough to accommodate eight patients, and it is intended to let it become the property of the order of Knights of Saint John, a German order of which the ex-Kaiser, as king of Prussia, was ex-officio President. In Holland the knighthood of this order is considered the greatest honor obtainable in the world.

Count Beninck, who is also a knight, gave the ground for the hospital.

There has been considerable mystery and speculation about this building, in which the ex-Kaiser has taken considerable interest for sometime.

It is rumored that von Kuhlman, who is now at The Hague on private business, is again engaged to the German coal king's daughter, Friedlander Fuld. This engagement, which already had been announced during the war, was broken off after Kuhlman's escapades at Bucharest, but is said to be definite now.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 29.—Although the floods are no longer a cause of imminent danger, Bentinck Castle is surrounded by water on three sides as far as the eye can see, giving an aspect of complete desolation which, it appears, greatly affects the former Kaiser.

The ex-monarch is no longer visible in the grounds at Amerongen, and has transferred his affections and even his wood-sawing pastime to the house and grounds at Doorn. A bitter wind blows from the vast expanse of surrounding water, and two moats are around the castle now, though one piece of the ex-Kaiser's work on the dikes remains and the woodpiles which he himself sawed, with the help of the young Counts Bentinck, are there still, defying the angry and persistant lapping of the water against the dikes. The Rhine has receded, but its course, only a mile distant, is undistinguishable.

Instead of an early morning constitutional on the path where the ex-Kaiser was photographed for THE NEW YORK TIMES, the former Kaiser often arrives at Doorn about 8:30 with his Adjutant, inspects the progress of the work and returns to the castle for breakfast. On other days he arrives at Doorn about 11, accompanied by the former Kaiserin, who walks around the grounds while her husband saws or chops wood until luncheon.

Considerable changes have taken place at Doorn House in the last two months. The house has been papered and painted, although many workmen are still busy and there is still much to be accomplished. A high wire fence, surmounted on three rows of barbed wire, surrounds the grounds, affording a little privacy, as the park is open and exposed to public view from all sides. Gardeners are now busily planting evergreens and all around. I learn that a high brick wall, forming an inner circle around the house, will also be constructed to afford more privacy, and the high bank is being planted with rhododendrons to obstruct the view from the road.

Wilhelm's furniture, which had been stored in a large shed at Doorn, is gradually being moved into the house and will all be removed by March, although the workmen maintain that the house cannot be ready before April or perhaps May. All the preparations and alterations give the appearance of being made with a view to permanent residence. There is no doubt that these preparations and laying out of the grounds are at present William Hohenzollern's main interest and hobby in life.

From some one closely connected with the circumstances and in a position to know, I learn that a great many of the former Kaiser's recently published letters to "Nicky" were written under the influence of Prince von Bülow, then Chancellor, who endeavored to exercise control over the Kaiser's volubility.

Although the Kaiser wanted to make the letters a personal exchange, von Bülow succeeded in writing some letters entirely himself, but up to the time of the famous Daily Telegraph incident the Emperor wrote largely as he pleased. "Nicky's" letters, however, were very largely written by his counselors, especially by the old Court Marshal, Fredericks, and the Russian Foreign Office, for political purposes, and the letters are said to have played an important rôle in Russian diplomacy. Baron von Bothmer, a formidable Pan-German, who always hated the Foreign Office, suffering under the idea that the ex-Kaiser is constantly attacked instead of his responsible Ministers and advisers, states in the conservative Kreuz-Zeitung that Count Mirbach, formerly in charge of the Russian Department of the German Foreign Office, declared all the ex-Kaiser's letters to the heads of foreign powers were composed at the Foreign Office and afterward submitted to a State Secretary, the Chancellor, or often to the Civil Cabinet.

Von Bothmer even declares that Mirbach wrote many of the letters himself. Mirbach was attached to the Foreign Office only a few years before the war, and was murdered in Moscow after the Brest-Litovsk treaty.

This statement is probably another effort to absolve the ex-Kaiser from responsibility.

Lithuania Asks for Memel Region.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—A dispatch from Tilsit to the Lokal-Anzeiger says that Lithuania has addressed a note to the Supreme Council requesting that the Memel region may finally fall to Lithuania and that immediate use of the port of Memel be granted to her. Lithuania asks also that she be permitted to build a railway from Memel to Lithuania.

FRANCE STANDS BY ADRIATIC DECISION

Ready to Carry Out Anglo-French Agreement Reached with Premier of Italy

BUT HOPES FOR SETTLEMENT

Suggestions to This End from Rome and Belgrade Would Be Welcomed by Millerand.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The French Government has not changed in any way its attitude on the Adriatic question adopted in conformity with the decision of the Supreme Council Jan. 20, it is declared in the best authorized circles here.

The French delegation's decision was taken after the receipt of the note from Signor Nitti, the Italian Premier, and was in full agreement with him.

It was added today that M. Millerand, the French Premier, stands ready to carry out the undertaking agreed upon by the French and British Governments. While abstaining from any initiative in the matter, M. Millerand is welcoming any suggestion from Rome and Belgrade in the interest of a prompt solution of the Adriatic question.

ROME, Jan. 31.—In an editorial dealing with the Jugoslav answer to the ultimatum of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference, the Giornale d'Italia says:

"We will see whether America will take upon herself responsibility for delaying peace, for the Adriatic question has become devoid of any importance since sovereignty over the State of Fiume has been excluded from it. President Wilson showed he was siding with Jugoslavia, but now he does not have a majority with him, and his verdict would not be ratified by public opinion in his country or in Congress."

Comments printed in Croatian papers on the recent railroad strike in Italy, which are reprinted in the Giornale d'Italia, seem to indicate that the Jugoslavs believe Italy is taking a more moderate view of matters. From this they argue that the Adriatic question may be marked by a recession from the Italian attitude which has been preserved for several months.

The Giornale says, in an editorial relating to these articles: "Undoubtedly the remissness of the Italian Government is taken by the Jugoslavs for weakness."

Belief is expressed by the Tribuna that Jugoslavia cannot appeal to America because the proposed compromise was presented by the Allies without participation by the United States. It says this was "due to the defeat of President Wilson in his own country, and the virtual withdrawal of America from the Peace Conference."

A further recital of the activities of the late Count V. Macchi di Cellere, former Italian Ambassador to the United States, is printed in the Giornale d'Italia. It describes the Ambassador's interviews during the Peace Conference with Colonel House; the American Ambassador, John W. Davis; Arthur Frazier Beers, expert on boundary questions attached to the American Peace Commission, and David H. Miller, legal expert. He agreed with Mr. Miller on the following solution of the Adriatic question:

First—That Fiume shall be independent, but that it shall be a free city under the League of Nations.

Second—That the Italian frontier in Istria shall not affect the railway between Fiume and St. Peter.

Third—The Dalmatian coast to be assigned to Jugoslavia, except the cities of Zara and Sebenico, which shall be put under Italian sovereignty, but with their ports free.

Fourth—The Dalmatian hinterland to be neutralized.

Fifth—The Island of Pago to be considered part of the Dalmatia coast and assigned to Jugoslavia, Italy to have the other islands claimed by her.

Sixth—Aviona to be given to Italy and also a mandate over Albania.

The Giornale d'Italia observes that Count di Cellere had obtained in this arrangement more than Italy is now asking for.

AMBASSADORS COUNCIL TO RESUME TODAY

Will Take Up Dutch Note and Germany's Request Concerning War Criminals.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Committee of Ambassadors will resume its work tomorrow morning. It will take up the note to Holland regarding her refusal to give up the ex-Kaiser and will also reply to Germany's request to be let off from handing over the war criminals. It may do something in the Adriatic situation if the Premiers give directions.

Reports from Rome say that Premier Nitti is coming to Paris this week. It appears that the Adriatic situation hinges largely upon his stand. If he holds the French and British Premiers to their promise to enforce the compact of London, in case Jugoslavia does not accept the Fiume compromise, a very delicate situation will be precipitated. However, strong pressure is being brought to bear upon him to consent to new negotiations, and it is entirely likely that this result will be attained.

It is said that the Italians will consent to new negotiations if they start from the premise that Italy shall have Fiume outright. That is not a promising angle, since the Jugoslavs regard the free use of Fiume for a port as essential to their economic life. However, it is generally hoped that the allied chiefs will find a better part than the disagreeable and what it is said would be a dangerous effort to put into effect the secret Treaty of London.

ENTENTE TROOPS ARRIVE IN SILESIA

British Soldiers Also Now Occupy the Flensburg Plebiscite Region of Schleswig.

GERMANS MORE HOPEFUL

Prediction That One-Third of Schleswig-Holstein Zone Will Revert to Fatherland.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 1.—Breslau advices say that the first contingent of Entente troops arrived in the first evacuation zone of upper Silesia yesterday. This is the plebiscite region.

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—Predictions that one-third of the plebiscite zone in Schleswig-Holstein will revert to Germany on the nationality issue are made by the correspondent of the Täglische Rundschau.

He disputes the prevalent notion that German prospects for success in the plebiscite are meagre, and declares, while the Danes within the zone have been figured as an entity, certain sections, particularly the cities of Hover and Tondern, are predominantly German. Germans also hold a majority in the southern section of the region where the plebiscite will be held, he says.

The Island of Alsen, it is believed, will fall to Denmark because of the physical difficulty of dividing it.

In the second zone the correspondent believes Germany has nothing to fear if the issue is decided upon the basis of nationalistic principle. One of the most effective campaign weapons at the disposal of the Danes in this section, it is said, is the promise that Flensburg shipowners will regain ships surrendered to the Allies if sovereignty over the region is given to Denmark.

While the present rate of foreign exchange gives Danes an advantage in connection with carrying on propaganda work in the plebiscite area of Schleswig, the Vossische Zeitung's correspondent says Germans will profit if this country loses the verdict at the ballot box. He says the indemnification of thousands of Germans in the redeeming of German currency on the basis of Danish exchange will lrequire 100,000,000 kroner, and will constitute a serious economic problem.

In proof of his assertion that Flensburg and its vicinity are German in tradition and language, the corespondent says official proclamations from time immemorial have been printed in German and that even now Danish agitators stumping the region are obliged to address their audiences in German. Propaganda activities by both Germans and Danes have been increased since the arrival of the Inter-allied Commission at Flensburg, he says.

FLENSBURG, Jan. 31.—Mayor Todsend, the German burgomaster, who was ordered by the Inter-allied Commission to quit the plebiscite area in Schleswig, left by automobile this afternoon to the disappointment of a large crowd which gathered at the railroad station to bid him good-by.

There was much German resentment over his deportation, and a company of British troops was lined up at the station to prevent disorder, but the crowd quietly dispersed when it learned that the Mayor had left town.

Nearly 1,000 British troops landed at Mervig several days ago were brought here today, and the most of them will be distributed in small towns near this city.

SAYS VILLA PLANS A NEW REVOLUTION

Will Proclaim the Constitution of 1857, Agent Sent to Washington Asserts.

"Francisco Villa is now in the State of Coahuila, Mexico, formulating plans for the consolidation of the armies of two Mexican military chiefs. Their slogan is to be, 'Re-establish the Constitution of 1857,'" said John J. Hawes of San Antonio, Texas, to a TIMES reporter at the National Arts Club yesterday.

Mr. Hawes, who three years ago, as Villa's envoy, made an unsuccessful attempt to present Villa's cause to the authorities at Washington, had with him a letter from Secretary Lansing's office inviting him to a hearing. He also had a letter, written in Spanish and dated two weeks ago, signed by the Mexican rebel General. Mr. Hawes, who is in the oil business and also owns a cattle ranch in Texas, said that he had known Villa and his two brothers for fifteen years. He is on his way to Washington to picture Villa and his desires as they are and not as they have been "picturesquely misstated," he said.

"Villa has been fighting for a cause that is right and he has never varied in his efforts, said Mr. Hawes. I had several talks with General Felipe Angeles, who was a Knight of the Legion of Honor of France, and he sincerely believed that Villa was really a true patriot of Mexico.

"Two weeks ago today I spent three hours with General Villa's private secretary at San Antonio. His secretary told me what Villa was doing and outlined what I believe is a constructive program. He wants to carry out his program without interference by the United States and in harmony with this Government. He wants all foreign property owners to be encouraged to develop Mexico and he is ready to give military pretection to foreigners in opening up their properties. His platform includes compulsory education and sanitation and the enactment of a number of radical laws.

"Villa is called a bandit and a robber by the Carranza interests. I hope to prove that Villa was the direct cause of preventing Carranza from raising an army to be officered by Germans for an attack upon the United States. I have, myself, had in my hands German commissions taken off dead Germans who had fought Villa. One commission was for a lieutenant and the other for a major, and they were issued, not from the German Minister in Mexico, but by the German War Department in Berlin.

"In re-establishing the Constitution of 1857, as outlined by Villa's secretary, he hopes to establish a Monroe Doctrine for Mexico. He does not want to have any foreign alliance. He wants to establish compulsory training, and believes that Mexico must have a strong army in order to maintain the laws."

Mr. Hawes said that Villa was the strongest and biggest factor in Mexico today, and the only man capable of settling the internal problems. He said that Villa was hale and hearty today and that the only severe wound which he had received was a bullet in his shoulder, which was dressed by a doctor of El Paso. According to Mr. Hawes, Villa was in Texas during the greater part of the time he was being sought by General Pershing.

Mexican Minister on Way to Berlin.

France Prepares to Adjust 3,220,000 Pension Claims

PARIS, Feb. 1.—André Maginot, the new Minister of Pensions, says that 660,000 pensions have been liquidated, but that nearly five times as many still remain to be settled, 1,975,000 being pensions for those disabled, 700,000 for widows and 550,000 for dependents.

"To this total of 3,225,000 there may be added 2,400,000 demands for increased pensions, based on the number of children that claimants have," said the Minister, "and also 600,000 cases of demobilization claims. There remain pensions due to civilian victims of the war under the law passed Jan. 1. None of these latter has yet been liquidated."

FINDS 1920 WOMAN SAD, BUT FRIVOLOUS

Marcelle Tinayre Takes the "Golden-Robed Dancer" as Typical of the War Reaction.

SEES MAD DESIRE TO FORGET

But After a Slow Process of Adaptation, the French Writer Predicts a Saner Womanhood Tomorrow.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—"The woman of today, in her dancing, pleasure-seeking frivolity, is in a process of adaptation which will bring saner results tomorrow." Such is the thesis of Mme. Marcelle Tynaire, the well-known writer who in an address to a Congress of Women's Clubs today, recalled that a similar condition followed other wars. She says there is no joy in the life of pleasure such as the women of Paris follow today, and she urged men to help them think more sober thoughts and live quieter days.

"Have you noticed," she asked, "that the women of 1920 are not gay? Frantically they exert themselves morally and physically. Never before have they so madly danced in golden and costly robes. Under the colored lights and in the voluptuous surroundings of modern dancing palaces some hundreds of women—always the same women—tango and fox-trot. As in Paris, so in London and Berlin. From the wine shops of the suburbs, where the phonograph takes the place of the orchestra, to the other end of the social scale the silk stockinged and slippered feet are always on the move.

"Never have women worn more jewels and more furs. Never have men worked harder to dress them, perfume them and bejewel them than now when men are scarce and needed for other work. And not only the women of the demi-monde and the newly rich lead this life, but also the women of the people to the extent of their means, now greater than ever, who if they do not find in it happiness find a sort of revenge for past deprivations.

"Never before were there so many kitchen maids in feathers, so many midinettes with frizzled hair and faces rouged, never so many working girls who rush from factory to hairdressers.

"Older women and scandalized men, suffocated by the spectacle of customs which were not of their youth, shake their heads and say that things are not as they used to be. They forget that their grandfathers and grandmothers did the same sort of thing forty years ago.

"However, is it not true that in other days if we were really no more virtuous or wiser than today we were at least happier? Our parents have told us how rapidly after the war of 1870 France repaired her damages and healed her wounds. What was accomplished in defeat we seem not able to accomplish in victory. It seems her soul tried in the great war effort is not yet able to make the less sublime but none the less necessary effort. The social ills of today are so vast and so profound, so outcome is so uncertain, that the stoutest hearts are sometimes sad. Halt in her mad whirl the golden-dressed dancer who swings in magic circles as if to escape from herself. Look in her eyes, listen to her laughter, and you will find among her vain thoughts a strange fear, a sentiment of unrest, and almost crazy desire to forget yesterday, tomorrow, and herself.

"But this dancer is not the modern woman. She is only one of the aspects of modern women. Think of those who do not dance, those whom grief weighs down, those who have become heads of families, and those who never will have families. You find among them the same melancholy unrest, but they smother it with the resignation of courage. But in their souls you find virtues the dancer of the golden robe does not possess.

"All women on the morrow of the war are in a process of adaptation, and we see that they have not become completely adapted to a form of life which astonishes them and hurts them."

MEXICANS RELEASE AMERICAN AIRMEN

Davis and Grimes Cross Border From Nuevo Laredo—Mexico to Complain to Washington.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 1.—Lieutenants E. F. Davis and G. E. Grimes, United States aviators, who have been held by Mexican authorities since Wednesday last, when they made a forced landing near Guerrero, were released at Nuevo Laredo this afternoon and crossed the Rio Grande to Laredo, Texas, Colonel J. E. Fechet, Southern Department Air Service officer, announced tonight.

The aviators were released by order of General Reynaldo Garza, commander of the garrison at Nuevo Laredo, after a conference with Major Julian F. Saenz, commander at Matamoros, who accompanied the aviators to Nuevo Laredo.

General Garza and Major Saenz called at the American Consulate and informed Randolph Robertson, United States Consul, who had accompanied the aviators from Guerrero, where he had gone to look into the circumstances of their detention, that it would not be necessary to take them before General Murguia at Monterey, according to reports to Colonel Fechet from Laredo.

Lieutenant Stoner, an aviator stationed at Laredo, was sent to San Rafael las Tortillas, thirty miles west of Guerrero, and late today returned with the airplane of Lieutenants Davis and Grimes, Colonel Fechet announced.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—Criticism of American aviators flying over Mexican territory was again expressed by Luis Cabrera, Secretary of the Treasury, in conversation with newspaper men yesterday. He referred especially to two fliers who have landede near Guerrero because their gasoline was exhausted.

The Secretary asserted these incursions were violations of sovereignty and that represent tions would be made to Washington.

ACCUSED OF KILLING WIFE LONG MISSING

Husband, Son of Ex-Peruvian Diplomat, Arrested in Rome Murder Mystery.

BODY FOUND IN MORGUE

Watchman Took Photographs to Parents, Who Identified Supposed Suicide as Daughter.

MISSING FOR TWO YEARS

Prisoner Said Wife Had Sailed for New York and Gone Down With Ship.

ROME, Feb. 1.—Louis Ignatius Mesones, a Peruvian painter, son of Dr. Emanoel Mesones, former Secretary at the Peruvian Legation here, is under arrest on a charge of murdering his wife. The case is one of the most mysterious coming before the police for several years and has excited keen interest in all ranks of Roman society.

Mesones eloped in 1917 with a daughter of Attilio Simonetti, proprietor of one of the best known art galleries in Rome and a Commander in the Order of the Crown of Italy. The parents of the girl objected to a marriage on alleged moral grounds, but after the elopement recognized it. It is asserted that Mesones neglected his wife, and that in January, 1918, she disappeared, Mesones explaining she had gone to Peru. Later he is said to have announced that the ship in which she had sailed had sunk and that she had been drowned.

This story was accepted by the wife's parents, and they made no investigation. Recently a night watchman overheard a conversation between two men who said Mesones's wife had been murdered. They said, it was averred, that her body was "palmed off" as that of one Maria Rotellini who, on Jan. 4, 1918, was found dead on the Tiber embankment. By her side was a revolver and in one of her pockets was a letter addressed to a relative in Udine describing her vicissitudes in finding work in this city and telling of her decision to commit suicide. The body was taken to the morgue, where it was identified. At that time Austrian forces occupied Udine, and it was impossible to conduct an inquiry among her supposed relatives there.

The watchman went to the Morgue, secured pictures of the suicide and showed them to Signor Simonetti, who recognized them as likenesses of his daughter. Investigation at hotels mentioned in the letter found on the dead woman showed a woman by the name of Potellini had actually stayed at them and now the police are trying to trace her.

In the course of the inquiry it has been ascertained that no passport was issued to Signora Mesones, so that she could not have sailed for Peru, as her husband asserted. When arrested, Mesones insisted upon the truth of the story told when his wife disappeared.

"This accusation is preposterous," he said. "I have been persecuted by the police for the last two years. I haven't killed anybody, for I have been blind for

CHARGES NEGLECT OF ILL DEPORTEES

Miss Helen Todd Says Ellis Island "Reds" Don't Get Proper Hospital Care.

DENIAL ISSUED BY UHL

Acting Commissioner Says Report of Woman's Committee Is "Disgrace" and "Propaganda."

Miss Helen Todd, Chairman of the American Women's Committee, organized to care for families of undesirables deported on the transport Buford, yesterday issued a statement by the committee in which it was stated that "Reds" on Ellis Island were not getting proper hospital treatment, that five of them had died, and that one, Jacob Terebchuk, "never known to have been ill even for a day," had died and been buried before his friends even had been aware of his illness.

Within a few days a special committee of fifteen or twenty women will go to Washington, said Miss Todd and demand a Senate investigation of recent raids and a thorough airing of the manner in which the persons held were treated following their arrest." Miss Todd said a women's lobby would be conducted to induce the Senate sub-committee, now taking testimony on Soviet Representative Martens, to take up the charges.

The committee's statement drew an emphatic denial from Byron H. Uhl, Acting Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island. He characterized the statement as "propaganda," and added that it was "a disgrace." He said five radicals had not died and that absolutely nothing in the way of hospital treatment was being left undone for the prisoners.

Organizing Nationally.

Explaining that the committee was organizing nationally, chiefly through State suffrage clubs, Miss Todd mentioned as leaders in their respective States, Mary Heaton Vorse, magazine writer, Massachusetts; Mrs. David McCann and Mrs. Fremont Older, wife of the San Francisco publisher, California; Ann Martin, a suffragist, Nevada, and Eleanor Hill Weed, Connecticut. Among those on the local committee are Harriot Stanton Blatch, Miss Bessie Beatty, Miss Edna Kenton, and Miss Elizabeth Watson.

The committee's statement, in part, follows:

"We have received a letter from Secretary of Labor Wilson, in which he assures us that this disrupting of families was a mistake, arising from an unfortunate miscarriage of orders; that in the future the wives and children will be deported with the husbands, and that the women and children who are the victims of this mistake, regarding the deportees of the Buford, will be allowed to rejoin their families as soon as possible. We have waited patiently for action in this matter, but in the meantime the conditions of which we complain have been tremendously increased in scope and intensity by the thousands of additional arrests that have been made.

Appeal from Russian Union.

"The Union of Russian Workers appeals to the American Women's Committee in regard to some five deaths which they are not able to get any satisfactory account of, and also in regard to conditions resulting from lack of proper nursing and care in the hospitals at Ellis Island, which are of a very serious nature.

"The American Women's Committee wishes also to bring to the attention of the Senate the fact that there are about seventy-five heads of families still detained at Ellis Island and that the suffering among the wives and children, deprived of the bread-winner in the dead of Winter, is beyond words. No help has been given to keep these women from starving or to prevent the eviction of the families, save what the very poor could give in shelter and food. We have done what we could, but, as it takes a half million dollars to supply bail for these men, their families are unable to raise the money to release the father in order that he may keep his children from starving."

Denial by Acting Commissioner.

After denying the committee's figures as to the number of deaths, Commissioner Uhl said:

"The prisoners on Ellis Island, whether radical or not, are receiving the best of medical attention. This is in charge of the United States Public Health Service, and the hospital equipment at the island was singled out for commendation at the recent convention of medical men held at Atlantic City. There is absolutely no truth in statements that the prisoners are not getting proper medical attention.

"Now as to the case of Jacob Terebchuk, I have no specific data at hand, but I do know that every effort is made at once to get in touch with relatives when there is a death. If we are unable to reach them we lose no time in getting the Department of Justice at work seeking them out. I am sure this was done in the case of this man. If, of course, we are still seeking the relatives when the legal time for detaining a body lapses, we have no recourse but to give it burial."

Mr. Uhl spoke bitterly of what he termed "propaganda," and said he thought something should be done to stop it.

RUMANIAN JEWS MERGE.

Two American Societies Agree to Co-ordinate Activities.

The Federation of Rumanian Jews of America and the American Union of Rumanian Jews Amalgamated will be the only national body of Rumanian Jews in the United States in the future. In the past separate and distinct activities have been carried on by the two societies, but at a meeting at the Pennsylvania Hotel all day yesterday an amicable understanding and agreement for co-operation and unity was reached.

Three hundred and ninety delegates, representing twenty-two States, attended the meeting, which was presided over by Dr. Mopapm Belber of Philadelphia. Louis Marshall and Dr. P. A. Siegelstein of New York and Leo Wolfson, recently returned from Rumania, spoke. Albert Lucas, representing Felix Warburg, Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee, said Mr. Warburg was in complete sympathy with the objects of the meeting and wished it well.

Dr. P. A. Siegelstein was elected President, Samuel Goldstein Vice President, Abraham Falick Treasurer and Z. E. Buciair Executive Secretary.

Legion's Tribute to War Dead.

As a tribute to the memory of the American soldiers and sailors who perished in the war, the American Legion, on behalf of the French Government, on Washington's Birthday will present to families of the American dead engraved certificates expressing the appreciation of France. The certificate carries the quotation from Victor Hugo, "The people should come to pray at the graves of those who died for their country." According to the notice sent out by the American Legion, this honor roll carries the names of 107,852 soldiers, 6,800 sailors and 2,507 marines.

FINDS ANTHRACITE PRICES JUSTIFIED

Federal Trade Commissioner Reports Rise Is Proportional to Increased Costs.

WAGES 90 PER CENT. HIGHER

Asserts That There Is Little in Common in Situation of Hard and Soft Coal Industries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Federal Trade Commission in its report on the cost of production of anthracite coal in the Pennsylvania district, made public today, asserts that the increases in prices of anthracite since 1916 have on the whole been closely proportional to the increases in cost of production, of which the increase in the labor cost of about 90 per cent. has been the most significant. Emphasis is laid on the fact that there is little in common found in the situation shown to have existed in the anthracite and bituminous coal industries in the same States.

"Anthacite coal, unlike bituminous," the commission states, "is well adapted to storage above ground. By means of the storage facilities for large quantities of anthracite, either at the mines or at points along the lines of distribution, much has been done to make the operation of the mines more steady during the Spring and Summer months, when demand is normally low.

"The country's supply of anthracite is produced by two general groups of operators. One group is that of the so-called 'railroad coal companies,' relatively few in number, producing from 70 to 80 per cent. of the total output, affiliated to some extent with the principal railroads which serve the anthracite field, owning, as a class, vast reserves of coal land, mining only a part of their lands, and mining a relatively small part of their coal on a royalty basis from coal lands not owned by them, and controlling in large measure the marketing of their coal to the retailer and sometimes even to the ultimate consumer. The other group is that of the so-called 'independent' operators. They number about ten times as many operators as there are 'railroad coal companies,' and produce from 20 to 30 per cent. of the total output, own, as a class, but little coal land, and mine most of their product on the basis of royalty payments, operate usually on a relatively small scale, and sell most of their product to wholesalers."

In the report are set forth in detail the circumstances which led to the allowance to the "independent" operators of a differential of 75 cents per ton on certain sizes, over the prices allowed to the "railroad coal companies." There is also set forth in detail, information concerning the royalties paid by the operators. Summarized, this information shows that sixty-five "independent" operators who produced about 34,000,000 tons in 1918 paid an average of 44 cents per ton in royalties for coal taken from lands owned by others, and showed depletion charges averaging 30 cents per ton for such coal as was mined from their own lands, while nine "railroad coal companies," which produced about 45,000,000 tons in 1918, paid an average of 20 cents per ton on royalties, and showed depletion charges averaging 17 cents per ton.

The reasons for the differences in price regulation policy concerning sizes of anthracite adapted to domestic use, and those used for industrial purposes (steam sizes) are discussed in full in the report, and it is shown how the falling off of the industrial demand for steam sizes, following the armistice, made it necessary to place the entire burden of the increased cost, due to the wage increase which went into effect Nov. 1, 1918, upon the prices of domestic sizes.

K. OF C. SCHOLARSHIP LIST.

Thirty-four New York Veterans to Study at Eight Institutions.

The final assignment of winners of the Knights of Columbus scholarships for former service men shows the following awards to men from New York City:

Stevens Institute of Technology—Paul M. Jones, Jacob G. Viettel of Freeport; Harry H. Philips, Isaac Rauch, Francis J. Jobin, Carl Omark, and Leo Redler.

Fordham University—Peter A. McLaughlin, William A. Ward, Joseph D. Nunan, and Michael A. Hayes.

Georgetown University—Leontine A. Walsh, Joseph L. Kochka, J. F. MacDonald, Bay Shore; Louis S. Martizer, Bay Shore; Philip Black and John A. Sutorius.

Manhattan College—George Fryer.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology—Hubert F. Brennan, Harry J. Fagan, Howard Stevens, Joseph Wenick, P. F. Kershaw and L. M. Pztacsil.

Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn—Walter J. Barrett, John Norwig, Jr., David Finklestein, Raymond V. O'Brien, and Leonard Peristein.

Yale Sheffield Scientific School—William H. Meyer, Edwin R. Zeltz, Edward K. McTernan, and Walter T. Collins.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute—Edmund Barrett.

In addition to the men from this city, scores of other veterans have taken advantage of the free evening schools which the Knights of Columbus have started operating here. More than 100,000 men are now studying either in part-time vocational or in full-time collegiate courses under their auspices. There are sixty night schools in the country for service men under the patronage of this organization.

UPHOLDS HUSZAR REGIME.

Admiral Horthy's Order Defines Procedure for Selecting King.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 30.—Procedure necessary for the possible appointment of a Regent and the selection of a King is outlined in a general order by Admiral Horthy, head of the new Hungarian army, published in newspapers here today. The order was issued as a result of the Extremist movement, which has been advocating the substitution of the old Friedrich Cabinet for the Huszar Government, now in power. The former is reputed to have been an ardent supporter of Archduke Joseph.

It is generally regarded that the order is not antagonistic to Archduke Joseph, but an effort to insure the orderly conduct of public affairs as well as to give the National Assembly opportunity to refer any decision regarding a monarchical constitution or choice of a king to the people.

Handbills bearing the words "Long Live Archduke Joseph, Hungary's Future King" are being distributed here.

VIENNA, Jan. 31.—A monarchial and clerical reaction will reign in the Hungarian National Assembly, according to the Arbeiter Zeitung, which says the movement will not be counteracted by other elements of the Assembly.

RUSH SUPPLIES TO ARMENIA

American Red Cross Ships Goods Valued at $1,600,000.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The American Red Cross, responding to a request of the Committee on Relief in the Near East, has donated emergency relief supplies valued at $1,600,000 for distribution in Armenia. The supplies are now being shipped. There are 3,800 metric tons in the cargo.

These include 112 carloads from the section of army supplies—beds, bedding, hospital clothing and supplies,, drugs, medicines, kitchen utensils, and many other articles; seventy-two carloads from the section of Red Cross supplies—surgical dressings, yarn, wheel-chairs, soap, and refugee clothing; six carloads from the transportation unit, including ten Ford Camionettes and supplies.

PROTEST FOR ARMENIA.

Bishops Ask President to Prevent Cutting Off Sea Outlet.

Aroused over the report that the peace conference had tentatively decided upon cutting off Armenia from the sea, seventy-five bishops of the American Episcopal Church have telegraphed a protest to the President against the proposed arrangement, which, they declare, is contrary to the assurances that they were given by the President. They urge him to take the necessary steps to prevent the powers from carrying out "the proposed act of injustice" against Armenia. The collective message to the President has been signed by Bishop Burch of New York and Bishop Rhinelander of Pennsylvania. It reads in part as follows:

"To the President, Washington, D. C.

"Seventy-five bishops of the American Episcopal Church join us in the following message: We learn with deep concern that contrary to assurances given by you and also on behalf of the American Peace Mission, the peace conference has tentatively decided on depriving Armenia of her rightful and essential outlet on the Mediterranian. The proposed arrangement robs Armenia of what historically, politically and economically is hers and makes of her a petty Asiatic State, surrounded on all sides by Moslem races. To live, we believe Armenia must have means of direct contact with the Western world. We therefore respectfully urge that the United States Government take the necessary steps to prevent the carrying out of the proposed act of injustice against Armenia."

James W. Gerard, Chairman of the American Committee for the Independence of Armenia, gave out the telegram yesterday.

STRANGE MURDER IN STORE

Manager of a Butler Grocery Shot Seven Times with Two Pistols.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Thomas Keane, 55, single, manager of a James Butler grocery here, was murdered shortly before midnight last night. Seven bullets of two different calibres were fired into his body. Whether he was an object of enmity or was shot down while defending his employer's money against robbers is uncertain. No one heard the shots and the police are without clues.

Mrs. George Dought, who lives over the grocery, bought a peck of potatoes from Keane shortly after 10 o'clock. Soon after she had gone up stairs she heard a scuffle beneath and cries in a voice that she recognized as Keane's. Her husband and his brother ran down and found Keane lying on his back on the floor. The front of his coat was afire, but it was not until half an hour later when Dr. Heber Hancock came, that it was learned that the man had been shot. It was thought he had fainted, and that his coat had been set afire by tobacco from his pipe which lay on the floor near him.

In his pocket, untouched, was $200, representing the day's receipts. A Butler store in Greenwich, Conn., near here, was robbed last Wednesday night and the main store here was robbed on Friday night.

IMPORTANT!

A report has been circulated to the effect that Robinson's store has been leased over their heads. This report is absolutely untrue and has no justification! Not only will Robinson's continue to occupy their present site, but, to the contrary, they have obtained the consent of the landlord and the city to make extensive alterations, both external and internal, which will materially enlarge and improve the store.

BRIMBERGS Coats and Suits That Leading Stores Feature in the NEWSPAPERS

at a price is an accomplishment which stands fully in the limelight of Brimberg coat and suit success. It is one of the important features which has won for us the friendship of the leading retailers of the big cities.

These merchants know by past experience that Brimberg quality makes permanent customers out of one-time shoppers. Offer price inducements—but fill the bill with quality—by featuring Brimberg's coats and suits.

Let us show you how you can do it and profit while it's being done!

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Recovery of European Exchanges Viewed as Event of the Far Future.

Considered together, the great fall of the foreign exchanges last week and the frank comment by Secretary of the Treasury Glass on the situation abroad, were of a sort perhaps to revise some ideas of an early improvement of the international situation of finance. Secretary Glass in his letter to the President of the United States Chamber of Commerce went considerably further than did Herbert Hoover in his recent discussion of European needs. Mr. Glass would have the foreign Governments and peoples which desire great credit accommodation in the United States change their ideas absolutely. Hard work, the establishment of sound governmental fiscal policies, and concerted efforts to import only such goods as are absolutely necessary is the only way out in Mr. Glass's opinion and will take time. Others have made similar suggestions, dating back through last year, but the ideas were never presented so forcefully as by Mr. Glass in his letter. Evidently the Treasury is not altogether pleased with the pressure coming from many sources abroad to have part of the European burden transferred to the United States. It came as a rather startling interruption of thought about joint efforts to relieve financial difficulties to learn in the letter that the recent spontaneous call for an international conference was surrounded by less self-interested factors in this country than in Europe. The Treasury's examination of the European "memorial" disclosed to Mr. Glass that, unlike the copy subscribed to by representative men over here, the one abroad considered proposals to have the United States Government make new loans and cancel part of the indebtedness already entailed during the war and later. It goes without saying that this information raises a question as to the good to come out of the conference. Certainly the usefulness of the meeting of international leaders in business and finance will be impaired at the start if suspicion should prevail that efforts were forward to "put something over" on this country. Our Government is now fully on record as opposed to any more loans to Europe which would add to taxes. In other words, loans by the Government itself, except for humanitarian purposes, are not to be considered. It remains, then, for European importers of American goods to use other means of acquiring credits here, including sales of securities and increases of exports to our shores. Mr. Glass included the possibility of gold shipments from the other side, but, as he himself noted, the obstacles in front of gold exports are so difficult as to make cash settlements in the metal hardly more than a remote possibility. What the Secretary of the Treasury stated and forecast the foreign exchange market helped to substantiate. Sterling below $3.50 to the pound, francs so depreciated that a dollar would buy 13.4 of them in exchange, and the mark almost at the vanishing point, told a tale of meagre balances in this country and a veritable scramble for dollars at foreign centres. Reflecting the current situation of stringent credit in America and the cumulative effect of adverse trade balances, the sharp fall of the exchanges at the same time predicted a long period before really stable quotations could be expected. The depreciation of 28 per cent. from normal for sterling at New York is quite different from a depreciation of 15 per cent. three or four months ago. Our exports continued on a vast scale down through the time that sterling was quoted at $3.70 and francs at 11.50 to the dollar, but far-sighted banking opinion is convinced that such extraordinarily low levels as those of the last few days must find early expression in the monthly commerce exhibit.

As yet the situation of our foreign trade is to be viewed separately from the trade position at home. The Steel Corporation raises the wage of common labor 10 per cent., not only to equalize income with living cost, but also to bid for an increased supply of workers at the mills. The corporation and its contemporaries in the iron and steel field have in hand so heavy an aggregate of orders that they want more hands to turn out more work. Premium prices have been quoted in the industry for some time and now the expectation prevails that numerous formal increases will be made in basic quotations before the year is much older. What is true of iron and steel seems to be the case also with textiles, building material, and certain other essentials to everyday life and growth. If foreign purchasers have already spent their force in causing high prices and a scarcity of goods, it would seem that the voracious domestic demand is filling the void. Prices have not shown any effects of efforts to reduce bank loans on commodities. From interior points came last week cheerful impressions of the year's business outlook, and it is only in regard to the probable crop yield that uncertainty exists. Whether these are surface indications only remains to be shown by the position of bank loans and the exchanges a few weeks hence.

The stock market was again governed last week by the in and out operations of professional traders, and their transactions were made cautious by the tightness of call money. Rates extending from 8 to 18 per cent. showed clearly enough that the banks were not lending any great amounts on demand, and speculators were so well assured that the supply could become more meagre that few demonstrations on upward side of prices were undertaken. The public, referring to that vast body of people who occasionally speculate but are more wont to buy stocks to hold, was neither buying nor selling. From the quiet state of business on the Stock Exchange it would be easy to make deductions either for or against the theory of a rising market a little later on. Attacks on particular issues failed to bring out extensive offerings, excepting one or two of the newer stocks, and this reflected a decision by the public to keep their shares. On the other hand, there was no response by the public when professional effort was directed toward the upbidding of motor and steel stocks.

OIL INDUSTRY EXPANSION

The consumption of oil by the refineries of the United States has increased yearly since 1912, when it amounted to 225,000,000 barrels. The 1919 consumption will exceed 400,000,000 barrels, including Mexican oil. Increase of around 80% in consumption, however, has been only partly offset by the increase in domestic production, which amounted to less than 60%.

Prices have advanced at an even more rapid rate. Thus, since 1912 Pennsylvania crude has advanced in price more than 260%, North Lima crude 200%, and Mid-Continent crude 160%.

Recent advance of crude oil prices in most of the important high-grade oil fields of the United States is indicative of the present soundness of the oil industry. It goes with the fact that the United States now provides most of the high-grade oil requirements of the entire world.

AMERICA DOUBLES EUROPEAN IMPORTS

City Bank Estimates 1919 Total at $750,000,000, Largest of Any Year Since 1914.

GREAT GAIN IN LUXURIES

Most of Business Is with Chief Allies in War, Britain, France, and Italy.

One of the surprises of 1919, the first full calendar year following the end of the war, has been the big advance in the quantity of merchandise sent to us by Europe. It had been assumed that Europe could do little in the way of exporting merchandise in the first after-the-war year, but figures compiled by the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank show that the total exported from Europe will result in an aggregate more than double that of 1918. Discussing this the bank says:

"While the details of December are not yet available, the official figures for eleven months ended with November put the imports from Europe at $853,379,000, against $292,454,000 in the same months of 1918, and partial reports for December indicate that the total from Europe in the full year 1919 will approximate $750,000,000, against $318,000,000 in 1918, and form a total larger than that of any year since 1914. The 1919 figures will apparently show an increase of about 123 per cent. over those of 1918, the closing year of the war.

"This big increase in Europe's shipments to the United States is not due in any great degree to the resumption of trade by the Central Powers. The figures for the eleven months ended with November show the total of 1919 imports from Germany but $8,000,000; Austria-Hungary, $2,000,000, and Turkey, $13,000,000. Nor is the increase from the neutrals as great as had been expected, the increase from the Scandinavian States being but about $13,000,000 and from Switzerland $8,000,000, though Spain does show a comparatively large increase, $28,000,000, and Netherlands a gain of $59,000,000.

Most of these imports, according to the bank, have been drawn by us from Great Britain, France and Italy, the three most active participants in the war among the Allies. In the eleven months ended with November merchandise imported from Great Britain amounted to $267,000,000, as compared with $140,000,000 in the corresponding 1918 period; from France the amount was $107,000,000, as compared with $56,000,000, and from Italy $52,000,000, against $23,000,000, an aggregate increase of nearly 100 per cent. Continuing, the bank says:

"This big increase in merchandise which we are drawing from Europe occurs largely in luxuries. Cotton laces and embroideries imported, chiefly of European manufacture, showed in November, 1919, $2,350,000, against $659,000 in November, 1918, and will total about $14,000,000 in the full year; diamonds and other precious stones, practically all of which are brought from Europe, chiefly from the Netherlands, showed in November, 1919, $8,433,000, against $1,459,000 in November of the preceding year, and for the full calendar year 1919 will exceed $100,000,000, against $24,000,000 in 1918; art works 100 years old and over, amounted in the eleven months ending with November, 1919, to over $12,000,000, as against a little over $4,000,000 in the same period of 1918; olive oil, of which the imports in 1918 amounted to only $450,000, was in the eleven months of 1919 $16,493,000, though it is proper to add that a very large proportion of this came from Spain, the quantity from Italy, however, advancing from $20,000 in the eleven months of 1918 to $597,000 in the corresponding period of 1919.

"Furs, drawn chiefly from the United Kingdom, amounted to $13,000,000 in the eleven months of 1919, against a little over $8,000,000 in the same months of 1918; currants, chiefly from Greece, show a total of 11,000,000 pounds in the eleven months of 1919, and 5,000,000 pounds in the same months of the preceding year; of artificial silk, chiefly European product, the imports of the eleven months of 1919 are $3,424,000, as against $205,000 in the corresponding months of 1919; pearls from France in the eleven months of 1919 are $4,594,000, against $111,000 in the same months of the preceding year, and from Great Britain $5,076,000, against $377,000 in the same months of 1918. In a few articles required for manufacturing there are also increases from Europe, raw silk from Italy $15,310,000, against $53,622 in the same months of last year, and india rubber, which England is again beginning to draw from her colonies, $23,130,000 in the eleven months of 1919, against $3,724,000 in the same months of 1918."

UPHOLDS GERMANY'S DEBTS

Berlin, Paper Denounces Independents' Suggestion of Repudiation.

BERLIN, Jan. 28.—Commenting on reports that the German nation is planning to stop paying interest on national, war and State loans, the Lokal-Anzeiger accuses the Independent Socialists of being the "wire-pullers" who are responsible. It says these rumors are an attempt to frighten the general public and come as a sequel to the failure two weeks ago of an intended uprising.

"Cancellation of interest on loans," the newspaper says, "would cause the collapse of the nation and the complete ruin of the German people. Despite the fearful financial situation, we have no reason to look hopelessly at the future if two conditions are irresistibly fulfilled by the German people—work and economy by State and individuals. Naturally they are necessary for foreign recuperation.

"France is apparently beginning to see that Germany must be kept in a position to pay her debts, since the stoppage of interest payments would bring about the financial collapse of France, too. This should be considered by the unthinking who are giving credence to reports about the stoppage of interest payments."

From a letter to us from Mr. Walter H. Cottingham, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

54-YEAR BUSINESS RECORD: The Sherwin-Williams Co. is the largest manufacturer of paints and varnishes in the world. The business was established in 1866 and in every year since then profits or dividends have been distributed. Since incorporation in 1884 common stock dividends have never been less than 8% per annum and not less than the present rate of 10% per annum for the last 21 years.

The $9,686,800 common stock now outstanding is quoted over 225, giving a market equity of about $22,000,000.

PLANTS: The principal plants are at Cleveland, Chicago, Newark and Bound Brook, N. J., Detroit, San Francisco, Boston, Dallas and Lincoln, Nebraska. The Company manufactures all of its own important raw materials. It owns and operates its own lead and zinc mines, 35 manufacturing plants, and 90 warehouses and 30 retail stores, distributing its products throughout the civilized world.

PROFITS: Net profits in 1919 were more than three times the annual dividend on this first preferred stock and for the fiscal year to August 31, 1920, are estimated at 4¼ times the dividend requirement. During the past five fiscal years they have averaged $2,726,591. In the 36 years since incorporation, average net profits have been practically 18% on the entire capitalization outstanding from time to time.

3% ANNUAL SINKING FUND: A sinking fund is provided, beginning March 1, 1923, to retire annually at least 3% of the greatest amount of First Preferred Stock issued.

NET ASSETS $206 PER SHARE: The consolidated balance sheet as of August 31, 1919, after giving effect to the present financing shows net quick assets of $125 per share of first preferred stock, and net tangible assets of $206 per share. The Company covenants to maintain at all times net quick assets of at least 110%, and net tangible assets of at least 200%, of all first preferred stock outstanding.

We offer this stock, subject to the authorization of the issue by stockholders and the approval of legal matters by our counsel

FEBRUARY, 1920

451st Monthly List of Payments to Investors

THE attention of bondholders is called to the following list of payments of principal and interest due in February on first mortgage bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan. All these bond issues are amortized by annual serial payments of principal. In addition, we require each borrower to make monthly deposits in advance from the earnings of the mortgaged property, thus automatically providing the cash to pay both interest and principal on the days due. Funds, therefore, are now ready to meet the following semi-annual interest coupons and principal maturities.

VANDERLIP PREDICTS EUROPEAN CRISIS

Food Situation Certain to be Extreme Before Harvest, Banker Tells Forum.

POLITICAL OUTLOOK BAD

Believes United States Should Aid Foreign Nations—Conceives Revolt in Germany.

Basing his predictions on economic factors which he said were clearly observable, Frank A. Vanderlip, former President of the National City Bank, said last night that dire times were near for Europe. With countries on the other side of the Atlantic facing an inflated currency and an unwillingness on the part of other nations to extend credit to them, he said, there was reason to believe the present crisis would be more acute. Mr. Vanderlip believed the United States, as the only solvent country in the world, should have the ability to assume world leadership. What the world needed was moral leadership, he maintained, and it was practically up to us to aid in the rehabilitation of the other countries.

Mr. Vanderlip, who spoke on "Europe and America" before the Community Church Forum in Public School 27, Third Avenue and Forty-second Street, said that when he assumed the rôle of a prophet last year on his return from Europe he was termed a pessimist. The march of events since then substantiated his predictions as to what was going to happen on the other side, he said.

"Appalling Situation."

"The same conditions are present now, except they point to a worse condition," he said. "The food situation in Central Europe is certain to become extreme between now and the next harvest. There is an appalling situation just ahead in Poland, Austria and Armenia. The political outlook is portentous. Look at Germany, with her indefinite indemnities, disorganized politically. Then there is Poland, hungering, without the means of obtaining credit to alleviate this want, presenting the possibilities of a political revolution.

"It is conceivable that there will be a political revolution in Germany, Bolshevist in character, which will hold out a friendly hand to Soviet Russia. What we should have done nine years ago to remedy all this trouble was to make loans, but not through the Government. I say this because our Government has loaned $10,000,000,000 to nations which think they ought not to pay it back. And there is something to be said on their side, too, as many of them can't pay it back."

Mr. Vanderlip went into detail to explain how inflation was brought about through the printing of paper money not backed by reserve. He traced the credit system from its earliest beginning to the present time and showed how credits had been expanded to the breaking point. Here in America the expansion had not quite reached the limit allowed, he said, but the effect of the increases was the basis of the high cost of living. He declared that this country should take note of the results of over-expansion and not bring about a similar crisis here.

Tells Views of Soviets.

After his address Mr. Vanderlip answered questions by people in the audience, in which the radical element seemed to prevail. Asked what he thought of the Soviet Government and the embargo on Russia, the banker replied that he had a horror of the Lenin régime, but thought the people in Russia had a right to try it out if they saw fit. He doubted the wisdom of outsiders attempting to starve them while they tried out the experiment. He said it should be remembered that Europe could not be on solid ground without the granary of Russia.

Answering another questioner, Mr. Vanderlip said recognition of the Soviet Republic was conceivable, but the world was waiting for that régime to become a human, decent organization. Mr. Vanderlip told his listeners that those in power in Russia at present had to give up many of their communistic theories to placate the peasants, who insisted on owning the land on which they lived and wanted a title to it. He said ownership of land by more than six million French peasants was one of the reasons he doubted Bolshevism would make much headway in France.

OFFERS A $20,000 PRIZE FOR SIGN TO A PLANET

French Academy of Sciences to Decide Winner — Einstein Would Use Rays of Light.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The Academy of Sciences evidently considers communication between the earth and the planets as among the possibilities, for it has undertaken to act as judge for a prize of 100,000 francs to be given for the best means of making a sign to a heavenly body and the receipt of a reply. It has been the custom of the Academy to refuse to handle prizes for any feat which it considers a mere waste of time.

"Until a solution is obtained," says the Academy's announcement, "the interest on the prize money will form a prize for scientists making the greatest progress in knowledge of the planets and their relation to the earth."

LONDON, Jan. 31.—Professor Albert Einstein, whose theory that gravitation deflects the rays of light has recently been the subject of considerable discussion, in an interview with The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent asserts that he believes the mysterious signals referred to by Signor Marconi as having been heard on various wireless apparatus are due either to atmospheric disturbances or to experiments with other systems of wireless.

Professor Einstein, who believes that Mars and other planets are inhabited, added that if intelligent creatures on other planets tried to communicate with the earth he would expect them to use rays of light, which could be much more easily controlled.

ACQUIRES GERMAN BUSINESS

Belgian Syndicate Takes Over the Tietz Universal Provider.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The business of the Tietz Universal Provider of Belgium has been acquired by an all-Belgian syndicate.

Tietz was a German enterprize founded by a Cologne merchant about twenty years ago. Its central office and store is in Brussels, with branches in Antwerp and Liege. A few weeks ago the Belgian courts were considering a legal application for compulsory transfer of the business to Belgian hands, on the ground that both before and during the war the resources of the firm had been directed toward an anti-Belgian policy and undue control by the Germans of an important section of Belgian commercial activity.

The business is valued at several millions of francs.

ALLEGES IMMENSE PROFITS.

Labor Chairman Asserts War Gains of 9,000 Per Cent. Were Made.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—War profits of 9,000 per cent. and more were made in 1917 by a number of great corporations in the United States, according to Senate Document No. 259, said Max S. Hayes of Cleveland, National Chairman of the Labor Party of the United States, to delegates to the First Annual Convention of the Michigan branch of the party at the Hotel Pontchartrain last night.

Hayes said copies of the document had been issued only to the Senators, that it was out of print and not available to the public.

Figures quoted by Hayes credited 404 coal companies, capitalized at $175,000,000, with having made profits of $75,000,000 in 1917. One mining company, he said, made 7,856 per cent. profit. Other figures quoted charged that meat packers made 4,244 per cent. profit; fruit and vegetable canners, 2,032 per cent.; woolen mill operators, 1,770 per cent.; furniture makers, 3,295 per cent.; clothing and dry goods manufacturers, 9,826 per cent.

"The masses were simply plundered in the production of war materials," Hayes charged. "Organized labor was denied a voice in production management until the machinery of production broke down. Then labor was called on, and the greatest production in history resulted."

The past political impotence of American working men he attributed to their blindness in fighting each other through the ranks of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

In closing, Mr. Hayes said no compromise with old line parties would be entertained. He warned that Democrats and Republicans alike would offer liberal planks in their platforms as bait.

"Be on your guard against the crocodile tears of the plutocrats when they see how strong we are going," he warned.

A demand that return of the railroads to private management be postponed for at least two years is one of the convention's resolutions.

The convention closed today.

HEDLEY SEES I. R. T. DEFICIT ON JUNE 30

Estimates Total Revenue for First Six Months of Year Will Be $26,800,000.

$3,210,400 MORE NEEDED

Has Taken Into Consideration the Present Heavy Increase in Travel, He Says.

Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, made public yesterday an estimate of the income of the railroad up to June 30, which, he said, demonstrated the inability of the company to meet its obligations. The estimate took into consideration the present heavy increase in travel, the income from which, the officers of the company believe, will be $2,264,000 greater than for the same six months last year.

This passenger revenue, added to its other sources of revenue, will give the company an estimated total during the period of $26,800,000, according to Mr. Hedley. Out of this money must be met all the expenses for operation and maintenance, together with taxes and interest on its debts and rentals, a grand total of $23,859,900, leaving a balance of $2,940,100. Mr. Hedley's statement continues:

"On June 30 the company must meet the interest and sinking fund on its 5 per cent. bonds, requiring $5,010,000, together with the rental for the use of the Manhattan property of $1,050,000, with interest on the Manhattan Company's second mortgage, requiring $90,500, or a total disbursement for interest and rental on June 30 of $6,150,500, which payment if not made would result in a default, and, as herein shown, the company will be short in the sum of $3,210,400, assuming that all current obligations already incurred, recited above, have been met.

"On June 30 the company is also obligated to pay the principal and interest of the $2,000,000 note issue made on Dec. 31 last, which represents the amount of money borrowed to weather the crisis of Jan. 1, 1920. It is expected that the contemplated auction sale of real estate will take care of a substantial proportion of this particular debt."

BASES CREDIT ON MORALS.

Dr. Taylor Says South America Needs Education to Get Trade.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Reconstruction of the moral foundation in South America is necessary if business men of the United States are to trade successfully there, declared Dr. S. Earl Taylor of New York, at today's session of the Laymen's National Conference. Pioneers went to South America "for gold, not for God," he said, and as a result there was a lack of moral foundation which made large credit, such as would be necessary to big business, impossible. Educational institutions, supported by the missionary boards of the churches, were offered by Dr. Taylor as the most vital factor in overcoming the moral delinquencies.

"The entire group of twenty Latin-American countries spends only as much on education of all kinds as the city of New York spends on its schools," he asserted. "We can plant as many schools and fill as many as we can provide schools and teachers for."

During the afternoon session, Lyman L. Pierce, of San Francisco, announced that organization of thousands of men and women who will aid in raising the $1,320,000,000 budget of the inter-church world movement was already under way.

"The only way it can be put over is to take the American people into our confidence," he said. "We propose to take the people into our confidence, to answer their questions and answer their criticisms."

Lebaudy English Estate $7,500,000

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Announcement is made that the net value of the estate of Jacques Lebaudy in England has been fixed by the Probate Court at £1,570,000. Lebaudy was shot and killed by his wife at their home, near Mineola, N. Y., on Jan. 12, 1919. Madame Lebaudy was later exonerated by the jury.

SUSPICION AMONG WORKERS

Propaganda Tends to Reduce Production—Fair Distribution of Goods Necessary.

If the world is to be brought back to anything like a normal economic condition, production must be increased and consumption must be decreased, according to the February circular of the National City Bank. This applies, says the circular, especially to America, where there is underproduction and a growing inefficiency among producers. In analyzing the situation, the circular says:

"A state of underproduction exists all around the industrial circle, due largely to labor discontent, and the effect is to make the cost of living higher and cause more discontent. There is much complaint from employers that higher per diem wages and a shorter day are accompanied by reduced production per hour. A widespread, persistent, well-financed campaign of propaganda is being carried on to instill suspicion and discontent among the workers. Wage increases, of course, accomplish nothing in the face of diminishing production.

"An actual scarcity of necessary goods exists the world over today, which means that the average consumption per individual must be less. It follows that the person who insists at this time upon having as much for consumption as in normal times is insisting upon more than his share of the existing supply. It is something more than a question between employers and employed; it is a question of fair distribution of the consumable goods.

"The whole argument that wages must be advanced to cover rising costs of living, although plausible, is fallacious, because it assumes that each individual is entitled to have as much as though there were a full supply. The effect of raising wages under such conditions is to increase the demands upon the limited supply of goods and raise prices.

"There are two remedies for the situation, and only two, viz.: (1) personal economy; let every person reduce his purchases as much as possible; (2) increased production: let every person do his part in his own way to relieve the existing shortage and get the world back into easy conditions again.

"So far as strikes are concerned, the general situation has been better since the settlement of the coal strike. No large bodies of men are out at the present time and there is reason to hope that an appreciation of the common interest in stable conditions is influencing the leaders to more conservative and constructive policies."

WAR ART ESCAPED FIRE.

Committee Will Continue Sale for Children's Reading Rooms.

The fire in the Fine Arts Building last Friday was arrested just in time to save the records, original manuscripts and valuable books of the Book Committee of the Art War Relief, according to Miss Charlotte Barth of the committee, who yesterday investigated the damage done. Stored in the office, at the door of which the fire was stopped, are many of the original manuscripts of the stories, articles and poems contributed by Allied statesmen and men of letters to the book issued by the committee, as well as autographed copies of the picture "Allies' Day," by Childe Hassam, from which no more copies can be made. Had the fire reached these, the loss would have been irreplaceable, according to Miss Barth.

"The manuscripts included those from President Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, Galsworthy, Alfred Noyes, May Sinclair, Lord Bryce, Anatole France, G'Annunzio, Viscount Ishii, Cardinal Gibbons, Myron Herrick, and others," said Miss Barth.

"These pictures and books, which we have been selling to aid us in our effort to equip children's reading rooms in France and Belgium, will continue to be sold at the Art War Relief headquarters, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street."

TREASURY WILL CUT 700 BANKS OFF LIST

They Will No Longer Be Designated as Depositories for Federal Funds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Drastic reduction in the number of national banks designated as Government depositories is being made by the Treasury Department, with the result that less than 400 of 1,331 such institutions holding Federal funds on June 30, 1919, are expected to survive.

Changes in the Government's financial situation, brought about by war operations, it was said officially today, have made it necessary to abolish these depositories and revise the distribution of Government moneys.

While the Treasury is cutting off the inactive accounts, it also is reducing the balances carried in all banks where Government transactions do not require the use of large sums.

"Scientific apportionment," it is said, will be the basis in the future for disposition of surplus funds. The new policy would operate so that each bank would be able to realize equal returns on the basis of business done for the Government, officials said.

Included in the list of banks already struck off are 568 which had accounts of only $1,000. Outstanding balances have been reduced from $52,000,000 to $27,000,000. Officials were reticent today as to the geographical location of the canceled depositories.

The new policy does not contemplate disturbance of the present system of special depositories which was created as a war emergency measure. There was a total of 9,550 of these institutions at the first of the year. They automatically will cease to function when their usefulness ends, but so long as the war program of financing "hangs over" it is understood they will be retained.

With the establishment of the Federal Reserve banks and branches, Governments payments have been made and more through them and abolishment of the National bank depositories therefore represents a further leaning of the Treasury on the Reserve banks in carrying the nation's business.

In withdrawing the deposits from inactive account and in reducing the balances in all banks, officials point out, the diffference in interest is saved.

There still are in Congress many Senators and Representatives on whose recommendations the depositories were designated and these are very solicitous about the banks "back home," Treasury officials said.

LESS JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

New York Children Better Cared For, Justice Hoyt Reports.

Presiding Justice Franklin Chase Hoyt of the Children's Court in his annual report filed with the Secretary of State and the Mayor said in part:

"There were 13,627 cases of individual children brought before the court during 1919. This is a decrease of 358 under 1918, when 13,985 children were dealt with. The following table shows at a glance the relative number of arrests and arraignments for each year since the establishment of the new Children's Court in 1915:

Year.	Juvenile Delinq'cy.	Special Proceedings (Improper Guardianship).	Total.
1915	7,927	6,208	14,135
1916	5,970	6,455	12,425
1917	7,232	7,287	14,519
1918	7,068	6,947	13,985
1919	6,727	6,900	13,627

Commenting on these figures Judge Hoyt said: "It is curious to note that the decrease in cases of juvenile delinquency was slightly more marked than in those of improper guardianship, for higher wages and ready employment tend to reduce the number of cases caused by the neglect of the home. Possibly the high cost of living was partly responsible for this result, as many cases were reported to the court where both parents were compelled to go out and work in order to meet the expenses of the family and thus leave the children at home without any kind of care or supervision.

"In the past a great amount of neglect could be traced to drunkenness of parents, but it is too early yet to pronounce judgment on the effect of prohibition. If in the future intemperance can be eliminated it will undoubtedly result in reducing improper guardianship.

"Those who prophesied an outbreak of juvenile delinquency because of the war were fortunately mistaken. The children of our city as a whole stood the test most favorably. But they need every possible care and attention. The laws for their protection should be revised along broad progressive and humane lines to meet the needs of the present day, and every facility must be provided for their education and training."

Mrs. Rumsey to Aid Barnard Drive

Mrs. George McAneny, Chairman of the organization committee for the $500,000 fund Barnard graduates and trustees are endeavoring to raise to increase salaries of the college teaching staff, has chosen Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey of 152 East Fortieth Street as her chief assistant, it was announced yesterday.

PLAN TO GET RUSSIAN TRADE

Three Hundred American Firms to be Represented at Meeting Today.

The American Commercial Association which has been organized to promote trade with Russia, will hold its permanent organization meeting in the Grand Ball Room of the Hotel Knickerbocker this morning at 11 o'clock, when it is expected that representatives of 300 American firms will be present. That there is a great demand on the part of American business men to do business with Russia and not to be crowded out of the field by Europeans, is evidenced, according to Emerson P. Jennings, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the temporary organization, by nearly a hundred letters which he has received within the last few days urging that everything possible be done to bring about a resumption of trade. The Executive Committee will report this morning on the attitude which Secretary of State Lansing has taken toward the movement.

Commenting upon these letters, Mr. Jennings saidl ast night that many of these firms already have in hand orders from the Soviet Government, and that he had had confidential information yesterday from London that English firms are now receiving gold from Russia, that it is being deposited in London banks, and that shipments are being made against it. Moreover, he saidt ,he Soviet Government is now advertising in London papers for bids on contracts for the development of slate mines along the Volga from which oil and tar are to be extracted. These developments, he insisted, made it incumbent upon the American business man to protect his own interests and see that others do not preempt the field.

The letters are all from thoroughly American firms which are not interested, according to Mr. Jennings in the politics of Russia, but simply feel that where theer is trade to be obtained, Americans should be among the first.

Fire Damages the Kaskaskia.

A fire early yesterday morning in the hold of the United States Shipping Board wooden steamship Kaskasia, lying at the foot of Seventeenth Street, Hoboken, blazed for two hours before it was put out with the aid of hoses run along Pier 16, operated by the Scandinavian-American Line, and a fireboat from the Battery. The spray from the nozzles of the hose fell on the firemen and was almost immediately converted into ice. The Kaskasia had just come off the dry dock and was waiting at her pier to load cargo. The damage has not been estimated.

Advertising is an Investment

GOOD ADVERTISING IS NEWS

The most effective advertising is news. It is the news of life—of the things we eat and wear—of the things that give us comfort, convenience, pleasure.

A single sentence may convey the news that will create demand. A picture may express news that will arouse desire. When advertising is news it performs a public service because it helps us to live better, work better, play better. When advertising is merely platitudes and superlatives, its worth centers chiefly in the mind of its creator.

We have proved the value of news in advertising so positively and profitably that it is becoming of more and more interest to many discerning advertisers, who make advertising a profitable investment.

"Put it up to men who know your market."

BUILDING MATERIAL SHORTAGE TO WANE

Many Manufacturing Centres Report Plans to Throw In Extra Capacity.

PRICES NEAR TOP NOW

Financiers Ready to Place Building Money Only In Stabilized Market.

Projectors of new building operations or alterations to existing buildings are being urged by all disinterested analysts to waste no time in getting their material specifications into manufacturers' hands if they contemplate getting their work under way and well toward completion by the Spring of 1921.

Developments favoring such counsel featured the week just closed and unquestionably point the way to a prompt adjustment of many of the problems that have made the outlook for building construction dubious.

In the matter of car shortage, influences were brought to bear upon the Railroad Administration at Washington by powerful commercial interests of New York and elsewhere resulting in the imparting of a general feeling that the present Government control would automatically cease in about four weeks, when independent railroad competition would solve, in great measure, the difficulties now making for car shortage.

This matter has a direct bearing upon the brick distribution in New York now, and it affects the great shipments of upper Hudson brick that are being sent by rail into the New England markets. Important brick interests have complained of unequal car distribution, but the inference is that this will be one of the quickest points of adjustment within another six weeks.

Manufacturers of building material in almost every department promise a gradual change in the famine conditions pertaining to building material supply. In another six weeks, at the outside, they say, the flow of materials to this market will begin to approximate the maximum known in 1912.

It is a certainty that efforts to produce building materials in greater quantities than ever have been known, at least in a quarter of a century, are already being made. Common labor supply in building material industry is greatly improved, permanency of employment and assurance of a long period of prosperity in the building industry being the dominant reasons for the change in the labor supply.

Capacity that has not been employed in a generation is being made available for market needs while the price peak is present, the feeling being general that inflation in raw building material values has about reached its maximum. According to the Dow Service Daily Building Reports, it does not now seem probable that common brick will go above $26 wholesale, which, with the usual charge for handling, hauling and 15 per cent., makes the present price of this commodity delivered below 110th Street about $31 a thousand. There is about 150,000,000 still available in the Hudson valley for New York consumption, which is ample for the immediate requirement.

The cement mills are extremely active in production. Timber cuts in the West are breaking all previous records, and the same is true of Canada. From forty-two forest rangers the indications are that 325,000,000 feet will be cut this season, which exceeds the record made in Nov. 15 to Dec. 15 last, when 100,000,000 feet were cut. There is now only 15 per cent. of the country's available structural steel shop capacity left. The next fire of the glass mills will schedule a greater volume of production than probably ever has been made.

The big problem is to book the year's potential business as quickly as possible. There is no longer any need to fear further general price boosts, and neither is there anything to be gained by waiting for price recessions. The latter cannot occur for many years to come—probably five; maybe seven, but seem to nine. Figures say that no matter what occurs in the investment markets, the demand for new building and better housing conditions is so great that any possible financial disturbance in the Street would result in federal action being demanded to make building an essential industry.

The worst effect that trained observers in finance say they see in a readjustment of the financial situation is that there would be a shift from industrial and commercial construction to dominance in housing, hotel, tenement, and apartment building. Building material market experts declare that if all construction were suddenly shifted from commercial and industrial to housing, hotel, tenement, and apartment building, there still would be a demand sufficient to take care of 65 per cent. of the capacity of the building material plants of that part of the country east of the Mississippi, which is about 20 per cent. more than these same plants, taken as a whole, will be able to operate this year with the supply of common labor as low as it was in the Autumn of 1919.

Strikes are as much out of place at this time in the building industry as is a disposition of the building material manufacturers to continue price advances. This has become so acute that the New Jersey building material distributers who have been strike victims for some time have declared open shops and the steel erectors have followed suit in New York.

The brick layers are still on strike while all other labor scales, generally speaking, have become stabilized at $8. Investors frankly say they can go no further in view of the growing uncertainty regarding the immediate future of the investment market and the statement is freely made that unless stability comes pretty soon, there will be ample cause for refusing to consider building loan proposals.

ASSAILS TRAINING BILL.

Borah Says He Fears It Will Be the Beginning of Militarism.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho made public today an attack upon legislation for universal military training in the United States. He advocated that greater attention be given to physical training in the schools, but without the militaristic features included. The Senator referred also ti the investigation into the courts-martial system during the war and predicted that when the real facts were published that mothers and fathers fould join in agreeing that they did not want their boys sent to military camps.

"Universal military training," said Senator Borah, "will add an additional charge to the taxpayers of the country of from $700,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 a year. Only the most imminent necessity would justify adding this additional expense. That necessity does not, it seems to me, exist. But aside from the question of taxes I have come to the conclusion that we do not want and do not need universal military training in this country. Militarism is just the same in a republic as it is anywhere else, as we have found out. Universal military training and conscription in time of peace are the taproots of militarism. I do not want to see the young men of this country put into military camps under the harsh and sometimes brutal dominance which characterizes militarism. There isn't in this war anything more cruel and intolerable than the treatment which the court-martial proceedings disclosed in our army."

DENIES FARMERS PROFITEER

Agriculture Department Declares Accusations Against Iowa rProducers Untrue.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Department of Agriculture today asserted that published stories to the effect that the farmers of Iowa are "profiteers" were untrue, and that there had been much misrepresentation of the situation of the farmers in the public print.

Building up its defense of the farmers, the department made special reference to a newspaper article which dealt at some length with land values in Iowa.

"The impression is created all through the article," says the department, "that the high prices of food are caused by the high prices of land. The fact is, however, that the prices of food rose and the rise in land values followed. The further fact is that if the Government were to take from the Iowa farmers by taxation nearly all of the net earnings of farm lands, as single taxers advocate, prices of farm products would still be as high as they are now, unless lowered by some other cause. If prices of farm products were to any degree lower than they are they would be entirely out of line with the prices of other products.

"In the light of the almost universal prevalence of what might be called profiteering, the Department of Agriculture thinks it is unfortunate to single out as a profiteer the farmer—the man who sells his goods in an open market characterized by intense competition and so far as the farmer himself is concerned, from any element of monopoly of price control.

"There can be no question, the department believes, that the recent increase in the price of Iowa farm lands is unfortunate. The land economics specialists of the department say, however, that the increase was an inevitable result of the present industrial system, and that the farmers were no more to blame for it than any other class of people."

RADIO PHONE CALL CARRIES 900 MILES

Conversation Between Ossining and Chicago Heard Distinctly by New Wireless Method.

WAR DISCOVERY IMPROVED

De Forest Laboratories Experiment with Low Waves and Smaller Power.

The De Forest laboratories of Highbridge announced yesterday that during the past thirty days wireless telephone conversations have been carried on between Ossining and Chicago, a distance of some 900 miles, as well as with cities and towns in Indiana, Ohio, Western New York, and South Carolina, with the use of a small aerial, a low wave length, and power of only one-third of one kilowatt. Robert F. Gowen, engineer in charge of the De Forest Radio Company station at Ossining, said that the success during the last month, in the face of all sorts of weather difficulties, was ascribable to a new type of modulating circuit and the use of a new glass in the De Forest audion—a device which earned for that particular kind of apparatus the term of "bottled wireless."

After asserting that the experiments pointed to the elimination of expensive, high-powered generators and telling how he had worked entirely on the 375-meter amateur wave length, Mr. Gowen said:

"The effect of the new circuit is to render the voice transmission much clearer, while the use of a new type of glass permits of much greater input circuit in the development of the wireless power.

"It is further interesting to note that all my experiments are being conducted on a comparatively low wave length—that is to say, the special amateur wave lengths permitted by the Government regulations. In addition, the experiments show that the distance between Ossining and Chicago is covered with only one-third of the energy of which the De Forest oscillion or oscillating audion is capable of developing. In other words, with only one-third kilowatt of input energy in a single tube we are enabled to talk without wires from New York to Chicago.

"The new apparatus is a development, in large part, of the splendid improvements made on radio apparatus during the war. At that time radio experts were able to talk from airplane to the ground and from ship to ship for only a few miles.

"We have been able to talk over a distance of 900 miles, but we have today reached the commercial development of the wireless telephone under all conditions. I should say, for a distance of at least 300 miles, that is, a service identical with the long distance telephone.

"The experiments in question have been conducted night after night since Jan. 1, and through the most severe static interference. There has also been tremendous interference from other stations, and yet in spite of all this when I picked up the telephone transmitting apparatus at Ossining and spoke into it, just as any one might speak into the ordinary telephone, I discovered that my voice was being distinctly heard first of all in the little town of St. Mary's, Ohio. The radio amateur at St. Mary's, it seems, was at that time picking up local dots and dashes, and when he heard this voice from out of the air, the sending location of which was reported to be Ossining, N. Y., he was, to say the least, somewhat startled. He immediately answered by sending me a telegraph inquiry which I distinctly heard in my own receiving apparatus. I then repeated my conversation to him and asked him to confirm the conversation immediately letter. This he did.

"In the same way on other evenings following this initial performance my wireless telephone voice, it appeared, thrown into the 'bottle' at Ossining, was immediately picked up at Columbia City, Ind., and afterward by other amateur stations at Salem, Ohio., Gaffney, S. C., Wakefield, Mass., and Chicago. In each case the local operator, as one of them has written me, 'nearly tumbled out of his chair,' when in his ordinary local radio work he suddenly heard a voice from the wilderness of New York.

"In no case was any advance information given that I was to talk by wireless, so that those receiving the message were not on the lookout for the messages."

Mr. Gowen, who is one of the engineers of the DeForest Laboratories at New York, is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Dr. DeForest in commenting upon these experiments said:

"Mr. Gowen's work is beyond all question a world's record, and gives an inkling of the wonders which await the widespread introduction of radio telephone communication through the medium of small power apparatus."

Every Day Tragedies!

How to safeguard your family's "tomorrow"

THE three following instances are selected from a considerably greater number, all of which came within the casual experience of one friend of ours.

The Misses N . . . . of Detroit, inherited a competence. Acting on well-intentioned advice, they invested in real estate. The bottom fell out of a boom. These two girls now work for a rather meager living.

At 25, "B. C." of St. Louis, inherited a comfortable fortune. Within five years he had seen a "sure thing" in three separate enterprises. Each took part of his fortune. At 30 he was obliged to sell his valuable library to pay room-rent.

Mrs. L . . . . of New York received $60,000 in life insurance. It took her three perfectly honest, but not too competent, sons but a few years to lose it all in personal business ventures. She now "visits" with relatives.

You have observed similar cases in your own experience. Picture them as applied to your own family. Don't you then personally feel the need of foresighted safety measures?

As a simple but secure financial safeguard, we suggest to you

A COLUMBIA TRUST FUND
for safeguarding the money you leave

The plan is this:

1. A Columbia Trust Fund is simply money set aside under the protection of the Columbia Trust Company and invested with the judgment of trained experts to provide periodical income for definite objects.
2. Life insurance or any other money may be used to form the Trust Fund. We are bound by a written agreement to carry out your wishes definitely and absolutely.
3. We will make investments of the Trust Fund for you in such securities as are lawful for Trustees, or, if you prefer, you can give us definite instructions to follow.
4. Income from the Trust Fund will be paid in installments to whom you wish and when you wish and in the amount you wish.

You can take up this matter at any one of our offices. The Vice-President or Manager in charge will be glad to talk to you personally and promptly. Of course, there is no obligation on your part.
